Baltic republic considers proposal

Lithuanian president considers independence non-negotiable

MOSCOW (AP) — Lithuania's president said Wednesday his Baltic republic would consider suspending temporarily some of the pro-independence laws that drove the Kremlin to impose an economic embargo two weeks ago.

President Vytautas Landsbergis agreed to the step in a letter to French and West German leaders who last week proposed that such a compromise would help start negotiations between the republic and Moscow.

"Everything is negotiable which does not question the matter of restored independence of the Lithuanian state on March 11, 1990."

Former hostage Reed reveals contact with other Americans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former U.S. hostage Frank Reed revealed Wednesday he was held for months with two other American captives in Lebanon and said he was angry and embarrassed that they have not been freed.

Reed, who was released Monday after 42 months in captivity, said he also was held with two British hospital bathrobe, said he last saw Sutherland in February 1989. Sutherland turns 59 on Thursday, marking his fifth birthday in captivity.

Reed, 57, also said he spent three years in the intermittent company of Briton John McCarthy and Brian Keenan, a dual Anglo-Irish citizen. He said he saw them just before his release and they were "well and alive."

"I have been with John and Brian since last October," Reed said. "I've spent almost three years either with John and Brian or having them somewhere in the house with me."

McCarthy, 33, a journalist for the London-based Worldwide Television News agency, WTN, was kidnapped April 17, 1986. Keenan, 39, disappeared while walking to work six days later.

tages. Reed was flown Tuesday to Wiesbaden for a battery of medical exams and questioning at the U.S.

"I tell you, I'm very, very angry that Anderson... Tom and Terry... are not free," Reed said from the hospital balcony.

hospital bathrobe, said he last saw Sutherland in February 1989. Sutherland turns 59 on Thursday, marking his fifth birthday in captivity.

Mexico asks for extradition of 'guilty men'

SANTA FE (AP) — Mexican officials Wednesday asked for the extradition of a man who says he works for the U.S. government and masterminded the alleged abduction of a Mexican doctor accused of participating in the death of a U.S. drug agent.

Mexican Attorney General Enrique Alvarez del Castillo made the request during a meeting with U.S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh, said a spokesman for Alvarez.

"Mexico will ask for the extradition of the guilty men," Fernando Arias Perez told reporters gathered at the hotel where the meeting was under way.

Arias also said that Mexico wants an agreement with the United States that would allow Mexican drug agents to operate in the United States the same way U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents work in Mexico. He said there are 41 DEA agents in Mexico.

Arias said the two countries' ambassadors, John Negroponte of the United States and Gustavo Petricoli of Mexico, were at the meeting being held as a three-day conference of border state attorneys general began in Santa Fe.

He said the Mexican government also wants to extradite others who may have participated in the abduction of Dr. Humberto Alvarez Machain on April 2.

The abduction of the doctor has strained relations between the United States and Mexico, which has threatened to stop cooperation in the fight against drug trafficking.

A former Mexican police officer and longtime operative for the DEA, Antonio Garate Bustamante, told the Los Angeles Times last week that he arranged the abduction of Alvarez with approval from the DEA.

Garate said 10 Mexicans were promised $100,000 for Alvarez's capture and delivery to El Paso, Texas, according to the Times.

Arias said one of five men arrested in the abduction plot, Garate at the scene. That man, Jorge Cobarrubias, an ex-police officer from the Mexican state of Hidalgo, said he lined up the others to help grab the doctor, Arias said.

Arias said the two attorneys general were talking about possible formal charges against Garate and others.

United States deports man to Mexico

MEXICALI, Mexico (AP) — A Mexican man wanted in connection with the murder of a journalist was arrested in the United States and turned over to Baja California state judicial authorities, Gov. Ernesto Ruffo Appel said Wednesday.

Ruffo told a news conference in Mexicali, the state capital, that Antonio Vera Palestina was picked up Tuesday afternoon by police in El Monte, Calif., where he was living as an illegal alien under an assumed name, and deported to Mexico the same evening.

Vera Palestina was wanted on a bench warrant for the April 20, 1988, fatal shooting of Hector Felix Miranda, a muckraking columnist and co-publisher of the weekly newspaper Zeta also known as "El Gato" or The Cat.

Felix Miranda received death threats several times for denouncing corruption in the Baja California state government while the Institutional Revolutionary Party was in power.

Columbian politicians call for more protection

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A spokesman for Colombia's M-19 opposition party called Wednesday for international campaign observers as a safeguard after the assassinations of three presidential candidates in recent months.

"We are calling on the governments of Latin America, the Organization of American States and the United Nations to create a verification group in Colombia whose first task would be to name representatives to accompany candidates in their public appearances," said Rafael Vergara. He is a member of M-19's national board of directors and representative of its political diplomatic commission in Mexico.

There was no immediate reaction out of Bogota to the M-19 proposal.

Vergara, speaking at a news conference, also charged that the U.S. drug war strategy in his country is a way of dominating Colombian politics.

"The United States has a demoted policy that serves as a pretext for intervention," he said in a news conference. "The problem of narcotics trafficking can't be solved by way of simple repression," he added.

M-19 left behind 20 years as a guerrilla organization on March 8 and converted itself in a political party. Its candidate, Carlos Pizarro, announced his presidential intentions April 19.

Pizarro, 38, the son of a former army chief, became the third presidential candidate assassinated in the campaign, when he was shot on April 26.

"Carlos Pizarro symbolizes the proposal for a negotiated solution to the narcotics trafficking problem," Vergara said.

M-19's September proposal for a verified dismantling of cocaine networks and trials of drug traffickers in Colombia was accepted by the drug cartels in December, Vergara said.

"But the United States wants the trials to be in the United States, which has only exacerbated anti-American sentiments and politicized the narcotics traffickers," he said.

Pizarro was shot in the head and neck on a plane carrying him to Bogota for a campaign rally. Cocaine lords claimed responsibility.

M-19's second-in-command, former guerrilla Antonio Navarro Wolf, 40, is now running for election against seven other candidates in presidential polling May 27.

Vergara said international observers should accompany all candidates, not just Navarro Wolf.
