Non-Corps group takes care of flags

By LIBBY KURTZ
Of The Battalion Staff

Texas A&M's Aggie Men's Club has added a new responsibility to its list of activities — taking care of the flags on west campus.

AMC has been responsible for lowering and raising the flags on west campus in honor of Silver Taps since September.

Jason Leeds, service chairman, said the club found out last summer it had been recommended by Dr. J. Malon Southerland, student services associate vice president, for the job.

"We were very excited," Leeds says. "We accepted the responsibility immediately. This is the first time a non-Corps group will be responsible for this."

AMC was formed on campus in 1984 as a non-fraternal organization.

"We are a multi-faceted organization," he says. "We have both service and social projects."

Leeds, a junior business administration major, said 10 AMC members are responsible for the flags. "The members volunteered for this special duty," he says. "Lt. Col. Henderson from the Commandant's Office helped orientate us and ordered the flags."

Leeds says the responsibility of taking care of the flags is one of AMC's smaller group projects.

"We have two large group service projects a year," he says. "We try to have one on-campus and one off-campus project. This year, we're going to plant ground cover for landscape services on campus."

He says the off-campus project hasn't been decided upon yet.

AMC members serve as big brothers to students at Oakwood Middle School in Bryan. The committee also is helping A&M's international students.

"One of our social projects involves bringing concerts to A&M's campus," Leeds says.

AMC will host Michael Card's concert Tuesday.

Leeds says the money earned, after expenses, will benefit the Still Creek Boys Ranch in Kurten.

Captain Rowdy warns audience of rude, crude, gross humor

By ROB NEWBERRY
Of The Battalion Staff

Tonight Bryan-College Station audiences will get a sample of some of the no-holds barred comedy that has made Andrew Dice Clay and Sam Kinison big names. Frank Lunney, a.k.a. Captain Rowdy, performs at the Hilton Hotel's Grand Ballroom at 8 p.m.

Lunney, a former heavyweight boxer, actually calls himself "the most controversial comic in America," and intends to prove it. His rowdy, raunchy and often disgusting humor has been shaking up audiences across the United States and especially in Texas.

Captain Rowdy claims he has no limits in his comedy routine. He feels free to give everyone from anti-abortionists, to Mother Teresa, to the audience a hard time. B-CS comedy fans had better get ready for a few jabs at whatever they hold sacred, because Lunney will no doubt get right down to business — right down and dirty.

Lunney is quite proud of his sick brand of humor. "Sick humor is just as representative of comedy as knock-knock jokes," he says. While some people will definitely be offended, he says, there are just as many comedy fans who get bored with clean humor.

Lunney wants people at the show who can appreciate sick humor. He wants the audience to be forewarned — the show is going to be offensive. "I wish more clubs would put the warning out. I don't want to hear you whining about it later on."
