Student-parent program provides needed support

By Andrea L. Warrenburg
REPORTER

The rigors of attending a large university definitely are not child's play. And Texas A&M students who do double duty as parents face extra strains. Students with Children is there to help.

Students with Children is a support group established to help student parents deal with the problems they face.

The group, which was recognized by the University in 1987, was founded by then-student parent Rachel Kennedy.

"People are unaware how different our problems are compared to traditional students," Kennedy said. "For example, studying on the weekends even can become a problem because children don't understand why you need to be left alone for a few hours."

The group consists of married couples, single men and women, and divorcees who want to continue their education.

Baby-sitting is the major concern of the group.

"Professors don't realize when they assign group projects it may be a problem for some students to get on campus to meet with the group," Kennedy said.

"Especially for parents who find it hard to find a babysitter twice a week." The group has offered a baby-sitting co-op in the past where members volunteer to baby-sit for one another who have an exam or just want to get off.

"We want to make the University aware of the problem of baby-sitting for some students," Dharam Ahluwalia, vice-president of the group, said. "Maybe someday a campus care service will be possible. The idea is to keep the family together and parents can see their children for a few minutes between classes."

Interested individuals can call Ahluwalia for more information at 8547 or Regina Ahluwalia at 2895.

Commission assesses fees for racetracks

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Racing Commission on Monday set a total of $1.8 million in first-year fees for the three counties authorized for greyhound racetracks.

That includes $460,000 each in Cameron and Nueces counties, and $880,000 in Galveston County. The amount is figured as 0.5333 percent of revenue in the first year of operation as estimated by the comptroller. Each county may have one track.

The commission said it will consider setting fees in future years based on actual track revenue. The $1.8 million was estimated as the greyhound section's share of the amount needed to finance commission activities.

"It's going to cost us a lot of money to go through that licensing application," and also regulating tracks, Hilary Doran Jr., commission chairman, said.

Veterinary practices and drug-testing rules for tracks also were approved for publication in the Texas Register, and the need for clarification of the commission's authority over non-pari-mutuel tracks was discussed.

Paula Carter, legal counsel for the commission, said commission rules currently say the panel can bar a horse from pari-mutuel racing if it has participated in unregistered, non-pari-mutuel racing. She said she will ask the attorney general whether the commission also can impose civil penalties.

In the proposed letter to Attorney General Jim Mattox, member Demarius Frey said, "I want him to get the picture of the dens that will be created without control, that the people who cannot get an occupational license will be attracted to those areas and that it will be more or less a cockfight atmosphere."

The commission also approved eight tracks that applied for non-pari-mutuel racing. They are Trinity Meadows Raceway Inc. near Dallas; La Bahia Downs in Goliad; Pineywood Downs in Nacogdoches; Manor Downs near Austin; Lubbock Downs; Bandera Downs Inc.; Ross Downs in Colleyville and G. Rollie White Downs in Brady.

Doran also sent a letter to the attorney general asking whether the commission has the authority to allow simulcasting, which is allowing bets to be placed at tracks on races televised from other locations.

"Some of the commissioners had said that they'd rather have the attorney general rule on it before they went into a discussion on the rules," Doran said. He said he's confident the commission can do so.

Simulcasting would be good for track owners and for the betting public, Doran said.

"Why should somebody in San Antonio have to drive all the way to Dallas to see a horserace, when they could go out to the racetrack in San Antonio and view it there?" he said.
