City council votes on Raider move

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Silver and black T-shirts proclaiming the Raiders were back sold like crazy, and thousands of seats were reserved for the 1992 season. But the shirts may be collectors' items and tickets refunded after officials vote Tuesday on rescinding their deal with the NFL team.

The apparent defeat of the deal between the Raiders and the city of Oakland has been reluctantly acknowledged by team and local officials as the City Council prepared to vote to withdraw a $428 million offer to lure the team back.

The controversial arrangement negotiated during the last 14 months seemed swiftly undone by an end run of petitions to place the football pact before Alameda County voters.

Oakland mayor Lionel Wilson announced Monday that he would ask for the vote, saying that if the deal "isn't dead, it's dying."

Alameda County Board of Supervisor Don Perata said he, too, saw the petition drive as a yellow flag killing the play to get the Raiders to leave Los Angeles and return to the Oakland Coliseum, where they played from 1960 to 1982. The team's lease in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum expires at the end of the 1991 season.

"In my judgment, the deal is over with," Perata said. "We can get on to other matters. The mayor has an election and I have other business."

It was the business end of the Oakland-Raiders game plan opponents questioned. They feared local taxpayers already strapped with huge expenses and debts would be stuck paying millions to the NFL team if the games didn't sell out over the 15-year term of the proposed contract.

Oakland already owes the Raiders more than $8 million in damages and legal fees as a result of losing a lawsuit to keep the team from leaving town.

Jack Brooks, a partner with Raiders managing general partner Al Davis, said the package the team had agreed to orally was different from the city's and county's final offer, and he wasn't sure there was anything for voters to cast ballots about.

The city and county reduced ticket sale guarantees to the Raiders by $174 million after March 30.

"You can't pull something off the table that's not there," said Brooks.

"If the various politicians running political campaigns come up with one common agreement, I will listen to them, but that would be something of a miracle," Brooks said.

Davis was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Astros hand Braves sixth consecutive loss

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Glenn Davis got his swing and his smile back in the first inning against the Atlanta Braves on Wednesday night.

Davis hit a three-run homer, his first of the year, and rounded the bases smiling to lead the Astros to a 10-5 victory over the slumping Braves.

Craig Biggio and Bill Doran singled off Derek Lilliquist (0-2) prior to Davis' homer.

"I was telling Doran that this is what's so much fun about this game," Davis said. "I told him now we can have a little fun."

Davis didn't have much fun Tuesday night when he struck out four times in Houston's 5-3 victory. He had only five hits going into Wednesday night's game.

"It's a funny game. One night you feel like you never played the game and the next night you're doing all kinds of things," Davis said.

Davis had three straight hits, also driving in a run in the Astros' four-run second inning.

The Braves scored two runs in the first inning off Bill Gullickson but they couldn't keep pace with the Astros' 13-hit attack and suffered their seventh loss in eight games this season.

"I got a curve up and inside on him and he just hit it out," Lilliquist said of Davis' homer. "I didn't feel right tonight. I couldn't control the ball the way I normally do."

Braves manager Russ Nixon was not in a talkative mood.

"The way it started out I thought it was going to be a pleasant night," Nixon said. "That feeling didn't last too long. Lilly usually works himself out of a jam. He just didn't have it tonight."

After Xavier Hernandez got the final out in the third inning in relief of Gullickson, winner Dan Schatzeder (1-0) pitched four perfect innings for Houston. Danny Darwin and Jim Clancy each added one perfect inning as the last 19 Atlanta batters were retired.

The Braves took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Oddibe McDowell's leadoff single, Lonnie Smith's triple and Gullickson's wild pitch. After Davis' homer put the Astros ahead in the bottom of the inning, Atlanta tied it in the second on an RBI single by Lilliquist.

Houston went ahead to stay with four runs in the bottom of the second on a run-scoring double by Mark Davidson and RBI singles by Eric Yelding, Doran and Davis.

The Braves made it 7-5 in the third on Jim Presley's RBI double and Dale Murphy's RBI single.

But Houston scored twice in the bottom of the third on RBI groundouts by pinch hitter David Rohde and Yelding. The Astros added a run in the seventh on Yelding's RBI single.

Rangers humiliated in 11-6 pounding from Brewers

ARLINGTON (AP) — Robin Yount's infield single scored two runs to highlight a seven-run, fifth-inning as the Milwaukee Brewers pounded the Texas Rangers 11-6 Wednesday night.

The Brewers chased starter Jamie Moyer (0-2) in the 35-minute half-inning as the Rangers went through four pitchers. Milwaukee sent 13 batters to the plate and only had four hits.

Yount's single bounced off the right leg of reliever Gary Mielke and scored Gary Sheffield and Edgar Diaz, putting Milwaukee ahead 4-2. Rob Deer and Dale Sveum had sacrifice flies, right fielder Ruben Sierra dropped a ball for an error and the Brewers also had four walks and a hit batter.

Milwaukee starter Jaime Navarro couldn't take advantage of a 9-2 lead to get the victory. He gave up three straight singles in the bottom of the fifth and was yanked with no outs in favor of Bill Krueger. Tony Fossas (1-2) wound up the winner, working 1 2-3 scoreless innings.

Julio Franco hit an RBI single in the Texas fifth and the Rangers scored twice in the sixth on run-scoring singles by Jeff Kunkel and Rafael Palmeiro that made it 9-5.

Billy Bates had an RBI single in the Milwaukee seventh and Texas scored in its half on Mike Stanley's pinch-single. The Brewers made it 11-6 in the eighth on Rob Deer's RBI single.

Milwaukee took a 1-0 lead in the first on a walk to Sheffield and a controversial double by Greg Vaughn. The ball appeared to bounce off the top of the fence, but the umpires ruled it hit a concrete wall behind it and called it a home run. After a long conference, the umpires decided it was a double.
