UCLA hoping team can recapture glory

ASSOCIATED PRESS

At UCLA, where basketball tradition took a plunge after the retirement of John Wooden, Jim Harrick returns for a second season poised to improve upon last season's 21-10 record. UCLA made it to the second round of the NCAA tournament last season before losing to North Carolina.

The Bruins, led by 6-8 forward Trevor Wilson (18.4 points and 8.7 rebounds) and 6-10 forward Don MacLean (18.6 points and 7.5 rebounds) could make a run at Arizona in conference play if the team jells.

UCLA lost Pooh Richardson and sophomore Darrick Martin will move into his spot at point guard. Gerald Maddkins, sidelined last season after breaking his pelvis in a moped accident, will play the off-guard.

Arizona State has a new coach, Bill Frieder, whose Michigan team won the national title last season after he left for his new job.

Frieder takes over a once-thriving program that has fallen on hard times in recent years. The Sun Devils were 12-16 last season, finishing seventh in the Pac-10 at 5-13. They lost All Pac-10 forward Trent Edwards, who led the team with 19.5 points and 8.2 rebounds per game.

Another coaching change was at Oregon State, where Ralph Miller retired after 19 seasons. Miller was replaced by Jim Anderson, who was an assistant for 28 seasons at Oregon State.

Guard Gary Payton (20.1 points, 8.1 assists) is back to lead a team that went 22-8 overall and tied for the Pac-10 for third in the Pac-10 at 11-5.

Lynn Nance replaces Andy Russell at Washington after Russo went 62 in four seasons. Nance, who coached St. Mary's of the West Coast Conference to 25 wins and a spot in the NCAA tournament last season, has five returning starters, including guard Eldridge Recasner, who averaged 18.1 points per game.

In the West Coast Conference, Loyola Marymount, coming off consecutive 20-victory seasons, is favored to win its second title in the conference.

The Lions are led by Hank Gathers, the nation's No. 1 scorer (22.2) and rebounder (13.7) last season. Loyola led the nation in scoring with 112.5 points and played the highest-scoring games in NCAA history, beating U.S. International 144 on Jan. 7 and beating the Gauchos in a rematch 181-150 Jan. 31.

Loyola is expected to be challenged by Pepperdine, which won games and reached the NCAA tournament. Coach Tom Asbury's first season. The Waves have four starters including 6-7 forward Tom Lay (16.2 points) and Dexter Howard (15.9 points).

Plano Rangers? Irving, Plano looking to join list of cities courting Rangers

ARLINGTON (AP) — Plano and Irving may join the list of Dallas-Fort Worth area cities that want to be the home of the Texas Rangers.

"If they're taking proposals, we'll be there," Plano Mayor Jack Harvard said of the Rangers. "We haven't done anything yet, but we'll have something ready."

But the mayor of Arlington, the city halfway between Dallas and Fort Worth where the American League team now plays, says neither Plano nor Irving is a viable alternative.

Mayor Richard Greene said Plano, located 20 miles north of downtown Dallas, is too far from the middle of the metropolitan area and Irving suffers because beer sales are prohibited in its stadiums, including Texas Stadium, home of the Dallas Cowboys.

Greene and other Arlington leaders have offered to build a 50,200-seat stadium on the parking lot adjacent to the Rangers' current ballpark, Arlington Stadium.

"I think Richard Greene has offered the Rangers a package that can't be beat anywhere else," said Irving Mayor Bob Pierce, adding his city won't make a formal proposal unless asked for one by the ballclub.

But former mayor Dan Matkin said private interests are putting proposal together, though he's not connected to it.

"There's some smoke. Whether there's any fire or not, we'll have to see," Matkin said.

Rangers president Mike Stoen said the team has not decided how it will take proposals, but said it is likely the team would invite competing interests to make them.

Dallas officials have discussed tearing streets and swapping city-owned property for a baseball stadium development in the southern corner of downtown. The city council will take up stadium financing early next year.

Rangers managing partner George W. Bush said the team will begin serious negotiations in March with anyone interested in proposing a stadium location and financing package.

The team is planning a survey to determine where its fans come from and where they'll likely go for games and what kind of stadium they want.

Judson ranked No. 1 in 5A

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Converse Judson in Class 5A, Groveton in 2A and Munday in A will move into the state playoffs with season-long No. 1 rankings in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll.

Those three teams, along with West Orange-Stark in 4A and Southlake Carroll in 3A easily retained their top ranks in the final week of voting by Texas sportswriters and sportscasters.

After reaching the No. 1 spot after the first week of the season, no team has dominated its classification like Southlake Carroll.

Carroll was the unanimous No. 1 pick five weeks and received all but one first-place vote on two other occasions.

West Orange-Stark started the preseason ranked No. 6 but by the fifth week had assumed the No. 1 spot after preseason choice Paris, the defending champion, lost to Wilmer Hutchins 38-25.

Third-ranked Houston Lamar was tied by Houston Waltrip 21-21 and Nos. 4 and 9 Houston Sterling and Lake Highlands were losers in Class 5A games. Lamar dropped to No. 6, Houston Sterling fell to No. 9 and Lake Highlands was replaced by Marshall (8-2) in the No. 10 position.

Silsbee shocked No. 2 Jasper to force a shuffle in the 4A ranks below West Orange-Stark. No. 8 El Campo also was a loser.

Baseball pays tribute to Giamatti in ceremony

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball said goodbye to A. Bartlett Giamatti Wednesday with cracking voices and glistening eyes as speaker after speaker extolled the late commissioner's association with the game he loved.

An audience of owners, general managers, scouts, agents, lawyers, arbitrators and television executives filled Carnegie Hall for the 90-minute program, called "A Celebration of Bart Giamatti and Baseball."

"To me, he was the noblest of them all," Commissioner Fay Vincent said, using words from Shakespeare as his voice choked with emotion. "Bravo, noble Bart, and goodbye."

Giamatti died of a heart attack Sept. 1 at his summer home in Edgartown, Mass., just five months after becoming commissioner and eight days after banning Pete Rose from baseball. Giamatti's son, Marcus, was the most eloquent of the speakers.

"This is the last pure place where Americans can dream," he said, quoting what his father told him at a Yankees-Red Sox game last summer. "Each contest gives new hope. This is the last, great arena. This is the last green arena where everybody can earn the lessons of life....

"Through the game, he sought to bring some means of enlightenment to a darkening world."

Broadcaster Joe Garagiola, wife Claire Smith and Roger Anger and Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig also spoke at the tribute. Joining them on stage were American League president Bobby Brown, National League president Bill White, Yale president Benno C. Schmidt Jr., DiMaggio and Doerr.

Selig quoted from Giamatti's statement on the day the commissioner threw Rose out of baseball.

"I believe baseball is a beautiful and exciting game, loved by millions — I among them — and I believe baseball is an important, enduring American institution," Giamatti said. "I will be told that I am an idealist, but I hope so. I will continue to locate myself as I hold for myself and for my country in the national game as well as in other of our national institutions."

Selig's eyes then got misty. "It was an endearing lesson in morality and sensibility," he said. "I hope it was a good day for baseball."
