

Aggies shock Tigers 28-16 R.C. Slocum finally gets A&M to 1-0

By Richard Tijerina
Of The Battalion Staff

The first mistake Louisiana State made Saturday night against Texas A&M was deciding to kick to the Aggies after winning the coin toss. It wasn't their last.

Larry Horton, a former running back who was converted this year to a free safety, returned the opening kickoff 92 yards for a touchdown, and the Aggies never looked back as they upset seventh-ranked LSU 28-16 before a home crowd of 61,633 in their season opener.

It was the Aggies' first opening-season win since A&M defeated the University of Texas-El Paso 20-17 in 1984. It was also new Head Coach R.C. Slocum's first official win as a college coach.

The Aggies gave him that win in grand fashion, as they answered several nagging questions about themselves turning in outstanding offensive and defensive performances.

The game, which was televised nationally by ESPN, was the perfect setting to serve as a springboard for three players' Heisman Trophy hopes. All-Southeastern Conference LSU quarterback Tommy Hodson and running back Harvey Williams had outside shots at the award. Subpar performances by both virtually have eliminated their chances.

A&M's Heisman hope, junior running back Darren Lewis, wasted the first of two consecutive nationally-televised games with an unusually ineffective showing. Lewis, the nation's top-returning ground gainer from last year, finished with 55 yards on 17 rushes.

The real star of the Aggies' offensive show was sophomore fullback Robert Wilson, who rolled and rambled over LSU defenders all night for 121 yards on 15 carries. Wilson, last year's Southwest Conference Newcomer of the Year, was named ESPN's Player of the Game.

Offensive coordinator Bob Toledo's public debut of the Aggies' revamped pass-oriented offense got off to a good start, with junior Lance Pavlas going the distance and playing consistently. Pavlas, who completed eight of 11 attempts for 114 yards, appeared in control throughout the game.

"The offensive line did a great job," Pavlas said. "I had a lot of time to throw and in our offensive scheme there's going to be guys open. This is a sweet victory. This is the kind of game that we can hold on to and look back on for a long time."

Indeed, LSU was considered one of the toughest opponents A&M would have to face all year, and beating the Tigers at home for the first time in three years was definitely something to savor. In their last three games, LSU had outscored A&M 79-20.

Senior linebacker Aaron Wallace said the Tigers had it coming.

"They (LSU) come over here and they talk," Wallace said. "They talk every year — 35-6 I think it was this year, and Harvey Williams this and Harvey Williams that."

Williams, who was a coveted blue-chip running back from Hempstead in 1986, spurned A&M recruiters and signed with LSU. Since then it has appeared he's reserved his best games for
