rexas A&M Battalion

Vol. 89 No. 185 USPS 045360 6 Pages

ust 3,

ullar

Lew

YED H, T

ING IT.

Madis

E THE

ts

oga, Son

Natio

years

logist fossili

iking

ttle 0

1 at th

Scan

out

en, I py a

T C

ol,

dry

College Station, Texas

Security Council orders Iraqi embargo Equipment available

UNITED NATIONS(AP) - The J.N. Security Council on Monday ordered a worldwide embargo on trade with Iraq to punish the Arab oil and military power for its inva-sion of Kuwait. A defiant Iraqi leadership vowed to resist the economic and military pressure being marshaled by the United States.

The Iraqi people "cannot be frightened," Iraq's army commander

The Security Council vote, 13-0, came on a U.S.-sponsored resolution and represented the first such total trade and arms boycott by the United Nations in 23 years. Two members of the 15-nation council, Cuba and Yemen, abstained.

If successfully enforced, the sanc-tions could cripple the heavily oil-dependent Iraqi economy. In Washing-ton, President Bush declared, These sanctions will be enforced whatever it takes.

The vote in New York came on the fifth day of a crisis precipitated by the Iraqi army's blitzkrieg take-over of neighboring Kuwait.

but they appeared to be in no danger, British officials said.

Tension remained high along the Saudi Arabia-Kuwait border. Saudi Arabian forces were reported mov-ing northward into areas close by the united against crime.

Of The Battalion Staff

residents.

bration of crime prevention.

College Station, Bryan and Texas

A&M University police departments are organizing block parties for area

These parties give neighbors a chance to go outside and get to know moved close enough to launch air strikes throughout the Persian Gulf or even against Iraqi targets. In a victory for Bush, the U.N. Security Council voted 13-0 for sweeping trade and military sanctions, including a ban on oil purchases, as punish-ment for Iraq's invasion of Kuwait. The penalties could include a blockade, which would halt Iraq's commerce and travel.

NATIONAL

"These sanctions will be enforced - whatever it takes," Bush vowed. Great Britain's Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Britain had ordered two additional frigates to join its single warship in the gulf, making Britain the second NATO ally to send extra forces. France earlier dispatched a frigate to join two French warships. The United States also pressed a campaign to Iraqi troops rounded up some the Persian Gulf — in reports other-Americans and Britons on Monday, wise unconfirmed — said U.S. rapid deployment units had been dispatched to the Middle East.

• Texans react/Page 3 • World leaders react/Page 4

choke off Iraq's oil exports by closing pipelines in Turkey and Saudi Arabia. Bush refused to say what Turkey and Saudi Ara-bia would do but said, "I think you'll see a lot of countries now coming together to deny this man (Saddam) any market at all

The White House said it was discussing "military possibilities" with Persian Gulf states to prevent Iraq's Saddam Hussein from taking his conquering army into oil-rich Saudi Arabia. Defense Secretary Dick Cheney went to the Saudi city of Jiddah to discuss security arrangements and Secretary of State James A. Baker III was ordered to go to Turkey at midweek

There was rising concern for the safety of Americans sources said.

plummeted again, worried that an oil crisis could touch off a recession. Oil prices rose more than 10 percent Monday. Many motorists in the United States and elsewhere were paying sharply higher prices for gas-

Iraqi tanks and infantry poured into Kuwait on Thursday after President Saddam Hussein complained that the Kuwaiti violation of OPEC production quotas had driven down world crude prices, lowering Iraqi oil revenues. Saddam also accused Kuwait of stealing oil from a border oilfield both countries claim. Together, Iraqi and Kuwaiti output equals 9 percent of world daily oil produc-

The United States led the worldas a threat to international order, and mobilized world governments to for free in A&M's cut off oil and other business with Stores Department. Iraq.

Bush says Iraq's "naked aggres-sion ... will not stand," and White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Monday that "the defense of Saudi Arabia is of paramount concern

But Iraq defied the diplomatic,

In the Iraqi capital of Baghdad, President Saddam summoned the U.S. charge d'affaires, Joseph Wil-son, and "warned against any act that might endanger the region's peace and security," the official Iraqi news agency reported.

await new home By JAMES M. LOVE Of The Battalion Staff Many Texas A&M faculty members and students needing supplies

> what they need often can be found for free in A&M's Purchasing and Everything from chairs and desks to computers and scientific equipment, which has been discarded or

Olen Williamson, assistant supervisor of the department, said when a building is torn down or equipment is replaced, the old equipment is collected and offered to students or fac-

"All we need is an acknowledgment from the user's department that the equipment is needed," he said. "The equipment is checked out by the user, and we just keep track of where it is until it's returned."

plus material.

"A lot of graduate students who are short on budget can often find usable scientific equipment here and use it at no cost," he said.

Williamson said everything used by the University ends up in the surplus. If surplus equipment cannot be utilized, it will be scrapped or sold in

The surplus inventory includes unopened computer programs, file cabinets, televisions, an air conditioning unit, vacuum cleaners, sterilizers, scientific samplers and a mis-equipment, and we won't get $50,000 for it in an auction."

Williamson said auctions are held about every three or four months.

For more information concerning which city had the greatest partici-By ISSELLE MCALLISTER

Neighbors light way

for crime prevention pation. Also sponsoring contests are local law enforcement agencies. Various Aggieland residents can turn on parties will compete to see block their porch lights at 9 p.m. tonight to which had the highest percentage turnout. Winners will be recognized by the mayor, Sayers said, and a sign et criminals know police departments and neighborhoods are will be posted in the winning block. Illuminating porch lights are part of activities during the seventh an-nual National Night Out, a cele-

The two categories are neighborhood watch groups of 14 or fewer homes and watch groups of 15 or more homes.

Lighting is the cheapest form of crime prevention, he said, because criminals hide under the cover of darkness to conceal their illicit activities. Thus, National Night Out's theme is "Lights On Means Lights Out for Crime

Sayers said 20 million households participated in night out activities last year.

This year, apartments are in-cluded in the block party contest because the majority of local crimes happen to students living in complexes.

The University Apartment Cou

machine.

Water works

the Persian Gulf, within striking dis-

to defend the oil kingdom against any attack by Iraq's powerful war

• In the Arabian Sea, a 13-ship U.S. Navy battle group, led by the aircraft carrier USS Independence, took up station outside the mouth of

In occupied Kuwait, meanwhile, Iraqi units in Kuwait. Diplomats in ferred with Saudi leaders about how tance of Gulf flashpoints, Pentagon economic and military pressure.

• Major stock markets worldwide wide condemnation of the invasion or equipment do not realize that replaced, is in surplus waiting for a new home.

ulty members. Williamson said anyone is wel-come to use the equipment as long as it is in affiliation with the University.

Williamson said many graduate students take advantage of the sura public auction.

sile guidance system.

"We've got all kinds of stuff out here waiting to be used," he said. "We try to find the best use for what we get in here," he said. "Some of it is brand new, and it's a real shame when we are unable to find a user. We've got $2 to $3 million in

"We push, however, for the re-utilization of the equipment," he said. 'It's a real loss to the University to buy this merchandise at full cost and then not use it."

surplus equipment or the Purchas-ing and Stores Department, call Williamson at 845-3427

Don Nelson, chief examiner of the Texas State Board of Plumbing Examiners, explains the cross connections within plumbing systems and demonstrates where they are located. Nelson conducted his lecture on the east side of Rudder Tower Monday.

Photo by Söndra N. Robbins

Weekend gathering turns into Razorback roast.

SWC Media Day

Tuesday, August 7, 1990

to students

A&M surplus goods

See Page 5

America's Night Out Against Crime

one another better so they can look out for each other.

The goal of National Night Out is to combat apathy, said Senior Officer W.L. Sayers of the College Station Police Department. He said he wants people to report suspicious activity as it is occurring, not after a crime has occurred.

During National Night Out, residents are asked to turn on their house's outside lights at approxi-mately 9 p.m. because a U.S. Air Force weather satellite will photo-graph North America.

The picture will be taken from 500 miles above the Earth to measure the increase in outdoor lighting. The satellite also will take a series of shots on the nights before and after the event to compare. Texas A&M will illuminate lights on Kyle and Olsen fields, the National Guard will shine search lights, apartment complexes will light tennis courts and every bulb in every lamp post in the city parks will be turned on for the picture. Sayers said the lights prove to criminals that Brazos County is aware of crime and is fighting back. Additionally, every city in the United States will compete to see those that are.

Owned Apartments office at the intersection of South College and University Drive.

At 6:45 p.m., firetrucks from the Texas Engineering Extension Service and the College Station Fire Department will drive around the Uni-versity apartments, said Lt. Bert mater Kretzschmar, UPD crime prevention supervisor.

judge a children's coloring contest at p.m., and free refreshments will be served at 7:45 p.m.

KAMU remote and an appearance school. by A&M President William H. Mob-together, they're tough to beat.

According to a study of the Fresno, Calif. Crime Prevention Unit, neighborhoods not involved in a crime watch program are burglarized three times more often than ness" program. those that are. "I don't remember too many neg-

A&M students, faculty and staff. The party will be at the University Owned Apartments office or the initial

By JULIE MYERS Of The Battalion Staff

A flat tire and a blowout in Houston Monday morning couldn't stop her from coming back to her alma

"I have a special place in my heart for Texas A&M, because they did The McDonald's Hamburglar will me the biggest favor of anyone, other than my parents," Houston City Councilwoman Beverley Clark said. "In 1972, A&M reached out to Other activities planned include a performance by the Aggie Wran-glers, international dancers, a sly and without goals through high

Without the money, Clark says college would have been an impossi-Sayers said when neighbors band bility because she grew up in housing projects and couldn't afford to pay for college herself. Clark was the keynote speaker at Monday's "Open Doors, Open Minds - Raising Cultural Aware-

Students: A&M, cultural heritage collide

By JULIE MYERS Of The Battalion Staff

Four Texas A&M students said their experiences at A&M have both enhanced and detracted from their cultural heritage.

The students participated in a panel discussion during Monday's "Open Doors, Open Minds — Raising Cultural Awareness" program. Ramsey Bradberry, a senior industrial distribution major, said the people he has met at A&M and the support systems he has found here have enhanced his cultural experience.

However, junior pre-med major Georgette Lopez-Aguado said her experiences at A&M detracted from her cultural experience because no one seems to care.

"Coming to A&M, I've realized there are so many people in my life that do not understand anything about my culture," Lopez-Aguado said. "Education of where these cultures come from and what they mean to different people is vital to the educational

See Awareness /Page 6

ative experiences about A&M, even dents dropped out of school in hoods and find their way to anyone's college and be adjusted enough to do a good job. My hat goes off to those kids who do make it to college and do not disappear in the seventh and eighth grade

Clark said the dropouts will be dren can learn in these neighbor- See Clark/Page 6 though when I came there were no more than 50 black students out of 18,000 students," Clark said. But, she said, the same education system that produced a Houston city coucilwoman is in serious trouble. Last year, Clark said, 101,000 stu-

<sup>n</sup> Rebel leader orders arrest of foreigners in Monrovia

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) - Rebel leader Prince Johnson said Saturday he is ordering the arrest of all foreigners in Monrovia in hope of provoking international intervention in the nation's bloody civil war.

Johnson, whose troops have occupied much of the city in their battle to oust Presi-dent Samuel Doe, told reporters the roundup would begin Monday and single out American, British, Lebanese and Indian civilians at first.

Four U.S. warships containing 4,000 Marines have been stationed off the Liberian coast for weeks, but Washington repeatedly has ruled out intervening. The forces could presumably evacuate the few hundred remaining Americans.

Fighting has shifted considerably throughout the capital in recent days, and it was unclear whether foreigners in sections now under Johnson's control could move freely to areas controlled by Doe's troops.

A Lebanese trader on Saturday became the first foreigner reported killed in the fighting, which began as an insurgency in December but which has since turned into vicious tribal war including massacres and torture

Mohamed Farhat, who had lived in the Liberian capital for more than 15 years, was reportedly shot and killed in front of his wife and four children when he tried to stop Doe's troops from looting his furniture store

Johnson himself shot and killed a Liberian wearing a Red Cross emblem Friday, claiming the man was selling rice that was hope this will create an international incident, so foreign troops can come in to intervene."

Prince Johnson, Monrovian rebel leader

supposed to be free, according to a Western journalist who saw the shooting.

"I want the world to know how we deal with profiteers," Johnson said before firing a burst from his AK-47 assault rifle, killing him instantly while another detained relief worker - still handcuffed to the victim said rice vouchers were being sold to prevent a stampede

The victim, whose name was not known, was arrested with Jacques Monthouroy, a Frenchman working for the U.S. Catholic Relief Services. Monthouroy was released after the U.S. Embassy vouched for him. The killing has stopped rice distribution in Monrovia.

The fighting in the civil war is centered in Monrovia, where forces loyal to Johnson are trying to topple Doe, whose troops were defending Doe's fortified mansion. Forces loyal to a rival rebel leader, Charles Taylor, had been stopped by Doe's troops east of the capital.

At least 2,000 foreigners, mostly Lebanese and Indian traders, still live in the embattled capital. Besides the Americans, the Westerners include a few dozen Bri-

It was not clear whether Johnson's order included the many diplomats who remain in Monrovia, including U.S. Ambassador Peter de Vos and British Ambassador Michael Gore.

"I have decided to give a rigid order to arrest all foreign nationals," Johnson told reporters at his field headquarters in the capital's Bushrod Island. Those arrested would be held at a secret location, he said.

"They will not be harmed," Johnson promised.

'I hope this will create an international incident, so foreign troops can come in to intervene," he said.

tons process.'

ties

Houston and its surrounding coun-

'That's very, very sad," Clark said.

"Some neighborhoods in the Brazos

Valley and Houston are sheer wastelands. I do not understand how chil-