Everyone has a unique way of studying. Some like it quiet and alone, others need noise. We asked students what they have found to be their time-tested way to study. Here's what a few of them said.

"I get a bunch of students to come to my house and have a group study. It helps me because the pressure comes from others to stay awake and keep studying."

Rhonda Wills junior, psychology

"I go to the library with a supply of Vivarin and a stick of deodorant."

Eric Ventura sophomore, finance

"I put studying off until the last minute and then cram. If I study too much I seem to do bad on the exam. I try to keep up during the semester so that I don't have to study too much for the final."

Steve Scott senior, building construction

A

"It has to be quiet and I must be alone. I don't really like to study in the library. I love to snack while I'm studying!"

Amy Liska senior, speech communications

"It depends on whether the final is cumulative or not. If it is, I stay at the library until I die. If it is noncumulative, I study as if I would for a test during the semester."

Damon Arhos junior, journalism

"I usually study some for all my subjects the week before finals, and then I concentrate on one test at a time the week of finals."

Lee Crews senior, secondary education
