Mattox enters the race

Gubernatorial candidate supportive of state lottery

DALLAS (AP) — A state lottery, not an income tax, will solve Texas' budget problems, Attorney General Jim Mattox said Tuesday as he declared his intent to prove the theory from behind the governor's desk.

While announcing his bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Mattox told supporters that a lottery, although "a political risk," was the way to fund better schools and fight drugs and crime.

"I don't agree with the Austin establishment that thinks 'new revenue' means new taxes," Mattox told supporters outside Woodrow Wilson High School, his alma mater.

"A lottery will generate hundreds of millions of dollars in new revenue without raising taxes by a single penny," he said.

Lottery finds new support due to education woes

AUSTIN (AP) — A state lottery, such as that proposed Tuesday by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jim Mattox, might find new support in a Legislature suddenly needing new funds for education.

Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, said he will ask Gov. Bill Clements to open the Nov. 14 special session agenda to consideration of a lottery.

"It's important to get this issue to the Legislature again, because legislators will have to decide on either an income tax or a lottery," Uribe said, adding that he wouldn't oppose dedicating lottery proceeds to education.

The most recent estimates said a state-run lottery game could generate more than $350 million for the state in its first full year of operation.

Although lawmakers so far have voted down lottery proposals, such a game may find more support following the Texas Supreme Court's unanimous ruling that demanded an overhaul of the public school finance system.

Lawmakers face a May 1, 1990 deadline to correct school finance problems. Some experts have said the cost will be in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

In officially launching his candidacy Tuesday, Mattox said he would like the Legislature to pass a referendum for a state-run lottery.

against drugs and crime."

The two-term attorney general also said he would push for higher teacher salaries.

"We will fight to attract and keep our best minds in the classroom," he said.

Mattox also said he wants tougher drug sentences, including the death penalty for those "whose crime is so heinous that it crosses the bounds of civilized behavior."

More prison beds, police, prosecutors and judges also are needed to combat crime, he said.

"I'm tired of a system that lets the criminals out of jail before their victims get out of the hospital," he said.

"I want the pushers to meet 'The Slammer.' And as governor, I'm going to see to it that they do."

Mattox has raised some $4 million during more than a year of preparations for the race, which he began with a marathon series of appearances.

The former congressman and former state legislator also planned to stop Tuesday and early Wednesday in Houston, Beaumont, San Antonio and Brownsville.

Four suspected illegal aliens die in rail car

VICTORIA (AP) — Four men believed to be illegal aliens were found dead Tuesday in a truck trailer carried on a railroad flatcar, and authorities were trying to determine if a toxic pesticide used on the cargo contributed to their deaths.

Anne Cuddeback, an investigator with the Texas Department of Health's hazard communication branch in Austin, said the fumigant used in the trailer could be fatal if inhaled or ingested.

"It's quite possible there was enough of the fumigant around to kill the guys," Cuddeback said.

Three emergency medical service workers and seven police officers at the scene where the bodies were discovered were taken to a Victoria hospital. Some of the officers complained of nausea and vomiting, Victoria police Lt. Richard Jones said.

The bodies of the four victims were found by a Southern Pacific car inspector at about 8:15 a.m. after a railroad worker noticed the door was open on the truck trailer.

The victims appeared to be in their 20s, Jones said. Three of the four had papers, although police hadn't verified the documents Tuesday. One had a Mexican passport, one had documents from Honduras, and a third had papers that had been stamped in El Salvador but indicated he was from Venezuela, Jones said. He said the fourth man did not carry any identification.

A Border Patrol agent said the patrol is working through the Mexican consul to identify the men.

The four apparently died of asphyxiation despite punching a small hole in the trailer, probably for ventilation, Victoria police Lt. Jack Williams said.

"They put a hole in the roof about the size of a half dollar," Williams said. "Apparently one of them had a buckle knife he used to poke the hole."

The trailer was half filled with boxes of tortilla or corn flour called masa. Two warning stickers were taped on the trailer doors. The signs showed skulls and said in English and Spanish "Danger. This trailer is being fumigated."
