Spurs ship Cheeks to Knicks, obtain guard Strickland

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks traded backup point guard Rod Strickland to the San Antonio Spurs on Wednesday for veteran guard Maurice Cheeks.

Strickland, a second-year pro, had expressed unhappiness with his role as a backup to Mark Jackson earlier this season and asked to be traded earlier this season.

He also showed up an hour late to practice on Monday.

Strickland, who left DePaul after his junior season and was the Knicks' top pick in the 1988 draft, averaged 8.2 points and 4.3 assists while playing 20 minutes per game.

Cheeks, 33, was traded from Philadelphia to San Antonio last summer after spending his entire 11-year NBA career with the Philadelphia 76ers.

He averaged 10.9 points and six assists in 35 minutes per game with the Spurs. In his 11 seasons with the 76ers, Cheeks averaged 12.2 points and 7.3 assists in 853 games and leads active players in steals.

"Maurice Cheeks is a proven winner. He has a (championship) ring which is what we are trying bring here," Knicks general manager Al Bianchi said. "This team needs leadership, maturity and stability and that's what Maurice brings. He's an old head who knows how to play the game."

When asked if he was worried that Strickland would be a star in San Antonio long after Cheeks has retired, Bianchi said: "We don't look at it that way. If Rod Strickland goes to San Antonio and becomes a star for 10 years, people in this organization will be happy for him."

Cheeks is expected to back up Jackson while Strickland likely will assume the starting point guard role with the second-place Spurs.

"It is great for us that we were able to get a young player who has a terrific chance to be a great point guard," Spurs coach Larry Brown said. "But we hate giving up Maurice because we owe a lot to him for our success this year. It was just something we felt we had to do."

Cheeks also averaged 6.0 assists and 1.64 steals in 50 games with the Spurs this season.

"Maurice has given us a good effort and has done a great job and is partially responsible for our great start this year," Spurs owner Red McCombs said.

"But from the time he arrived, Maurice indicated he had rather play in an Eastern city and he preferred New York. This trade gave us the chance to get a very talented player in Rod Strickland and it basically satisfies the needs of both Maurice and the Spurs."

Hogs' backer charged with assault withdraws

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Linebacker Shannon Wright, who is charged with three misdemeanors, has withdrawn from the University of Arkansas for personal reasons, UA Coach Jack Crowe said Wednesday.

Wright, 19, was charged Jan. 16 with two counts of misdemeanor theft of property and one count of third-degree assault, also a misdemeanor, according to chief deputy prosecutor David Saxon. A hearing for Wright is on the Fort Smith Municipal Court docket for Thursday.

"Shannon Wright has withdrawn from school for personal reasons," Crowe said in a two-paragraph statement released through the UA's sports information office. "This was Shannon's own decision in what is an extremely trying time in his life. Shannon appears to know what is best for him at this time and I have confidence in Shannon and support his decision."

"Shannon understands what he must do to be eligible to return to the Arkansas football program. I do expect him to return, but I do not have a time frame."

Bob Clow of Fort Smith, Wright's attorney, said earlier that the charges stemmed from Jan. 5 incidents in which four cans of beer were taken from one convenience store and about $12 worth of gasoline was obtained without payment from a second convenience store.

Clow said the assault charge stems from a report by a clerk at the convenience store from which the beer was taken, who said he saw a person flash a gun in the parking lot after the beer had been taken, though the clerk did not say the gun was pointed at anyone.

Wright, a 1989 graduate of Fort Smith Southside, was a standout on defense for the Razorback football team last season. As a freshman, he was the team's fourth-leading tackler with 53 stops as a backup linebacker.

IRS claims Rose underpaid taxes worth over $100,000

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has documented that Pete Rose underpaid his taxes by more than $100,000 between 1985 and 1987, according to a report Wednesday in The Plain Dealer of Cleveland.

The newspaper, quoting unidentified sources, said sworn statements from witnesses interviewed by the IRS state the former Cincinnati Reds manager took cash earned at baseball card shows and stuffed it in suitcases and sacks.

"At this time, the grand jury has not seen fit to take action on any allegations," Rose spokeswoman Barbara Pinzka said Wednesday.

She said she did not know how much money was involved.

"Just because he had income from those shows doesn't mean it was unreported income," Pinzka said.

"Pete was aware of income from card shows and memorabilia shows. I really can't get into what he did or did not report on his tax."

Rose was in Florida and could not be reached for comment.

aren't so new.

Sophomores Travis Williams, Trey Witte and Jason Marshall played last season in backup roles. Williams (third base) and Marshall (shortstop) have both performed well defensively and are among the team's hitting leaders.

Junior co-captain Blake Pyle has split time between first base and catcher. He's the Aggies' only experienced lefthanded hitter and his .294 average this season should mean he'll see lots of playing time.

Pitchers Pat Sweet, Ronnie Allen, Steve Hughes and Kerry Freudenberg have helped make the Aggie staff the best in the Southwest Conference.

Sweet, a senior lefthander, is 2-0 with a 1.35 ERA. Allen has pitched 15.1 innings, more than any other A&M pitcher. Hughes, a junior co-captain hasn't allowed a run in his two relief appearances. Freudenberg (1-0) was almost perfect Tuesday, striking out nine Lamar batters in 3.2 innings.

The pitching has had to be good this season, because the Aggies are hitting an anemic .229.

However, they have made the hits count, and have taken advantage of opponents' errors. In the Lamar doubleheader, A&M took advantage of walks and errors to win 10-5 and 2-1.

Still, everyone — from fans to reporters — wants to know when the 1990 Aggies will start bashing the ball like the 1989 team did. It's an unfair comparison.

Last year's starters were an exceptional group. With nine All-SWC players — three of them All-American — the 58-7 1989 Aggies were possibly the best college baseball team in the history of collegiate ball.

It's unfair to expect any group to follow in their footsteps. It's just bad luck that the 1990 team has to follow such a tough act. No matter how well they do, they'll be compared to last year's squad.

Not even a trip to the College World Series in Omaha will end the comparisons and allow the team to be itself.

So who are these new Aggies? They're winners.
