Detention camp prepares for thousands of aliens

Officials hope to discourage 'border crashers'

BAYVIEW (AP) — Truckloads of beds and portable toilets have arrived at a detention camp here as immigration officials prepare to hold thousands of illegal aliens to discourage yet another wave of Central Americans from traveling here.

Nicaraguans, Salvadorans, Guatemalans and Hondurans apparently forgot about the agency's last show of force a year ago along the Mexican border, says Gene McNary, the new chief of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

So the tents, beds, toilets and other equipment are in place and ready to make good on McNary's threat to detain up to 10,000 "border crashers" at a remote detention camp here, northeast of the border city of Brownsville.

McNary, who last month released more than 1,000 people from the same 347-acre compound to save money, now says he will spend as much as necessary to show would-be intruders they can expect to be detained and deported. "It will be humane, but it won't be convenient," Mc-

Nary said in announcing the crackdown Wednesday, and tied immigration law to the sovereignty of the United States. "This is a sovereign nation," McNary said. "We have laws. One of the reasons people want to come to the United States is because of the rule of law ... We are going to enforce the laws concerning the border. At least $11 million will go toward the initial effort of shifting Border Patrol agents and immigration examiners from other parts of the country and packing detainees into large vinyl tents with plywood floors. The first tent, to sleep up to 100 on gray metal bunk beds with military green blankets, was ready for occu-
