Lady Ags sweep Lamar

A&M dominates match, evens season at 4-4

By Alan Lehmann

Of The Battalion Staff

The Lady Aggies showed just how sweet home can be Wednesday night. Returning from their first road trip, A&M demolished Lamar 15-2, 15-10, 15-12.

The scores were deceptive because A&M dominated the match from the first serve. Lamar only made a contest of the last game when the match was in hand and the substitutes had come in for A&M.

The sweep was A&M's second of the year, both coming at G. Rollie White Coliseum, and evened A&M's record at 4-4. Coach Al Givens said the win was an important one for A&M.

"Our goal is to be 7-4 by the end of September," Givens said. "Now, we're a step closer to that."

"Kelli Kellen had a nice match, and Alysia Gonzales played very well in her two games."

Kellen led A&M with eight kills, while Gonzales and Krista Hierholzer added six each. The Lady Aggies boasted a .277 team kill percentage.

Yvonne Van Brandt started the match by serving seven points. The scores came on an ace, kills by Gonzales, Hierholzer, and Amy Cumings and three errors.

A&M ran the score up to 12-1 on a kill by Hierholzer and two by Kellen.

Lamar managed only two points in their 11 serving attempts, and helped A&M with several errors. Alysia Gonzales ended the game in style with a powerful kill.

A&M grabbed a 3-0 lead in the second game on two Gonzales kills. Three A&M miscues allowed Lamar to close to 4-3, but the Lady Aggies scored seven of the next eight points to put the game out of reach.

Lamar staged a minor comeback when A&M got sloppy, but sophomore Sheri Hermesmeyer scored ended the game on a block and a kill.

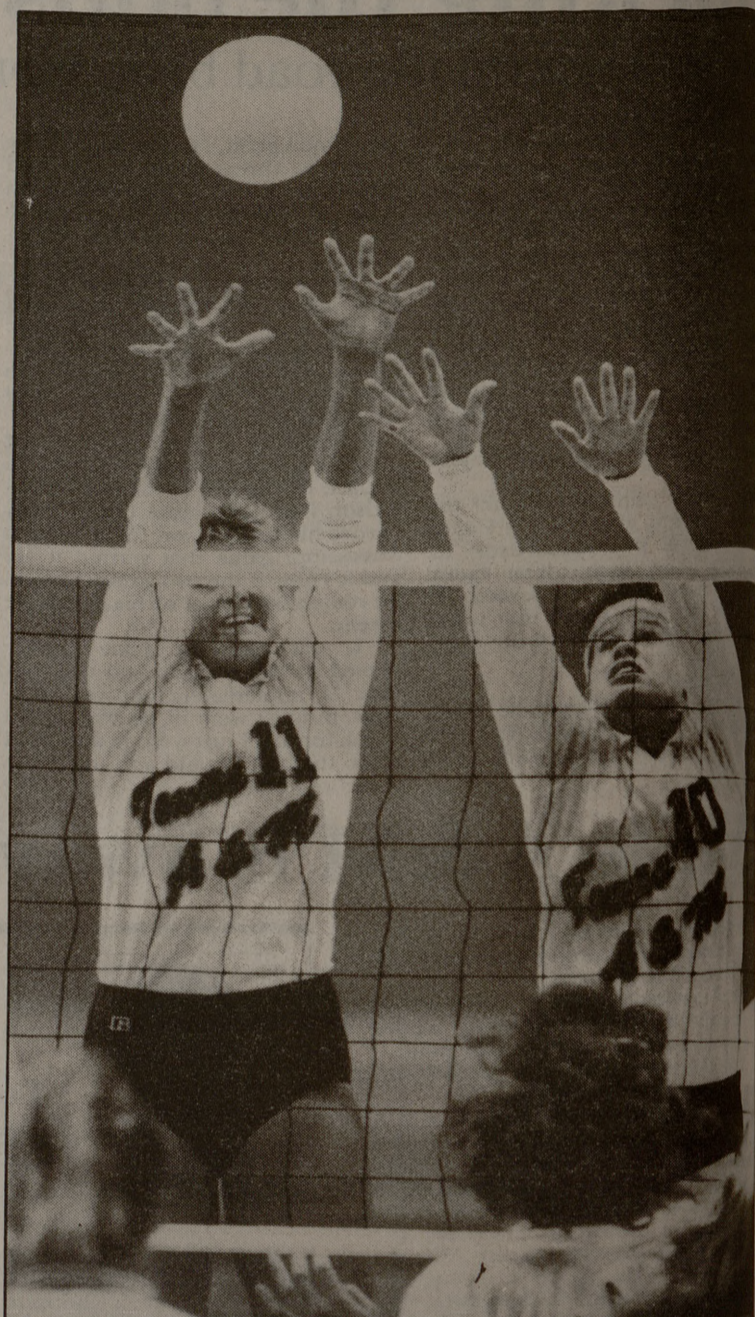

In the third game, Givens juggled his lineup to give all the Lady Aggies some playing time resulting in a closer game.

The Lady Aggies again grabbed a lead, scoring five points on kills by Hierholzer and Cumings and a Kellen block.

A&M widened the lead to 11-4 before Lamar scored eight of the next ten points on five A&M errors.

But the Lady Aggies refused to lose, and Elizabeth Edmiston served the final two points to seal the victory.

Givens said he was pleased with the match and the play of his team.

Lady Aggies Sheri Hermesmeyer and Kelli Kellen block a shot from Lamar in A&M's win Wednesday night.

"We played all of our players who were healthy and we still swept," he said. "I was really impressed with the play of our young players. We got ahead and got a chance to try some new things."

"We had a breakdown at the end of the last game, but we pulled it out."

Gonzales said she felt that A&M played below their potential in the final two games.

"We did well in the first game," Gonzales said, "but we let up in the second game. We need to work on that. I think our best is yet to come."

Ryder Cup captain Floyd says all team will have playing time

SUTTON COLDFIELD, England (AP) — All 12 American players will compete at least once every day in the Ryder Cup matches against Europe, U.S. team captain Ray Floyd said Tuesday.

"Unless a man comes to me and says he's injured, or he does not want to play, I'll see he gets a game every day," Floyd said. "All 12 players made the team. All deserve to play."

"Winning the Ryder Cup is important," Floyd said. "But it may be that the Ryder Cup — the sportsmanship, the good will, the camaraderie — is more important than winning," he said.

"Good," responded Tony Jacklin, the European captain whose team is seeking a third consecutive victory in the biennial matches that begin Friday at the Belfry.

"He has a lot of new blood (five Ryder Cup rookies) and they need to get bloodied," Jacklin said. "They need to know what it's like to play Ryder Cup on British soil."

Jacklin, however, declined to follow Floyd's lead in using all his team.

"I make no such promises," Jacklin said. "In an ideal world, that would be nice. But our team is one, 12 as one. It's the first team to 14 1/2 points that wins."

"That's what we're trying to do. We'll do what we can, what we have to, to win again."

The format is such that a captain can play as few as eight of his 12 players through the first two days of competition.

Both Friday and Saturday, the morning play is four foursomes, in which two-man teams (eight players from each side) play alternate shots on the same ball. Friday and Saturday afternoons, play will be in four-ball, in which scoring is based on the better ball of each two-man team. Again, only eight players from each side compete. Sunday's play will be given over 12 singles matches, with all players from each team in action.

The American team practiced Tuesday, and Floyd said all were in good health. That included Rickey Green, who suffered a back injury three weeks ago and has not competed since.

Ryan on verge of setting record season strikeout mark

ARLINGTON (AP) — With only two scheduled starts left this season, Texas Rangers ace Nolan Ryan needs 11 strikeouts each game for a record sixth season with 300 strikeouts.

No problem — if Ryan keeps his season average of 11.9 strikeouts per game, a pace he fell far below Monday night.

If Ryan reaches the 300 strikeout mark, he would be the first American League pitcher to do so since 1977, when Ryan himself fanned 341 batters for the California Angels. His 383 strikeouts for California in 1973 is the most in modern history.

Ryan fanned only two batters, his lowest strikeout total of the season in 7 and 1-3 innings in a 5-2 win over Seattle Monday.

"It was the worst stuff I've had all year," Ryan said. He said he lacked control and power.

The game marked only the second time in 674 major-league starts that Ryan has pitched more than seven innings and had fewer than three strikeouts.

His next starts will be against Chicago on Sunday and against Oakland next week.

On Aug. 22, Ryan struck out Oakland's Rickey Henderson for his 5,000th strikeout of his career.

Braves' owner upset over Giants' claim

ATLANTA (AP) — Russ Nixon was livid.

The manager of the Atlanta Braves also vowed to remember "this little deal," which should make next season's first meeting with the San Francisco Giants rather interesting.

"I'm not blowing this off," Nixon said Tuesday night after being told by National League President Bill White that the Giants were complaining about the Braves' lineup against the Houston Astros — a team still in contention in the NL West race.

"Who's kidding who?" Nixon asked after his lineup filled with youth handed the Astros a 3-0 defeat, pushing Houston six games behind the first-place Giants.

"I don't think if I had a five-game lead and the best club in the league I'd be worrying too much about a last-place club," Nixon said. "I'm going to remember this, damn right I am."

"That kind of burns me up. The Giants are getting paranoid out there. I wonder if they called Cincinnati, too, and told them not to pitch (rookie Scott) Scudder to them to throw (Tom) Browning every night."

Cincinnati dropped a 5-1 decision to the second-place San Diego Padres, who remained five games behind the Giants, a 3-2 winner over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Maybe they are better than the guys he's been naming out there," Giants manager Roger Craig said. "Maybe Nixon knows what he's doing, and he wants to see them play. I can understand that. He wants to get good look at them. That's why he brought them up."

"I'll call him (Nixon) a genius if they win," Craig said. "I'll withdraw it."

Nixon said White telephoned him 30 minutes before the Tuesday night game, responding to an "informal complaint" by the Giants, who alleged that Atlanta wasn't fielding a representative team amid a pennant race.
