Bentsen agonizes over EPA rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen sought assurances Thursday that the Environmental Protection Agency would consider the impact of pending landfill regulations in sparsely populated areas of Texas, where officials claim taxpayers may face higher bills to cover costs of compliance.

EPA is scheduled to publish final regulations governing municipal landfills in May or June, and local officials from rural areas fear their communities would experience several financial problems in meeting the stringent proposed rules.

Bentsen, D-Texas, said more than 100 elected officials from Texas

William Reilly in a letter Thursday. While Bentsen agreed garbage disposal regulations must be "shored up" to protect the environment, he warned Reilly that if Texas is denied a role in establishing regulations that are effective and less costly for small communities, "We risk doing more harm than good."

According to Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport, the county and the city of Stanton could operate a landfill for an annual cost of $100,000 if variances are granted taking into consideration low average rainfall, soil conditions, and the water table.

"If convenient landfill facilities are not provided, it is very possible that we will see a return to the dumping of solid waste adjacent to rural roads and in isolated caliche pits."

— Bob Deavenport, judge have sought his help in ensuring that they would be able to comply with the new regulations. A coalition of 48 counties and 35 cities, the Sparsely Populated Entities Coalition, has also been formed in response.

"They are concerned that the particular situations in their areas may make it difficult, if not impossible, to comply with regulations for garbage disposal that are being discussed," Bentsen told EPA Administrator

"Complying with all proposed regulations could readily double this figure," Deavenport told Bentsen in a letter. "If convenient landfill facilities are not provided, it is very possible that we will see a return to the dumping of solid waste adjacent to rural roads and in isolated caliche pits."

O'Donnell Mayor David M. Smith told Bentsen his city would never be able to fund a landfill under the proposed requirements.

"I have researched the cost of garbage collection by private contractors extensively," he said. "Our citizens, many of whom are elderly, underprivileged and on fixed incomes, cannot pay residential garbage rates which might be in excess of $100 per month."

Bruce Weddle, director of the EPA's municipal solid waste program, said the agency is reviewing the concerns of rural communities and can allow some flexibility in areas such as landfill design or location of groundwater monitoring wells.

Restaurant Report

The restaurants listed below were inspected by the Brazos County Health Department between Feb. 19 and Feb. 23. Information is from a food service establishment inspection report.

SCORED BETWEEN 95 AND 100:

Little Caesar's at 601 University Drive. Score — 99. One point was deducted for improper storage of single service articles.

Beetle's BBQ at 1439 W. Villa Maria Rd. Score — 98. Points were deducted for unsatisfactory plumbing maintenance.

31 Treats at 601 University Drive. Score — 98. Points were deducted for unsatisfactory maintenance of non-food contact surfaces.

SCORED BETWEEN 90 AND 94:

Mazzio's Pizza at 1802 S. Texas Ave. Score — 94. Points were deducted for unclean food contact surfaces, uncovered garbage, unclean non-food contact surfaces and unclean floors.

Domino's Pizza at 1504 Holleman Drive. Score — 92. Points were deducted for improper storage of single service articles, unsatisfactory hand drying devices, litter on the premises, hand cleanser not supplied, and unclean floors.

Emilio's Pizza at 2418E S. Texas Ave. Score — 92. Points were deducted for unclean non-food contact surfaces, unprotected outer openings, no hand cleanser provided and unclean floors.

SCORED BETWEEN 85 AND 89:

Cow Hop at 317 University Drive. Score — 88. Points were deducted for poor construction of non-food contact surfaces, unclean non-food contact surfaces, unsatisfactory plumbing maintenance, unsatisfactory wall and ceiling construction, unclean food contact surfaces, improper storage of single service storage articles, unprotected outer openings and unshielded light fixtures.

Chicken Oil Company at 3600 S. College. Score — 87. Points were deducted for unsatisfactory food protection during preparation, unclean food contact surfaces, unsatisfactory hand drying devices, unsatisfactory construction of food contact surfaces, improper storage of single service articles and unprotected outer openings.

David Jefferson, a registered sanitarian at the department, said restaurants with scores of 95 or above generally have excellent operations and facilities. He said restaurants with scores in the 70 or low 80s usually have serious violations in the health report.

Scores can be misleading, Jefferson said, because restaurants can get the same score by having several minor violations or a few major violations. He said the minor violations can be corrected during the inspection. Point deductions or violations in the report range from one point (minor violations) to five points (major violations).

Jefferson said the department might close a restaurant if the score is below 60, the personnel have infectious diseases, the restaurant lacks adequate refrigeration, there is a sewage backup in the building or the restaurant has a complete lack of sanitization for the food equipment.

The department inspects each restaurant every six months. Jefferson said a follow-up inspection is sometimes required if a restaurant has a four- or five-point violation that cannot be corrected during the inspection, or if there are numerous small violations.

Inspectors at the department are registered sanitarians.

Dentist arrested for murder of ex-wife

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A dentist awaiting trial on a charge of indecency with a child was jailed after his ex-wife was found beaten to death with a claw hammer in his examining room, officials said.

Charles M. Tuffiash, 42, was arrested on a murder charge and ordered held in the Bexar County Jail in lieu of $150,000 bond Wednesday. Earlier, the body of his ex-wife Susan was discovered in his office examining room. She apparently was hit on the head several times with a claw hammer that was found there, police homicide Sgt. Eddie Pinchback said.

Officials started searching for Ms. Tuffiash after they were called to the home of Charles Tuffiash's neighbor. The dentist, his clothes bloodied, had gone there seeking help for a cut on his left hand, authorities said.

"He said, 'Sue cut me, she cut me,'" the neighbor reportedly told police.

According to the neighbor, Tuffiash also kept saying, "Who's going to take care of the kids? What's going to happen to them?"

The couple's children were picked up at school by police officers and were taken to stay with relatives, police said.

The dentist was taken to Medical Center Hospital, where he was arrested after the woman's body was found.

Officers said two photo albums were in the examining room. Ms. Tuffiash, 36, reportedly told her boyfriend she planned to meet her ex-husband at his office to exchange some family pictures of their two girls, ages 6 and 9.

The couple was granted a divorce Feb. 8. Tuffiash was scheduled to stand trial in about a month on a charge of indecency with a child.

A Bexar County grand jury indicted Tuffiash in the case Feb. 7. He was released on a $100,000 personal recognizance bond after his arrest Feb. 13.

A 1972 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Dentistry, Tuffiash was found guilty in 1988 of insurance fraud by the Texas State Board of Dental Examiners.
