New 3-payment system to replace tuition plans starting in Spring '90

Texas A&M students who pay their tuition and fees through installment plans will have to follow the guidelines of a new three-payment plan...

The Texas A&M University System Board of Regents, in accordance with House Bill 558, on Friday approved eliminating the two- and four-payment plans...

Under the new plan, the first payment of one-half the tuition and fees must be paid before the beginning of the semester.

The second payment of one-quarter of the total tuition and fees must be paid prior to the sixth class week...

The plan doubles the amount a student must pay prior to the beginning of classes as compared to the current four-payment system now in use.

House Bill 558, recently approved by the 71st State Legislature, allows schools to delay implementing the new payment system by one semester...

Officials said they wanted students to know of the new plan before it goes into effect.

Officials: Alcohol linked to 7 Labor Day deaths

(AP) Authorities say alcohol use was a contributing factor in the majority of traffic fatalities during the first half of the Labor Day weekend...

Nine people had died as of Sunday morning, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. Officials blame alcohol use in seven of those deaths.

Tom Mobley, a DPS safety education officer, said officials are particularly concerned about a daylong party, including a concert by The Who, being sponsored in Dallas by a beer manufacturer.

"We're sitting here on the edge of our chairs, hoping people don't imbibe," Mobley said. "But that could mess up our predictions."

The DPS is conducting a holiday fatality count during a 78-hour period that began at 6 p.m. Friday and will end at midnight on Monday.

Statistics for the DPS have predicted, based on past holiday periods and current trends, that 34 people will die on Texas streets and highways during the period.

"Right now, it looks like we're going to stay pretty close to our estimate, or below," Mobley said.

"It depends on how many of them decide to come home today, rather than laying out in the sun tomorrow and driving home tomorrow night."

The latest deaths on Texas highways and streets included a 16-year-old Sugarland youth.

Andrew White, 15, was killed Saturday about four miles south of Sugarland when the vehicle in which he was riding struck a curb, went out of control, then hit a tree. Officials said he was not wearing a seat belt.

Eddie James Haley, 37 of Liberty, was killed Saturday when he walked in front of a vehicle on a Liberty street. Police reported that Haley had been drinking prior to the fatal accident, Mobley said.

Alcohol and speed were blamed as contributing factors in Saturday's death of Gerardo Maldonado Villegas, 22, of Pharr. He was killed about five miles north of Pharr when his vehicle veered off the road and overturned. He was not wearing a seat belt.

Earlier on Saturday, Texas had its first death of a motorcyclist who ignored a new law requiring helmets.

Robert Santos, 20, of El Paso was killed when his motorcycle went out of control at a city intersection about 2:50 a.m. Saturday. Police said Santos was not wearing a helmet.

Dead dolphin sent to A&M for autopsy

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) - A marine mammal authority believes an 8-foot female dolphin that washed up on a Corpus Christi Bay beach died of starvation.

David McKee, local coordinator of the Texas Marine Mammal Stranding Network, said the Atlantic bottlenose dolphin, whose body was found Friday, will be shipped to a Texas A&M University laboratory in College Station for an autopsy later this week.

"We couldn't find anything that appeared to cause the death," McKee said. "She was very emaciated and hadn't eaten for some time before she died. There was probably some disease that caused her to lose her appetite and get weak."

The dolphin is believed to be 10 to 15 years old and weighed about 275 pounds.

"We hope to be able to tell a lot about this animal," said McKee, who is an assistant professor of marine biology at Corpus Christi State University.
