Bush, Salinas sign 7 pacts during visit

Governments pledge mutual trust on issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mexican President Carlos Salinas De Gortari and President Bush on Tuesday pledged mutual trust and understanding on cross-boundary issues, agreeing to conduct trade negotiations and to clean up Mexico City and Tijuana pollution.

To mark Salinas' visit to Washington, the two governments signed seven agreements on trade, environment, investment, and tourism.

The agreements, Bush said in praising the "closeness" of U.S.-Mexico ties, "are concrete examples of how our administrations have worked closely together during the last 10 months. They show what can and must be done to make relations between our two great nations even closer than they are today."

Salinas also cheered for a close relationship, but said his primary goal in facilitating U.S. investment in Mexico was to "open up additional sources of employment in Mexico for Mexicans."

The agreements were generally non-specific, but two environmental pacts commit the nations to construct an international sewage treatment plant in California, just across the border from Tijuana. They also will conduct joint scientific and technical projects to fight air pollution in Mexico City.

The sewage problem has become a matter of increasing U.S.-Mexican tensions because Tijuana waste pollutes the waters and the beaches of San Diego.

Salinas, in remarks at the signing ceremony also acknowledged Mexico City is "the most polluted city in the world. . . . We want better air for the Mexicans for their children and for children of their children in Mexico."

Officials locate marijuana farm in Chihuahua

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Mexican authorities discovered more than 44 tons of marijuana, some ready for harvesting, growing among corn on a ranch within view of the U.S. border, a Chihuahua official said Tuesday.

Carlos Manuel Salas, Chihuahua state narcotics coordinator for the Mexico Attorney General's office, said the two- to three-meter-tall marijuana plants were found on Rancho Camello, a 1,375-acre ranch located north of Ascension and west of Las Palomas, both in Chihuahua.

About 18 miles from the ranch, officials discovered a processing plant where the marijuana was dried and packaged by about 30 workers. Another eight tons of marijuana was found there, Salas said.

Among those arrested were several people who Salas identified as principal narcotics traffickers. However, several others at the ranch when officials raided it climbed a border fence and fled into the United States.

"At this moment, the federal police with about 80 officers, are combing the entire (area) by air and by land," Salas said.

He said federal officials on Wednesday would release names of those arrested at the ranch.

Salas called the discovery one of the most important finds and said it was more significant than the discovery of another plantation two weeks ago about 15 miles south of Janos, Chihuahua.

E. Germany attempts to stem flow of refugees by banning free travel

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — East Germany issued an order Tuesday banning free travel to Czechoslovakia but agreed that at least 10,000 of its citizens already in Prague could emigrate to the West.

East German leader Erich Honecker accused West Germany of "insolently breaking promises" by letting the East Germans into its embassies in Prague and Warsaw.

"They believe in West Germany that they can destabilize East Germany with a broad-based attack, but it will not work," he said in his first major speech since returning to work after a long convalescence from gallbladder surgery. ADN, the official East German news agency, carried his remarks.

The crackdown on travel came after hundreds of East Germans stormed through police lines to get inside the embassy in Prague.

They climbed facades, rooftops and a fence to reach the crowded compound. Many were left blood-spattered by the police and some fell unconscious inside the grounds.

Rudolf Seiters, Chancellor Helmut Kohl's chief of staff, said East German refugees would begin leaving Prague for West Germany by train Tuesday evening. He said the East German decision would allow an estimated 4,700 refugees in the the embassy and about 6,000 milling outside to travel west.

Seiters said Kohl was informed of the East German decision by Premier Ladislav Adamec of Czechoslovakia.

East Germany's decision appeared to be part of an effort to avoid possible embarrassing disturbances during celebrations of the communist state's 40th anniversary Saturday. Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev is scheduled to attend.

ADN, the East German news agency, said the travel

"They believe in West Germany that they can destabilize East Germany with a broad-based attack, but it will not work."

— Erich Honecker, East German leader

ban stemmed from reports "that certain circles in West Germany are preparing provocations" in conjunction with the celebrations.

West Germany closed its embassy early Tuesday afternoon as thousands of East Germans streamed into the compound overnight, bringing the total seeking asylum there to some 4,500. Red Cross officials said they feared sanitation problems.
