Kubiak sparkles in Denver victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gary Kubiak, substiting for an ailing John Elway, threw two short first-half touchdown passes as the Denver Broncos beat the Washington Redskins 14-10 Monday night, all but sewing up the AFC West title.

Safety Dennis Smith also played a key role, twice stripping the ball from Jamie Morris, the first time setting up a Denver touchdown, the second time stopping a Washington threat at the Broncos' 10.

Bobby Humphrey carried 31 times for 110 yards for Denver, which at 9-2 is four games ahead in the division with five games left as they seek their third title in four years. Washington dropped to 5-6, in deep trouble in their quest for an NFC wild-card berth.

It was the first game between the two since the January 1988 Super Bowl, won 42-10 by Washington. But injuries and attrition had taken a toll on both teams. Just 10 players on each team who started that game started Monday night.

One of the non-starters was Elway, who came down with a stomach virus in late afternoon that left him in the locker room for the entire game.

Doug Williams, the Washington quarterback who was the MVP in the Super Bowl, also was on the bench after starting two games on his return from back surgery. Washington was also playing for the first time without defensive end Deane Manley, suspended for life last week for a third substance abuse infraction and his replacement, Markus Koch, injured a knee in the third quarter.

It took just 13 yards of offense to produce two touchdowns, one for each team. On Denver's first possession, Fred Stone sacked Kubiak, stripping the ball and recovering on the Broncos' 8. Then Morris dashed up the middle for the score on the first play.

The Broncos reciprocated the first time Washington got the ball when Smith stripped the ball from Morris. Tyrone Braxton picked it up and returned it 35 yards to the Redskins' 5.

Cowboys' Martin out for remainder of season

IRVING (AP) — Kelvin Martin, the leading wide receiver for the Dallas Cowboys, will miss the rest of the season because of a knee injury, the team announced Monday.

Martin will undergo surgery on his left knee Tuesday morning, Cowboys spokesman David Pelletier said.

Coach Jimmy Johnson originally announced Monday that Martin would miss the Thanksgiving Day game against the Philadelphia Eagles, and was optimistic he would be back before the end of the season.

But late Monday, doctors determined that Martin had a torn anterior cruciate ligament, ending his season, Pelletier said.

Martin caught 7 passes for 82 yards before he was injured in Sunday's 17-14 loss to the Miami Dolphins. "Kelvin was our key receiver," Johnson said. "Losing him will really hurt our passing game. He can make some big plays for you."

Johnson said James Dixon and Derrick Sheppard will probably start at wide receiver although "Sheppard has an ankle bothering him."

Cornell Burbage and Bernard Ford will be backups and Johnson said the Cowboys could activate Scott Ankrum off the reserve squad for insurance.

"We're going to be a little thin in the position," Johnson said.

Johnson said the 10th loss of the season was particularly painful because it came primarily on Dan Marino's 48-yard "Hail Mary" touchdown pass to end the first half.

History

Arkansas and beat Texas to clinch the conference title.

While the 1987 Aggies and the 1989 Aggies are tied together by a thread of history, the two teams are worlds apart in attitudes.

The A&M football program, under Sherrill, reflected a lot of Sherrill's attitude. The Aggies were confident, cocky and more than eager to talk about how good they were. Bad-mouthing and taunting the opposition were common.

But this year's team reflects the attitude of its new coach.

Slocum is laid back and calm. He is a firm believer of letting your actions speak for themselves.

"I've always talked to our players about trying to play with class and trying to win with class," Slocum said. "I've always thought that actions should speak for you."

"After a touchdown, just lay the ball down. (Players) have big numbers on the front of their jerseys and their names on the back. Everybody knows who you are and what you did, so there's no reason to try and bring more attention to yourself."

Slocum's attitude is reflected in the lack of unsportsmanlike conduct penalties in the Aggies' first nine games.

"I think we've only had one of those this year," Slocum said. "It was in the TCU game and we never really figured out where it came from."

There also has been a noticeable lack of pregame taunting, Slocum has done away with the cockiness and replaced it with a healthy respect for opponents.

Whether history will be kind and repeat itself, sending A&M to the Cotton Bowl, remains to be seen. If things go well for Slocum and the Aggies, they could end up like the 1987 Aggies... victorious in Dallas on New Year's Day.

U.S. thinking of the gold, preparing for World Cup

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — The victory was just a few hours old, and already the United States was talking about the next step — getting ready for the World Cup.

By beating Trinidad and Tobago 1-0 Sunday, the United States advanced to the World Cup finals for the first time since 1950. Since the American Soccer League and the Western Soccer League don't start until the spring, the national team will have to prepare the players itself.

"We will have 15 to 20 games against international opponents," said Sunil Gulati, the team's scheduler. "Then, we'll probably go to Europe the third week of May."

The World Cup begins in Italy, on June 8 and the final is June 8 in Rome. All 24 teams play their first-round games and 16 advance to the second round. The draw will divide the teams in six four-team groups will be held in Rome on June 9.

"It's going to give us the experience in the ultimate arena of the game against most-talented teams in the world," U.S. coach Bob Gadsden said. "You can show them all the films you want, but it's not the same."
