Cowboys unhappy with Falcons game

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The new coaching staff for the Dallas Cowboys Monday made some roster changes and hired retired officials to watch practices in search for answers to the worst start by the club in 25 years.

"At least we played a half," said Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson after the Cowboys' 27-21 loss to the Atlanta Falcons Sunday.

"We're making progress but we're a long way from being a good football team," Johnson said.

Johnson was critical of the defense and the team's conditioning, saying the players "kind of wore down in the second half."

"It was hot and our team showed it," Johnson said. "Hot weather gets you into condition to play and we didn't show good conditioning in the second half."

Johnson doesn't like training in the cool weather of Thousand Oaks, Calif. Although Dallas has signed a contract to return to California, the Cowboys are considering other options, such as Austin.

Dallas led 21-10 at halftime but the Falcons shut the door both offensively and defensively in the second half.

"It's a 60-minute game," said veteran center Tom Rafferty.

Dallas hasn't had an 0-2 start since the 1963 season.

"We made enough progress where we at least can identify some problem areas," Johnson said.

Because of injuries, the Cowboys played most of the game with only four defensive linemen available.

Johnson said Randy Shannon will start at the strongside linebacker position in place of Ron Burton against the Redskins.

"We want somebody in there who will make some plays," Johnson said.

Cornell Burbage was placed on injured reserve because of a shoulder injury.

Johnson said he was tired of the receivers dropping passes and signed wide receiver Ray Alexander Monday.

"We're dropping too many balls," Johnson said. "James Dixon will be getting more playing time at receiver. Everytime we put him on the field he made some plays. We've got to give him opportunity."

The Cowboys released defensive tackle Sean Smith and tight end John Duff, who was on the injured reserve list.

Johnson said the team also must fix its problem with penalties. The Cowboys were penalized eight times for 85 yards Sunday.

"We allowed Atlanta to get back into the game because of penalties," Johnson said. "We're bringing in some retired officials to work at our practices. We can't win games and have the penalties we've had."

Johnson said he didn't think the Cowboys were being picked on but had spoken to NFL officials about the large number of penalties assessed the team.

Johnson added, "I don't want to be complaining about the officiating. We have enough problems without worrying about that."

He said after the Atlanta game the NFL admitted the officials "had a bad day."

Quarterback Troy Aikman said things are starting to get frustrating.

"I guess we all expected miracles after we had a good (3-1) preseason," Aikman said. "But the truth is that the road back to the top is not going to be easy. It looks like we're going to take some lumps."

Oilers weren't pretty, but they got the win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers coach Jerry Glanville wasn't going to let mistakes and a narrow victory over San Diego spoil his Monday.

"We won the game so you can't sit there and point fingers and jab fingers in your eyes," Glanville said.

"You'd better enjoy it." The Oilers rebounded from their 38-7 loss to Minnesota with a 34-27 victory over the Chargers Sunday despite several key penalties and a defense that allowed Jim McMahon to pass for a career-high 389 yards.

"There's nothing there we can't fix, just a couple of things to do technique-wise," Glanville said.

"We had times and in this league with $8 million people running all over the place, you're going to make some plays," Glanville said.

"But I was happy with the takeaways." The Oilers converted five turnovers into 24 points and quarterback Warren Moon, sacked seven times in the opener, was not decked by the Chargers.

"We had a lot of breakdowns and we still have growing pains," Glanville said.

Running back Mike Rozier, who missed all of training camp and was held out of the first game, rushed twice for five yards and suffered a strained knee.

Nose guard Doug Smith returned to the lineup for the first time since he had knee surgery early in training camp.

"It's unbelievable the way he played after all he's been through," Glanville said.

Defensive end Sean Jones was bothered by a hip-pointer and wide receiver Ernest Givins was slowed by a hamstring injury.

The Oilers will play their first game of the year at home Sunday against the Buffalo Bills, the team that eliminated them from the 1988 playoffs in the second round.

The Oilers played all four exhibition games on the road and opened the regular season at Minnesota and San Diego.

Goebel may start against Kansas

WACO, Texas (AP) — Baylor quarterback Brad Goebel could be recovered enough from a pulled neck muscle to play in Saturday's game with the Kansas Jayhawks at Floyd Casey Stadium.

"Brad has been working with the trainers and we're optimistic of his condition," Baylor coach Grant Teaff said.

However, Teaff wouldn't say whether Goebel or senior Ed Lovell would start against the Jayhawks in the 7 p.m. game.

"I was pleased with Lovell's performance in the Georgia game and he will continue to play but nothing is decided for sure at this point in the week because it all depends on how well Brad is doing," Teaff said.

Baylor is 0-2 after losing to Oklahoma and Georgia.

"We have to stick together, lock arms and take the responsibility for getting things done by being supportive of each other and shielding ourselves from negative criticism," Teaff said.

breakdowns. We just still have growing pains.

"You saw the long touchdown pass where we didn't have anyone in the area."

Oiler defensive back Cris Dishman received a personal foul after the Oilers had stopped San Diego on third down in the first quarter.

The Chargers responded to the extra down with a 63-yard touchdown pass from McMahon to Anthony Miller.

Glanville said Dishman made the mistake of being the second man to swing in a fight. Glanville said a San Diego player threw Dishman to the ground.

"He was trying to get out of a situation," Glanville said. "The bottom line is, on third down we don't allow our guys to retaliate, you just get off the field."

Dishman admitted after watching the film, that he'd made a mistake.

"I can see now that I shouldn't have done it, but at the time you don't stop and think 'Should I do this or should I not do this,' it's a reaction thing," Dishman said.

The Oilers had to dig themselves out of a 14-3 deficit to get back in the game.

San Diego's Elvis Patterson blocked an Oiler punt to set up another touchdowns as the Chargers took a 14-3 lead in the first quarter.

The Oilers regained the lead 20-14 at the half.

"Anytime you get down 14-3 in the first half on the road, and then lead before the half, you have to play pretty good," Glanville said.

Houston's secondary again was pilfered but Glanville sees improvement on the horizon.
