HELP WANTED

Ford Ford Aerospace Corporation

Join our commitment to America's Space Program

Building on Ford Aerospace's 25 year commitment to the success of the nation's space programs, NASA has recently awarded Ford Aerospace significant new contracts supporting NASA Space Shuttle and Space Station programs at Johnson Space Center. This continued growth in our professional staffing gives us the opportunity to offer challenging entry level positions with immediate involvement in the Space programs of today and the planning for tomorrow.

Successful candidates will be teamed with seasoned veterans to provide engineering support and analysis relating to the Safety, Reliability and Quality Assurance of spacecraft systems on the Shuttle and Space Station Freedom. This senior-junior teaming of engineering talent provides a quick leg-up on your career learning curve. The scope of our contract covers the complete range of Spacecraft Systems and disciplines including:

- Mechanical systems
- Power systems
- Propulsion and fluid systems
- Avionics systems
- Telerobotic systems
- Structural loads/dynamics
- Flight dynamics
- Ground control
- Computer aided engineering/modeling
- System Integration and Test
- Software System Engineering
- Information Resource Management
- Mainframe Database Systems Development
- Life Support Systems

We are looking for candidates with a BS or MS degree from a wide range of Engineering disciplines including:

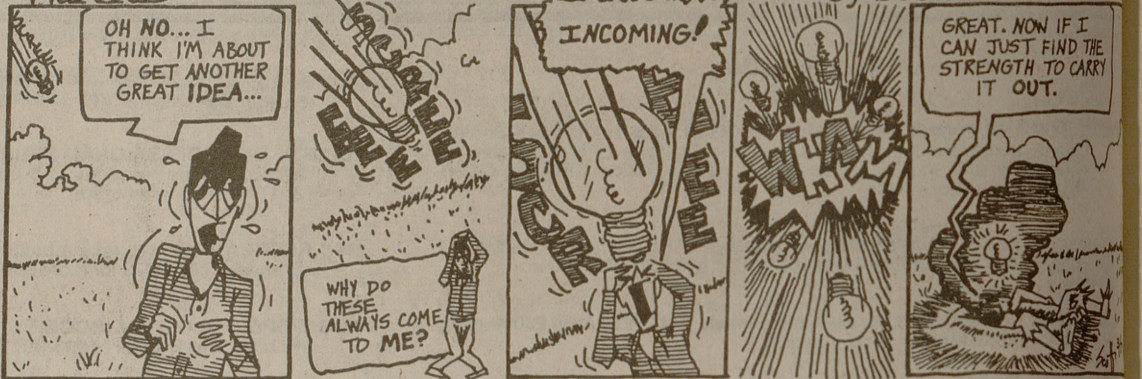

- Electronics Engineering
- Mechanical Engineering
- Computer Science
- Chemical Engineering
- Metallurgy
- Industrial Engineering
- Aerospace Engineering
- Communications
- All/Expert Systems

Positions are also available for engineers with 3-10 years experience in appropriate disciplines.

Ford Aerospace owes its reputation to its people and has always been a "people oriented" company. Growth is commensurate with an individual's talent and performance. We offer a highly competitive benefits package including tuition assistance for advanced degrees. Join us in our challenging work. Send your resume to: Ford Aerospace Corporation, SRM&QA Recruiting, P.O. Box 58487, Houston, Texas 77258. Equal opportunity employers.

Hotels adjust for partiers South Padre prepares for spring break

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND (AP) — Hotels this month are charging steep security deposits to make guests think twice about tossing furniture out the windows. Paintings that normally hang in some of the lobbies and hallways now sit safely in storage. Otherwise, the tolerance level for disorder has risen with the noise level — it must be 'spring break, when college students rule the resort island.

"We've got 23 people in two rooms. It's kind of a mess," said 21-year-old Scott Rudicel, who made the trip from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., for the third year in a row on Tuesday. Myndy Michaels, 20, another sunbathing Ball State student, said she and her sorority sisters had stayed "buzzed" for about 24 hours on drinks called "whammies."

"Padre is the best place to party because it's not like a meat market and there's no rules," she said, "and this is my new bathing suit." Noon had not arrived yet, but fresh kegs of beer were planted in the sand near volleyball nets. Sun reflected off rows of suntan-oiled young women and the ubiquitous day-glow beach wear.

Bonfire

Bowling said he offered people a chance to come inside the student center and use the restrooms, but nobody did. "Bonfire is your business," Bowling told the committee. "But I must ask you to contain the effects." Supporters said this problem could be corrected by providing more port-a-johns at the bonfire site. Some supporters also said they would be willing to return to the site the day after bonfire and clean the surrounding area.

Female supporters said there is no sexual discrimination in any aspect of bonfire, and they also did not feel in danger of being attacked while working on bonfire. One faculty member and 22 students spoke at the hearing. However, time ran out before many people were given a chance to be heard. Stout said anyone who wanted to speak, but couldn't, should mail written comments to the Faculty Senate office or the student government office. He said all written opinions must be received soon.

The committee is meeting after spring break, and will attempt to form an opinion soon after. "I can't predict what the committee's opinion will be," Stout said. "I think most people realize this is not an all or nothing issue. It's very complex and emotional." There were no major outbursts from the audience, and Stout said the participants proved people can disagree without being disagreeable. "You've shown what Texas A&M is about," Stout said.
