Bus wreck investigation nears end

National safety board makes plans to interview more survivors

MISSION (AP) — Divers seeking a section of windshield from a shattered bus that careened into a flooded gravel pit Thursday hoped to retrieve yet another clue in the deaths of 20 stu-

The National Transportation Safety Board, which also wants to interview more survivors of the wreck one week ago, is in the "wind down' phase of its inquiry, agency spokesman Bob Bar-

The partial windshield "should give us a pretty good indication as to where the actual nose of the ous went into the water," he said.

He said investigators want to know if the bus, loaded with students, spun nose-first into the water or hit at an angle after it collided with a soft drink truck. It could be six to eight months before the NTSB issues its report, Barlett said.

Hidalgo County District Attorney Rene Guerra said he was waiting for a final briefing from the NTSB and Texas Department of Public Safety to determine whether the facts justify charges against the truck's driver.

Meanwhile, more South Texas residents passed by the site in Alton of the school bus crash that killed 20 students on a school bus one week ago today, while federal investigators made plans to interview more survivors.

"I came to say a prayer for them and for the ones who are alive also," said Juanita Garcia, whose son was a friend of 18-year-old victim Raul

At Mission Junior High School, Principal John Abbenante said Thursday that teachers and students were trying to resume normal schedules. Ten students even rode the bus to school today,

"We've tried to normalize it, with understanding," he said, but added some students still had difficulties. "As a matter of fact, we escorted one home yesterday because she couldn't make it through the whole day."

Lucas fails to stop extradition to Florida

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — As the parents of one of his alleged murder victims watched, condemned killer Henry Lee Lucas lost an attempt Thursday to block his extradition to Florida on more first-degree murder charges.

But his attorney, Rod Ponton, said it could be six months to a year before Lucas, a one-eyed drifter linked to hundreds of slayings around the country, sees Florida. Ponton in-tends to appeal State District Judge

Bill McAdams' ruling.
McAdams rejected Ponton's argument that the Florida warrant was invalid and that Lucas did not have an attorney present when he spoke to Florida investigators.

"He's got substantial defense to the charges," Ponton said. "We have work records . . . that show he was 150 miles away the day before and the day after (the slayings).

Florida authorities want to try Lucas, 53, on three first-degree murder charges for slayings in 1980 and

He is accused of the December 1980 shooting death of a gas station attendant, J.P. McDaniel, in Jackson County, Fla.; the February 1981 shooting death of Jerilyn Peoples at her home in Holmes County, Fla.; and the March 1981 strangulation and stabbing of Brenda Jo Burton at her home in Bonifay, Fla.

Court documents indicate Lucas, who was interviewed in July 1988 by investigators from the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, admitted involvement in all three slay-

Analysts say Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, a leading book publisher, is selling the parks in an effort to pay off a nearly $2.9 billion debt that accumulated when the Orlando-based company fended off a 1987 hostile takeover attempt by British communications mogul Robert Maxwell.

have a whole lot of choice," said Robert Dunlap Jr., analyst for Brown Brothers Harriman in New York. But in giving up the theme park business, Harcourt Brace also is relieving itself of the chronic management problems and falling attendance at the six parks. Attendance at the six parks dropped nearly 5 percent last year, due in part to bad weather, but the decline has continued this year, a company spokesman said.

In 1988, sales at the parks were $435 million and pre-tax earnings were $62 million. This year pre-tax earnings were projected to rise to $90 million, analysts said.

Only two bidders for the park tually went public with their court Brace and Sea World found utives led by Sea World found George Millay. The other was from Florida Leisure Acquisition (m which owns the Silver Springs at tion in Ocala.
