Sheriff shot; vest saves life for second time

AUSTIN (AP) — For the second time, Travis County Deputy Sheriff David Davis' life appears to have been saved by a bulletproof vest.

Davis, who turns 40 on Thursday, was shot Tuesday by a man he never saw as he tried to stop a would-be burglar outside the office of Cablevision of Lake Travis just west of Austin, authorities said.

Davis, who has been with the sheriff's office for five years, was treated for a bruised chest at Brackenridge Hospital and released. Had he not been wearing the vest, "It would have more than likely been fatal," said Sheriff Doyle Bailey.

In 1987, Davis was stabbed in the chest but was wearing a bulletproof vest, said Lt. Don Nelson.

Officers said Davis was on routine patrol during the most recent incident. He stopped at the cable TV office and noticed a man inside a fenced area. Davis told the man to stop, but he started to run. Investigator Gary Cutler said Davis then was shot by someone else who had been hiding in the bushes.

Bailey said all 68 sheriff's officers in the uniform patrol division are issued vests, but they aren't required to wear them.

"They're encouraged to wear them all the time, and most of the officers do," Bailey said.

Return of 'rapist' feared Assailant enters unlocked window, abducts five-year-old from bedroom

RICHARDSON (AP) — A 5-year-old girl was sexually assaulted after she was taken from her bedroom by an assailant who entered an open window, investigators said.

Police in this suburb north of Dallas said the attack early Tuesday closely resembled that of a series of sexual assaults last fall and winter by the so-called "North Dallas rapist."

The latest assault occurred about 5:30 a.m. after the attacker entered an unlocked window of the sleeping girl's home in far northwest Richardson, police Sgt. Ray Pennington said.

"He raised the front window that faces the street and went directly to the child's bedroom," Pennington said. "He took her from the bed, and walked her across the street where he assaulted her."

After the man ran away, the girl returned home to tell her parents, who called authorities. A police helicopter failed to track down the assailant. Police released a suspect's description but no one had been arrested Tuesday night.

"Everyone heard the helicopters this morning and knew that it was more than a burglary," Tricia Little, an area resident, said.

Richardson and Dallas police are comparing details in all the assaults to determine if they are related.

"It's the cool weather. It seems like the windows are open now. Parents are letting the kids sleep with the windows open," Sue Netherland, a resident, said. "It looks like it (the attacks) are starting again."

Boy Scout adviser arrested for assault

HURST (AP) — Charges are pending against a former Boy Scout troop adviser who was arrested after two boys complained that he fondled them, police say.

The man, a 65-year-old Explorer adviser for more than 30 years, was arrested Tuesday by Hurst police following a 10-day investigation.

The investigation began after two former troop members told police they were fondled after troop meetings at the man's home.

The district attorney's office has not filed charges but police expect charges of indecency with a child to be filed against the man.

The man posted bond Tuesday and was released from jail, police said.

Hurst Police Sgt. Richard Winstanley said the boys also told police they were assaulted during an outing to a national park in Montague County about two years ago. Both are 17 now, he said.

Officers confiscated numerous videotapes and home movies from the man's residence. Some show troop members at camping and field trips, and others depict nude youngsters and "acts of exhibition," Winstanley said.

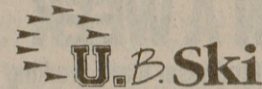

The troop adviser was suspended from his membership with the national organization about four weeks ago when some residents voiced concern about his conduct, Boy Scout officials said.
