State hears charges against appointee to insurance board

AUSTIN (AP) — A former employee of State Board of Insurance appointee Richard F. Reynolds said he was fired because he tested positive for the AIDS virus, but Reynolds denied the charge as confirmation hearings began before a Senate panel.

Reynolds, 61, told reporters his dismissal of Leonard Ingram as vice president of his Dallas tractor dealership was part of an overall staff reduction.

"The facts are he was employed about nine months after I found out he had AIDS," Reynolds said. "If I wanted to terminate an individual because he had the AIDS virus, I would've done it at the time I found out."

With 35 years financial experience, Reynolds said he could bring his talent to ensure there is a balance between insurers and consumers.

"To provide risk coverage at the most reasonable cost to consumers... you've got to have a financially sound, viable industry," he said.

After reading investigators' reports, Reynolds said, "I would agree we have been lax" in pursuing allegations of insurance fraud.

FDIC receives bids for portions of Bridge Bank

HOUSTON (AP) — Offers are mounting for portions of the former MBank system, but federal regulators say they still are hoping to sell the Deposit Insurance Bridge Bank in one piece.

"We have gotten a number of expressions in Bridge Bank on a whole-bank basis and a spin-off basis," Ken Walker, Southwest region director of the FDIC's Dallas office, said Monday. "We are maintaining a file on those."

Walker declined to name interested parties; however, a number of banks and investor groups inside and outside Texas and the United States have publicly expressed interest in at least part of Bridge Bank, the institution formed in March from 20 insolvent banks.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. assumed MBank's $15 billion in assets on March 28.

Bank holding company Sterling Bancshares has notified the FDIC of its interest in acquiring two Bridge Bank branches near Sterling's three Houston banks, said Chairman George Martinez.

Bay Area Bank & Trust in Webster also has told the FDIC of its desire to buy the two Clear Lake branches of the agency's bridge bank, if they are available.

First City Bancorp. of Texas, Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc., NCB Texas National Bank, and the Bank of Scotland, among others, are considering bids.
