UH's Spoon on bail

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston running back Chuck Weatherspoon is free on $500 bail after he was charged with misdemeanor assault in connection with the weekend assault of another student.

Richard Labs, 33, said he was attacked "out of the blue" and suffered a black eye.

"I don't know what provoked

him," Labs said.

Weatherspoon, 22, a senior, faces a Friday court appearance.

Weatherspoon, who set an NCAA rushing record last season by averaging 9.6 yards per carry, was accused of being involved in an incident Saturday night at an apartment complex at the school. He was jailed, but was released after posting bail on Sunday.

"We received a report that one of our football players was involved in an assault," school spokesman Eric Miller said. "We don't know why Weatherspoon and the other gentleman got into words, but they did. I have no details about who did what to whom."

Tagliabue warns Glanville of fine

PITTSBURGH (AP) — NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue has warned Atlanta Falcons coach Jerry Glanville that he will be fined if he continues criticizing opposing coaches.

Glanville, the former Houston Oilers coach, called Oilers coach Jack Pardee "a total jerk" after the Falcons' 47-27 victory over Houston on Sept. 9. He also made a flip-pant remark to a group of Texas sports writers after declining to answer their questions.

"I sent (Glanville) a letter warning him," said Tagliabue, who attended the Steelers-Oilers game Sunday night. "I reminded him that at the league meetings in March, the competition committee, as well as the 28 clubs, told me to crack down on what they believed was unsportsmanlike, uncalled for, flip comments by coaches.

"And so I sent him a reminder and made it clear if it happens again, he's going to be fined. And not just Jerry Glanville ... (it's) any coach in the league who makes statements like that."

Tagliabue said the "jerk" crack prompted him to write Glanville.

"Last year, we had coaches calling other coaches names and we had coaches criticizing fans, in the case of Cincinnati and Cleveland," he said. "The competition committee ... really came down strong on that at the league meetings, and I'm going to come down strong this season."

Tagliabue said he knew of Cleveland defensive tackle Michael Dean Perry's remarks that a couple of roughing the passer penalties were worth taking to punish Steelers quarterback Bobby Brister.

Dykes looking forward to game at New Mexico

LUBBOCK (AP) — Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes knew there was a good chance his team would be 0-2 after opening against nationally-ranked Ohio State and Houston.

But that doesn't make it any easier to accept.

"Losing is horrible and it takes a lot out of ya," Dykes said Monday. "We knew there was a chance we would be where we are. But the last thing we can do right now is start worrying about being 0-2. We have got a lot of tough teams ahead of us."

The Red Raiders hope to rebound Saturday at New Mexico after a 17-10 opening loss to No. 16 Ohio State and a 51-35 pounding by No. 14 Houston.

"We signed up for 11 football games," Dykes said. "There are two gone and nine left and I don't think we have got anyone that is going to quit. I don't have a white flag and I don't think our team does."

Dykes said it will be "fun playing a team that is not nationally ranked." But he added New Mexico (1-2) will be ready for Tech.

"The Lobos always are a very difficult team for us," Dykes said. "It will be their homecoming so you know they will be wired up. We were very fortunate to beat them a year ago."

Tech rallied late in the fourth quarter last year to edge New Mexico 27-20. The defense preserved the victory with a goal-line stand with less than two minutes to play.

"We had all we could bargain for and then some," Dykes said. "They are a lot better than they were a year ago. They will be better than they have ever been Saturday. I will guarantee you that."

Dykes said the Raiders have made progress despite losing their first two games.

Southeast Conference, not about anything.

And I'm expected to think people read the sports section when I've gotten no response save this one group of guys that calls up and complains that I've run more Cowboys stories than Oilers stories and then adds that we're idiots.

Fine. I've tried to run more Oilers stories, so that problem is solved. But we've still got the rest of you who think I didn't sit at Kyle Field

Saturday night watching the game and feel this is the time to call me to let me know you're proofreading the pages.

When I'm here at 2 a.m. laying out a page so you can read our mistakes as early as possible, 61-13 looks just like 63-14. And if it gets past whomever wrote the headline, me and everyone else who glances at the page before it goes to print, that's the way it gets printed.
