Student Government Texas A&M University

Campbell: NCAA not doing enough

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Campbell, the 1977 Heisman Trophy winner, Wednesday called on the NCAA to become relevant and said colleges should pay their student-athletes "at least $200 a month."

"The NCAA does not do enough for student-athletes," said Campbell, an All-American at the University of Texas who went on to star for the Houston Oilers and the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League.

Campbell said the governing body of college athletics should get input from former student-athletes in policy making.

"If the NCAA would say to Calvin Hill, Franco Harris, Roger Staubach, Bubba Smith, O.J. Simpson, 'We would like for you to help us structure a way to help student-athletes,' I think the NCAA would be more accepted by the general public," he said.

Campbell said the NCAA is made up of "the president of Harvard, the president of the University of Texas, the president of the University of Kansas..."

"They don't know about a boy from Tyler, Texas, who comes from a family with seven boys and four girls and no father."

Campbell, who retired prior to the 1986 NFL season, is the assistant to the vice president of student affairs at Texas. He was in New York to help commemorate the 25th anniversary of Parade's High School All-American football team.

When he was at Texas, Campbell said he received $15 a month. "Before my senior year, they cut that to $13 a month."

While he said "that was a lot of money for me at the time," he now believes athletes should receive more.

"A student-athlete is not a student," Campbell said. "I think he's an athlete. That person will eventually get an education — maybe not in four years, but eventually. It took four-and-a-half years for me to get my degree."

Although he is not in the athletic department, Campbell's current job is to insure that UT athletes keep their grades up.

"I work with them daily," he said. Besides Campbell, a number of other active and retired NFL players were on hand as Parade publisher Carlo Vittorini presented a $40,000 donation in the name of the Parade team to The Miami Project to Cure Paralysis.

Participating were Jerome Brown, Chris Carter and Keith Jackson of the Philadelphia Eagles; Anthony Carter, Minnesota Vikings; Matt Suhey, Chicago Bears; Bob Crable, New York Jets; Richard Todd, Jets and Saints; Joe Morris, New York Giants; Earl Morrall, Giants and Miami Dolphins; Calvin Hill, Dallas Cowboys; and Nick Buoniconti, Miami Dolphins.

All except Morris, Morrall and Buoniconti were named to the Parade All-American team when they were in high school.

Buoniconti received the check for The Miami Project. The former Dolphins middle linebacker has pledged to raise $20 million for the Project.

Buoniconti's son, Marc, who has been paralyzed from the chest down since suffering a broken neck playing college football, was treated at the University of Miami-Jackson Memorial Medical Center where The Miami Project is based. The Project was founded in 1985, the year Marc was injured.

Rangers benefitting from Lasorda's tip

ARLINGTON (AP) — No less an authority than Tommy Lasorda tipped the Texas Rangers on Cecil Espy.

The manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers told his good buddy, Rangers manager Bobby Valentine, that the speedy Espy was a diamond that needed polishing.

Espy was in the Dodgers' vast farm system at Vero Beach in 1982 after they acquired him from the Chicago White Sox. The talent-laden Dodgers let him go to Pittsburgh and the Rangers picked up Espy in the 1987 major league draft.

Lasorda told Valentine that Espy could be a steal.

On Tuesday night, the Rangers found out what Lasorda meant.

Espy attained the ultimate compliment. He got a standing ovation on a ground out.

The ovation followed three singles, a triple, three stolen bases, and three runs in a 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

It was the Rangers' 11th victory in 13 games this season and just another solid performance by Espy, who has 10 stolen bases, 14 runs, 17 hits, and is hitting .333.

"Cecil gets us off and flying from his leadoff position," Valentine said. "He can hurt you a lot of ways."

Milwaukee pitcher Don August, 1-3, said he has never been so frustrated trying to deal with a leadoff hitter.

"I tried a fastball, curve, and change and he got hits off all of them," August said. "He got on base, stole bases, and scored. He had just a great night. It was his night."

Espy agreed.

"It was the best game I've had as a big leaguer," Espy said. "I've never had four hits before."

Espy and August exchanged words after the fifth-inning triple.

"He threw me a purpose pitch knocking me down just before the triple," Espy said. "I think he was trying to give me something to think about. I don't think he was trying to hit me."

"Then I got the triple off him and I said something. It was no big deal."

Espy got his standing ovation from the crowd of 21,528 after he grounded out in the eighth inning.

"That made me feel good," Espy said.

August said Espy is almost unstoppable on the bases.

"He is a good base runner and I was too slow to the plate," August said. "When guys like Espy get on base it takes away from your concentration."

Milwaukee manager Tom Treblehorn said it's difficult to stop Espy once he gets on a roll.

"Espy does a nice job leading off," Treblehorn said. "He ran quicker than we can get the ball there."

Basketball, tennis stars to play sports at A&M

FROM STAFF & WIRE REPORTS

The Texas A&M men's basketball and women's tennis teams each signed another recruit for the 1989-90 season.

Basketball Coach Shelby Metcalf announced the signing of David Peterson, a 6-7 forward from St. Louis Park High School in Minneapolis. Peterson is the younger brother of Jim Peterson, formerly with the Houston Rockets and now playing with the Sacramento Kings.

Women's Tennis Coach Bobby Kleinecke announced that Tami Agassi has signed a national letter of intent to play next season with the Lady Aggies.

Agassi, currently a sophomore at Tyler Junior College — the top-ranked junior college tennis program — is the 14th-ranked singles player in the Volvo/ITCA junior college poll. Agassi is the older sister of Andre Agassi, the No. 4 player in the world and a member of the U.S. Davis Cup team.

Kleinecke said he is excited to have Tami coming to A&M. "She's a feisty player," he said. "And adding her to our roster should be good for our program all the way around. I look forward to Tami helping us in our lineup next season."

Peterson was the first player in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area to earn all-conference all four years of high school. He was named a pre-season honorable mention All-American by Street & Smith's magazine prior to his senior season.

Peterson is the fifth signing for A&M basketball, joining 6-3 guard James Cooper, 6-10 forward David Harris, 6-6 guard Darrin Terry and 6-4 guard Brooks Thompson.

Stewart, Santiago have big outings

ASSOCIATED PRESS

American League Athletics 7, Mariners 5

At Seattle, Dave Stewart improved to 4-0 and Terry Steinbach drove in three runs, leading the Oakland Athletics past the Seattle Mariners 7-5 on Wednesday.

Stewart owns the major league's best record after yielding four runs and eight hits. He struck out one and walked two in six innings before Greg Cadaret relieved. Last April, Stewart was 6-0 and has won his last 13 decisions in April.

Eric Pluck pitched 1 2/3 innings and Rick Honeycutt got two outs in the ninth before Dennis Eckersley ended the game for his fourth save.

The A's took a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Mark Langston, 2-2, on Steinbach's two-run double and added a run in the third when Carney Lansford tripled and scored on Steinbach's double.

Yankees 4, Blue Jays 2

At Toronto, John Candelaria allowed four hits over seven innings, leading the New York Yankees to a 4-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays and a sweep of the three-game series.

Candelaria, 2-1, struck out five to pass the 1,500 mark for his career. Lee Guetterman pitched the final 1 1/3 innings to earn his third save.

Jimmy Key, 2-2, took the loss. He gave up 10 hits and four runs in 6 1/3 innings.

The Yankees opened the scoring with three runs in the fourth.

Don Slaught started the rally with a two-out triple to left. Bob Brower walked and Tom Brookens drove in Slaught with a bloop single to right.

Brower went to third on Brookens single and scored on Alvaro Espinoza's single. Roberto Kelly then drove in Brookens with a double.

National League Padres 4, Giants 3

At San Francisco, Benito Santiago hit a two-run homer and drove in another run with a single as the San Diego Padres beat the San Francisco Giants 4-3.

Eric Show, 3-1, allowed four hits and three runs in 7 2/3 innings to pick up the win. Mark Davis finished up to gain his seventh save in seven appearances.

Giants reliever Craig Lefferts retired the Padres in order in the ninth to extend his streak of consecutive outs to 29. The major league record is 41, set by Jim Barr of the Giants in 1972.

Mike LaCoss walked Jack Clark with the bases loaded in the seventh inning to force in the tie-breaking run.

The Padres loaded the bases when Atlee Hammaker, 1-1, gave up a single to Gary Templeton and walks to pinch-hitter Carmelo Martinez and Tony Gwynn. LaCoss replaced Hammaker and walked Clark on a 3-1 count.

Pirates 7, Cardinals 5

At St. Louis, Rafael Belliard and Tom Prince each drove in two runs and Pittsburgh capitalized on an Ozzie Smith error for the second straight day as the Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-5.

Smith, considered the best fielding shortstop in the game, made a throwing error during a three-run rally by Pittsburgh in the fourth inning. On Tuesday night, the Pirates scored the winning runs when Smith booted a grounder with two outs in the ninth.

Bob Walk, 1-1, gave up six hits, walked six and struck out four.

Don Heinkel, 0-1, took the loss. He was a last-minute replacement for scheduled St. Louis starter Joe Magrane, who came down with the flu.
