A&M Greeks raise $1,100 for charity during Greek Week

By Holly Beeson
REPORTER

Texas A&M Greeks are donating $1,100, all profits made during Greek Week, to the Brazos County United Way.
Charles Goodman, Interfraternity Council adviser, said Greek Week more than doubled its $500 goal.
"We decided to contribute to United Way because the money will help a lot of people and organizations in the Brazos community," he said.
United Way allocates money to people such as the elderly and handicapped, and to organizations including the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the Brazos Valley Food Bank and Rape Crisis Center.

Much of the money came from T-shirt sales, chapter donations and the community.
Business establishments such as The Edge, The Zephyr Club, Petal Patch and Subway Sandwiches contributed money to help sponsor Greek Week.
This is the first year for Greeks to contribute to United Way. Goodman is advising Student Government to initiate an organization-wide program within the University in an effort to give more to the charity.
