HELP WANTED

$25,200. MONEY FOR COLLEGE.

The Army can help you earn up to $25,200 for college with the Montgomery GI Bill Plus the Army College Fund.

And there's another way we can help you succeed in college—by offering you learning experiences that will help you develop the self-confidence and discipline so important to achieving college goals.

Here's how we help you earn money for college. You, as a soldier, contribute $100 a month from your first full twelve months' paychecks (for a total of $1,200). Then the government and the Army contribute the rest (up to $9,600 from the government and up to $14,400 from the Army).

We can help you get the money and develop the characteristics that will help you achieve success once you enroll. For more information, call your local Army Recruiter.

De Klerk makes pledge to investigate violence

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — President F.W. de Klerk told church leaders Tuesday he would investigate charges that police sided against supporters of the African National Congress in recent township violence.

Black leaders have blamed police for fueling the two weeks of savage street fights in black townships around Johannesburg that killed more than 500 people.

Police said two black men were killed in unrest Tuesday, but the townships were peaceful for a fourth straight day following a government crackdown.

Also Tuesday, police raided the headquarters of South Africa's largest labor federation and arrested its secretary general, Jay Naidoo, and two others. The three were charged with kidnapping, robbery and assault. All three were later released on bail, and Naidoo denied the charges.

The raid followed a news conference at Naidoo's Congress of South African Trade Unions, where officials presented a man they said had been spying for the police, the independent South African Press Association reported.

A delegation of church leaders, including Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu and the Rev. Frank Chikane, head of the South African Council of Churches, met in Pretoria with de Klerk and Adriaan Vlok, the law and order minister.

After the two-hour meeting, Chikane told journalists the president had pledged to investigate charges that police aided Zulu-based Inkatha supporters in the fighting against Xhosa and other blacks loyal to the African National Congress.

ANC leader Nelson Mandela, Tutu and other anti-apartheid figures have said police bias toward Inkatha inflamed the situation. They accused police of disarming and scattering ANC supporters while allowing Zulus to carry crude weapons considered part of their tribal heritage and costume.

Government officials have denied the charges. De Klerk has previously said individual officers may have acted improperly, but the police force as a whole followed orders to be impartial.

The fighting erupted Aug. 12 in Johannesburg area townships and raged for two weeks until the government declared a de facto state of emergency.

Court remains short one justice until nomination

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court will be one justice short when it begins its new term Oct. 1, because there is not enough time before then for nominee David H. Souter to win Senate confirmation, sources said Monday.

"It's a matter of timing," said a Senate Judiciary Committee aide who requested anonymity.

The aide said the earliest date for a committee vote on Souter's nomination would be Sept. 27, a full two weeks after the Sept. 13 start of his confirmation hearings.

Souter was nominated to replace Justice William J. Brennan, who resigned last month, citing health reasons.

If all goes smoothly for the judge from New Hampshire, his nomination likely will reach the full Senate the week of Oct. 1 or Oct. 8.

Committee aides, both Democrats and Republicans, said no committee vote on Souter is likely before Sept. 27 even if his hearings last only three days.

At the Supreme Court, plans for a Sept. 25 swearing-in ceremony for Souter quietly have been shelved.
