It ended with sudden finality at the final playoff hole, the 452-yard 18th. Norman bashed his drive 325 yards into a fairway bunker. Facing an extremely difficult second shot, he could do no better than lob it 80 yards ahead into another bunker. Blasting out of that bunker, he knocked it over the green and out of bounds.

Calcavecchia, meanwhile, hit his drive safely into the fairway, then struck a 5-iron from 201 yards to within six feet. Needing only to threeputt now to win, he rolled the ball into the cup for the winning birdie.
