Top airlines squabble over flight schedules

FORT WORTH (AP) — United Airlines promised to comply with a federal judge's order to make changes in schedules at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport. American Airlines went to court Monday to press for the changes, contending United's proposed schedule was misleading. U.S. District Judge John McBride ordered the change the same day.

The Fort Worth-based carrier said United schedules starting Oct. 1 reflect not-yet-approved deviations from federal guidelines on takeoffs and landings at O'Hare.

The rules are high density slot rules, intended to regulate traffic at four of the nation's busiest airports by designating times for takeoffs and landings. "United will comply with the court's order, and we expect the FAA on Friday to approve formal our schedule, which we carefully designed to reduce congestion and lay at O'Hare," United said in statement.

McBride has scheduled a hearing for Sept. 4 to decide whether to issue a preliminary injunction that would bar United from operating under the new flight schedules, American spokesman Ed Stewart said.

"Passengers will show up at the airport expecting to depart at the time listed in the timetable, only to find the flight won't depart on schedule because United doesn't have a slot at that time," American general counsel Anne McNamara said.

Earlier this year, United resumed its position as the nation's largest carrier, replacing American.

Battle of briefcases Overspending becomes issue in state campaign

AUSTIN (AP) — A battle over briefcases erupted Tuesday between lieutenant governor candidates Rob Mosbacher Jr. and Bob Bullock.

Republican Mosbacher, said Bullock, the Democratic state comptroller, ran an inefficient "gold-plated agency."

Evidence of Bullock's excesses, Mosbacher said, is the purchase of 819 briefcases for the comptroller's office since 1984 at a cost of $32,000 to the taxpayer.

Bullock's campaign said the briefcases were needed by state auditors who bring back 12 times their salary in tax revenue.

Prior to purchasing the briefcases, the employees had to tote files in plastic bags when auditing businesses, said Bullock aide John Bender.

He said the briefcases are owned by the comptroller's office, not individual employees.

Bullock said Mosbacher's attack was an attempt to mask his own mismanagement of the Texas Department of Human Services, which has been plagued by budget problems.

Mosbacher is chairman of the DEB governing board.

Mosbacher made his remarks at a news conference while standing behind a mini-mountain of borrowed briefcases.

He said that before Bullock was elected comptroller in 1974, it cost taxpayers 55 cents to collect every $100 in tax revenue. That figure had increased to $1 per $100 of tax revenue, he said.

"You would think in an age of automation, the cost of collecting money would drop," Mosbacher said. "It has elsewhere, but not at Bob's shop."

Bullock said Mosbacher ignores the 130 percent inflation rate since 1975, and that average employee pay has gone up 100 percent.

"Junior's accusations are the mark of a desperate candidate losing an election," Bullock said.

Hightower's campaign manager James Clark, said the debate "doesn't fit into our schedule."

Clark said Hightower had agreed to a debate with Perry to be taped Oct. 6 in Dallas by KERA-TV.
