Quake aftershocks jolt California

Small cities begin figuring cost of broken windows, fallen bricks

UPLAND, Calif. (AP) — Small cities counted the cost of broken windows and fallen bricks as dozens of aftershocks continued to rattle the region Thursday, the day after a strong earthquake jolted much of Southern California.

The town of Pomona alone suffered at least $20 million in damages, officials said.

Safety inspectors in Los Angeles and neighboring San Bernardino counties, which nestle against the San Gabriel and San Bernardino mountains, began checking gas and water lines along with older, unreinforced brick and masonry buildings.

Wednesday's 3:43 p.m. quake measured 5.5 on the Richter scale and was centered three miles northwest of Upland, 40 miles east of Los Angeles.

It was the most serious trembler to hit California since October's magnitude-7.1 quake in the San Francisco Bay area, which killed 67 people and sparked fears of the massive earthquake predicted for the state in coming years.

Dozens of aftershocks continued to shake Southern California on Thursday, with the day's strongest, magnitude 3.0, at 12:55 p.m.

"We just had a nice little aftershock," Claremont Assistant City Manager Bridget Distelrath said. "We just get big eyes. They're very short, they don't last long enough to get under a table." Immediately after Wednesday's jolt, there was a 5 percent chance of a larger quake within three days, based on historical statistics, seismologist Lucile Jones of the U.S. Geological Survey in Pasadena said. But she said that by Thursday, the probability had dropped to 2 percent or 3 percent.

Injuries from the quake appeared to be minor. Cuts, bruises and a few broken bones were the chief complaints, officials said.

State Office of Emergency Services officials said it appeared that Upland, La Verne, Pomona, Ontario and Claremont were most affected, with Pomona, Claremont and La Verne each declaring emergencies.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gen. Michel Aoun's tanks pierced the defenses of the rival Christian militia in savage fighting Thursday in east Beirut as the showdown entered its second month.

Police said at least 14 people were killed and 50 wounded in assaults by Aoun's American-made M-48 tanks against the urban lines of Samir Geagea's Lebanese Forces militia.

By police count, the fight for control of the 310-square-mile Christian enclave has killed 708 people and wounded 1,984 since it broke out Jan. 30.

A police spokesman reported minor progress by Aoun's tanks, which advanced over nine hours across the open terrain to the edge of the urban area of Nabaa, a pocket held by the Lebanese Forces.

The advance shattered a 12-day lull that followed a cease-fire called by a neutral mediation committee.

"The tanks are at the entrances to the narrow alleys" of the densely populated low-income district, the spokesman said.

He said it would be "extremely dangerous" to push the tanks into the slum-like district, where they would be easy targets for Geagea's experienced street fighters using armor-piercing rocket-propelled grenade launchers.

The advance stopped at 2 p.m. after the captain commanding the attack was killed, but the two sides maintained a fierce exchange of howitzer and mortar shells at the rate of about 40 rounds a minute, said the spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

He said Aoun's tanks had failed to advance along the slopes of Ashrafiyeh, the militia's second stronghold in east Beirut.

A dozen fires blazed out of control in Ashrafiyeh and Nabaa. Smoke billowed from the districts, and the fire department said its engines were not able to leave their underground basement centers to combat the blaze due to the intensity of the clashes.

Fire burns restaurant in Cairo hotel

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Fire broke out in a luxury hotel's tent restaurant early Thursday, and wind-whipped flames leaped to the main building, killing 16 people and injuring about 70. At least one American was among the dead.

Frantic guests at the six-story Heliopolis Sheraton jumped out windows and clambered down bedsheets that were tied together. Many of the injuries were broken bones suffered in falls.

U.S. Embassy spokeswoman Marcelle Wahba said one American was killed, but she refused to release any information on the victim. Three Americans were seriously injured, police Brig. Abdel-Rehim el-Kenawy said.

The blaze broke out at 1 a.m. and burned for nine hours. By early afternoon, after the last flames had been put out and the smoke extinguished, guests were returning to retrieve belongings. As people carried soggy luggage out of the ruined building, rescue teams were seen carrying out at least four bodies.

The hotel northeast of Cairo had no fire alarms or sprinklers, and many guests heard of the fire from other guests.

Tourism Minister Fuad Sultan said the blaze started accidentally in the Nubian Tent restaurant — a cotton canvas tent attached to one of the three blocks of the T-shaped hotel. The head of Cairo's fire brigade, Maj. Gen. Adel Nigm, said such tents are fire hazards and the Sheraton put it up without consulting the fire department.

Sparks jumped from a clay oven to the ceiling of the tent, igniting flames that quickly spread to the hotel Sultan said.

Soldiers desert from Sandinista forces

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Young soldiers have begun to desert from the Sandinista armed forces as the deadline nears for President Daniel Ortega to step down from office, draftees and draftees' relatives said Thursday.

Ortega was defeated in Sunday's election by Violeta Barrios de Chamorro, who has promised to abolish the draft after she is inaugurated on April 25. Some deserters are apparently planning to hide out until that happens.

Her office announced meanwhile Thursday that the president-elect will send a special mission to the United States next week to seek economic aid for Nicaragua, ravaged through the years by economic mismanagement and U.S.-imposed sanctions.

It said Francisco Mayorga, 41, who has done postgraduate work at Yale, will head the mission. Mayorga has often been mentioned as possible minister of economy after Chamorro takes office for a six-year term.

"It will be an exploratory mission to have an initial picture of what's needed, which we will combine with offers for aid already arriving from Western Europe and Latin American countries," Mayorga told reporters.

He said his team will visit Washington and New York for talks with World Bank, Inter-American Development Bank and International Monetary Fund officials.

Although the leftist Sandinistas agreed to give up power to Chamorro and her United National Opposition alliance, they have presented tough demands as transition teams meet to discuss terms.

The Sandinistas want the economic structure they set up left alone; UNO wants to decentralize the economy, privatize state enterprises and free the marketplace.

The Sandinistas also want the military structure left intact, especially if the U.S.-supported Contra guerrillas don't disband; UNO wants to depoliticize the military and reduce its size.

Both sides want the Contras to disband immediately, but Contra leaders say not until Mrs. Chamorro is inaugurated.

Ortega has insisted on keeping the draft where soldiers get leftist political indoctrination alongside military training. Mrs. Chamorro wants "children to go back to school."
