Sequel to 'Annie' to premier in D.C. this December 14

NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, Annie, there will be a "Tomorrow."
"Annie 2," a sequel to the long-running Broadway musical about the world's most famous orphan, will open in New York next March after tryouts in Washington and Boston.
"This story is not really as much a sequel as it is a continuation," says Martin Charnin, lyricist and director of the original "Annie" which arrived on Broadway in April 1977 and ran for 2,377 performances.
"The new show, which is subtitled 'Miss Hannigan's Revenge,' is a Crackerjack box musical," says Charnin, who again will supply the lyrics and direction.

The original "Annie," based on the famous Harold Gray comic strip "Little Orphan Annie," ended with the imprisonment of Miss Hannigan, the villainous matron who ran the orphanage, and the adoption of Annie by the wealthy Daddy Warbucks.

"In 'Annie 2,' which takes place six weeks after the original, Miss Hannigan is still in prison," Charnin says. "Her one dream is to wreak havoc on Annie and get revenge. She succeeds in doing just that. But there are many other complications that will keep you on the edge of your seat, I hope."

Rehearsals begin in October, with a first performance Dec. 14 at Washington's Kennedy Center Opera House where the musical will play seven weeks, says Charnin.

It will then play Boston, probably at the Shubert Theater, for four weeks, before coming to Broadway March 8, 1990. A New York theater has not been booked.

week on the band. "We try to overkill everything," said James. "If you don't put out 100% every time, you might get caught with your pants down and miss out on an opportunity."

This focus and drive to succeed is so strong that it has united this band despite what others might see as a possible source of conflict — Haggerty and Duran were once married to one another, and then divorced before either joined the band.

However, says Haggerty, this is not a problem. "At first, it was awkward," he said. "But Becky and I are both professional musicians, and when we're in the band, she's back-up and I'm keyboards. It's a good goal to suppress your pride when the end result is a good band."

Their memberships in the band are not the only ones that seem unusual. Jackson took a different route as well. After an aborted attempt at college, Jackson did a four-and-a-half-year stint in the Marines. Deciding that was not for him, he got a degree from University of Texas (San Antonio) and is now teaching high in the Edgewood district of San Antonio.

Jackson and James, a bank employee by day, share a common vision of what the band wants to accomplish. Jackson said, "Derek and I both feel that we have something to say. Pop stars attain an instant credibility — we want to get to that level where people listen to what we have to say."

ROAD TRIPS

Soul artists perform in 'Superfest' Saturday

Some of the hottest names in soul/rhythm & blues and rap music will be performing in the "Budweiser Superfest," which will be held in the Houston Summit Saturday night at 7:30.

New Edition and Karyn White and rap stars Kool Moe Dee, Guy and M.C. Hammer will be the featured artists.

This year marks the 10th annual "Superfest" tour, which is sponsored by Budweiser to promote minority performing artists. The tour's shows have received excellent responses.

At press time, a limited number of tickets were still available, and will be offered for sale at the Summit box office prior to the performance. Those interested in attending should call 1-800-888-7575 after 1 p.m. Saturday to confirm the number of tickets remaining.

The Summit is located on Hwy. 59 South in Houston between Edloe and Wesleyan.

For more information call the Summit at (713) 961-9003.

IN ADVANCE

Free concert in Central Park Saturday

The College Station Parks & Recreation Department will hold its second free "Concert in the Park" Saturday from 7 p.m. until 11 p.m. in College Station's Central Park.

Performing in the park will be Alpenfest, a Houston-based group noted for their performances at the Bavarian Gardens in Houston. The troupe also performed at the Brazos Folk Festival earlier this year.

Alpenfest will perform seven polkas, including ones of German and Bavarian origin, on authentic instruments such as accordion and an alpenhorn. They will also wear authentic costumes.

Those attending the concert are encouraged to bring lawn chairs. A concession stand will be operating on the site.

Central Park is located at 1000 Krenetap Rd. For more information call 764-3768.

A&M Lyric Arts Festival ends Monday

The Texas A&M College of Liberal Arts' Lyric Arts Festival will conclude with a program of classical music in "The Eastern Europe Tradition." The concert will be held begin Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Rudder Forum.

Featured at the event will be the Penderecki Quartet, a string ensemble from Warsaw, Poland, with special guest pianist Werner Rose, an A&M professor and coordinator of the A&M Music Department of the College of Liberal Arts.

The quartet will perform three selections by Sergei Rachmaninoff, Grazyna Bacewicz and Krzysztof Penderecki. Werner will then join the group to perform a quintet by Antonin Dvorak.

Tickets for the event are general admission and are available at the MSC Box Office in Rudder Tower. Prices are $4 for students and $6 for the general public.
