Book contest applications must be turned in Friday

By Andrea Warrenburg

Of The Battalion Staff

Applications for the 17th annual Student Book Collectors' Contest, sponsored by Friends of the Sterling C. Evans Library, are due by 5 p.m. Friday.

"We want the contest to stimulate interest in books, in collecting books and in the library," Nancy Buchanan, assistant instructional services librarian and chairman of the Student Book Collectors committee, said.

To enter, students at the undergraduate or graduate level must have an annotated bibliography of the titles in their collection and write a brief statement about the theme of their collection. Each collection must have exactly 25 titles owned by the student and must have a theme.

"The more specific and cohesive the theme, the better," Buchanan said.

Finalists will be asked to bring all 25 books to the library for the final judging. The three judges will look for a unifying theme and thoughtful choice in selections.

The winners will receive one of seven cash awards named after the individual or group who donated the money. The first six awards are for $250 and the seventh award is a $50 honorable mention presented to an undergraduate.

"It is an opportunity for students to do something with their collection and be rewarded for it," Buchanan said.

Contest rules and entry forms are available at the library reference desk. Winners will be notified before the Oct. 13 awards ceremony.

Officials break up cocaine ring in Corpus led by 'Candyman'

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A motel, 11 houses, six cars and four bank accounts have been seized in the breakup of what local and federal officials described as a major cocaine ring led by a figure known as the "Candyman."

Total value of the seizures was estimated at $250,000, officials said.

Lester Johnson, 50, was arrested Tuesday on charges that include conspiracy to distribute illegal drugs, running a criminal enterprise and money laundering.

Johnson, according to a 17-count federal indictment, is known on the city's north side as the "Candyman."

Much of the illegal activity, according to the indictment, took place over a period of nearly two years at the Johnson's Rooms motel, which was seized Tuesday.

"Part of the conspiracy was for certain members of the conspiracy to bring clients for prostitution to the Johnson's Rooms motel," the indictment stated. "Said clients would there procure cocaine from other conspirators."

Also named in the indictment was 30-year-old Carol Tilley, who was arrested on charges of distribution of cocaine and conspiracy to distribute the drug, said Charles Evans, agent in charge of the Internal Revenue Service's criminal enforcement division.

The indictment added that Johnson and his accomplices would "reside at and sell cocaine from rooms at Johnson's Rooms" and "use a pay telephone in the hallway of the . . . motel to receive orders for cocaine from potential consumers."

The indictment said Johnson also purchased houses for use as drug outlets.

Evans told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times that agents expect to arrest seven more people in the case.

Johnson and Tilley were held without bond, pending a hearing on Friday.

The IRS worked with the Corpus Christi Police Department, Nueces County Sheriff's Department and U.S. Marshal's office in the operation for nearly two years on the case, officials said.

Law officers say if the courts agree the property seized was connected to the alleged cocaine ring, the property could be forfeited to the government.

Franklin man killed in airline explosion

FRANKLIN (AP) — Pat Huff, one of at least five Texans aboard a French airliner which exploded over Central Africa, liked working in the oilfields overseas and never expressed any concern about travel in dangerous parts of the world, his mother said Wednesday.

"He had no fears," Janice Huff said. "I said something to him a few months ago after so many planes had been going down and he said, 'No, not really. You always think it's going to happen to someone else.'"

Huff, 38, married and the father of two stepchildren, lives in the Robertson County community of Franklin and worked days on and 28 days off for the Oklahoma-based Parker Drilling Co.

Huff was on his way back home after a month of duty in Chad and was expected to arrive nearby College Station Wednesday afternoon, his mother said.

"My daughter-in-law heard on the radio. She was at a hospital and it came over and she said, 'My God, my brother-in-law was that plane,'" Mrs. Huff said.

Mrs. Huff said most of her information was coming from the company. She said she had called the airline, French-based UTA, and was told that someone would call her back.

Her husband, Jim, worked for Parker in Chad before retiring and immediately pulled out a map of the country when he heard about the plane incident, she said.

"He has been doing this kind of work for years," she said of her son.

'Buster' Brown promises state war on drugs, crime

By Holly Becka

Of The Battalion Staff

State Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, one of two candidates for the Republican nomination for attorney general of Texas, will focus on the drug issue in Texas during his campaign.

Brown, who recently announced his candidacy, said during an interview Wednesday that his number one priority will be the drug problem in the state. Brown has been a state senator since 1980 and is the current president pro-tem of the Texas Senate.

He started his campaign for a safer to Texas to send the message that Texans want the state safe, he said.

"When you talk about issues that face us, whether they're economic or environmental issues, I don't think anything is as immediate as the drug problem or affects as many people," Brown said.

He said he was in the process of putting together what he thought should be the state's role in fighting drug traffic, which will work closely with President George Bush's fight against drugs on the national level. He said he would like to wait until the plan is further along before he released exactly what the project entails.

"I'm not ready to release that because I'd like to do it all at one time," he said. "I will say that it's going to be more than just raising penalties. We have almost exhausted that as a remedy, although I vote for and carry bills to enforce and have severe punishment (for drug users and dealers). But we've got to go beyond that. We have to look at everything the government's doing to see if we are encouraging or discouraging drugs as a social habit."

Brown said he wanted to work with the civil and criminal courts, government agencies, schools and universities to develop a program that will "get serious about fighting the drug problem."

Brown said he also wants to give law enforcement officials and judiciary members better tools for prosecution, law enforcement and crime detection.

"If that means helping to funnel more dollars into that area from the federal government, work in that respect, too," he said.

Bush considers Rice as site for world summit

HOUSTON (AP) — If Houston is chosen as the site of the 1990 Economic Summit, Rice University will probably host the gathering of leaders from seven countries, officials said.

The university's "European ambience" put it above the other local sites considered to host the summit, Lee Hogan, president of the Greater Houston Partnership, said.

Hogan, who traveled to Washington last week, said the Rice site "received encouraging response from the White House" during his trip and in phone conversations since his return. He did not specify who voiced support for the Rice site.

President Bush once served as a visiting professor at the private university.

Several Texas cities, including San Antonio, Dallas and Fort Worth, are vying for the summit, which brings together leaders of the United States, Great Britain, France, West Germany, Japan, Italy and Canada. Officials expect a decision by Oct. 15, possibly sooner, Hogan said Tuesday.

The timing of the summit could coincide with a break between spring and summer semesters at Rice, allowing authorities to secure the campus for use only by summit participants and the news media, officials said.

Hogan said Houston is a strong candidate to host the summit if the president chooses a major metropolitan area.

Hogan indicated that President Bush has not decided between a major metropolitan site or a resort location
