Man loses second job for Klan ties

DALLAS (AP) — A former Tarrant County reserve sheriff deputy's ties to the Ku Klux Klan have caused him to lose another job in law enforcement, a published report said.

Timothy S. Hall, who lost his Tarrant County job in February, has now been fired from his job with a Florida police department.

Police Chief Lonnie Lashley of Century, Fla., said he fired Hall on Saturday, the day after learning about Hall's Klan membership in Texas. Hall had joined the department a week earlier.

Hall was fired because he had not listed his position with the Tarrant County Sheriff's Department on his application, Lashley told the Dallas Morning News.

"He didn't want me to do it, but I had to," the chief said Monday. "He told me that he used to be a Klan member but that he resigned."

Last week, Lashley said that he did not know about Hall's Klan activities before hiring him. Hall also never mentioned that he had worked as reserve deputy in Fort Worth, Lashley said.

Hall could not be reached for comment Monday.

In February, Hall and two full-time Tarrant deputies were fired for their Klan involvement.

Student shoots classmate at high school

DALLAS (AP) — A 16-year-old Skyline High School student was in fair condition Tuesday after being shot on campus by another student who had been suspended the day before for fighting, authorities said.

The 10th-grader was shot in the abdomen and was being treated at Baylor University Medical Center, said Carrie Douglas, a hospital spokeswoman.

Police were looking for a 17-year-old student suspected in the shooting, said Dallas Police Detective Joe Henderson.

The 17-year-old had been suspended on Monday after fighting with a friend of the 16-year-old, said Gene Golden, Skyline principal.

Golden said the shooting wasn't gang-related, but involved family disputes.

"The only thing I know of (is) there has been a longstanding disagreement between two groups of kids and these two that had the fight yesterday had been involved before," he said. "It is something in their home neighborhood. It is strictly a thing between families. It is not gang-related."

The shooting took place about 3:30 p.m. at the student center on the East Dallas school campus, said Crystal Kia, an employee of the information services office of the Dallas Independent School District.

Kia said that a few weeks ago the 17-year-old had been removed from Skyline and referred to the district's School Community Guidance Center for students with behavior problems. He apparently re-enrolled at Skyline last week, she said.

that," he said. "There is a threat to the United States and to the safety of democracy in the world. We may not see it right away, but there is a threat."

"We are a democracy, we stand for peace," Fortner said. "But there has to be some type of strength to ensure that peace."

"When we help other countries, we're ensuring our future."

Although the Soviet Union appears to be moving toward democracy, Fortner said the United States should maintain its show of force in Europe.

"The Soviet Union is becoming more free, it's not the communist state that it used to be," he said. "But it is still communist, and it's going to remain communist. There is some danger left, and we need to recognize that."

Fortner also questioned Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev's intentions.

"Can we really assume that Gorbachev is that much of a reformer, that he could get elected in the Soviet Union," he said. "Can we really assume that the Communists are really going to become lax and let go of what they've held on to for so long?"

"There is some danger left and we need to recognize that," he said. Opinions expressed by audience members ranged across the spectrum.

One person, who said he had been in Germany recently, asked the audience to see the situation from the German's perspective. He asked them how they would feel if German troops were stationed in St. Louis.

Another, who had served in the military, said in 1980 the United States was in "ready-fighting form, but expressed doubt about its capabilities now."

"Our state of readiness has been cut to the bare bones already," he said. "If you cut it any further, we'll be in trouble."

One audience member agreed with Fortner and said, "There has been going on long enough to drive our guard."

Another person said the United States could build up domestic industry with the money saved from troop reductions.

"We are a democracy, we stand for peace. But there has to be some type of strength to ensure that peace."
