insurance issue through Monday: AUSTIN (AP) — The role law-yers play in settling workers' com-BURĞLARY: pensation claims should be curtailed and benefits paid to injured workers should be improved, according to recommendations by the staff of a special legislative committee. Rep. Richard Smith, co-chairman of the Joint Select Committee on Workers' Compensation Insurance, said he expects the panel to vote on the staff report's 55 proposed recommendations at a meeting Friday. Smith, R-Bryan, said he and co-chairman Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, agreed to seek a vote on the staff recommendations as a package rather than a vote on each separate proposal. Large increases in workers' compensation insurance rates during the past several years and complaints that Texas workers aren't compensated as well as those in other states led to creation of the study commit-Its report will go to the Legis-lature in January and is expected to be one of the key issues to be handled by lawmakers in the 1989 ses-The committee's staff and consultants, in a 27-page draft report sub-mitted for committee action, put to-gether a number of reforms they said were designed to restore worker and employer confidence in the system, improve benefits and reduce the need for lawyers.

Among the proposals:

Establish the state Industrial Accident Board as the principal arbiter of disputes and claims from injured workers. Most such disputes are resolved by the board's staff, but an unsatisfied worker can still go to district court with a trial in which the board's findings are irrelevant. The report says any appeals to courts should instead be based on the record developed at the accident

• Changing the basis for calculating benefits to more closely reflect how much money an injured worker has lost in wages. Boost the maximum weekly benefit to the full state average weekly wage, which now is about $416. The current system pays just over half the average wage of $238.
