WTSU considering move from Division II

CANYON (AP) — In an effort to alleviate a financially strapped athletic department, West Texas State A&M system, operates on an athletic University is considering a drop from NCAA Division II to join the NAIA, said the school's president.

'If I went before them (the Texas A&M board of regents) today, I would recommend a non-schol-arship program and retain all of our current programs," said WTSU President Ed Roach.

WT's intercollegiate athletic budget is a little more than $1 million, Roach said. He said the university's commitment is $600,000 ($500,000 derived from the current student enrollment and $100,000 from other revenue sources) — thus cre-other revenue sources)—thus creating a "gap" of $482,000.

Roach said the nearly half a million dollars would have to be raised on a yearly basis in order to remain in Division II.

"The coaches want the opportunity to close the gap," Roach said. "This is a situation we have been looking at for at least a year. "There have been a lot of changes

Roach said a NAIA non-schol- since I came here.

State, also a member of the Texas A&M system, operates on an athletic budget of less than $600,000 an-

Roach, who will make a recommendation to the Texas A&M Board of Regents in December, set a Nov. 21 deadline for recommendations on the situation.

A member of the Texas A&M system, WT is currently competing in the Lone Star Conference. To remain in the conference, a school must compete in football.

WT currently fields teams in foot-ball, volleyball, men's and women's basketball, men's and women's ten-

Schintzius spur-ns contract San Antonio has negotiation problems with 7-2 center

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs and first-round draft Dwayne Schintzius have reached a stalemate in contract ne-

And now Schinztius' agent is suggesting the team trade the 7-2 center or prepare for a holdout.

"I told the Spurs if they have lost confidence in Dwayne, they should try to trade him," said Bob Woolf, Schinztius' agent. "Or, like I told them, we'll let him sit out a year."

Lady Ags take on Texas Tech

The Texas A&M volleyball team begins a five-match homestand tonight against Southwest Conference foe Texas Tech.

The Lady Aggies 1-1 in conference, 7-11 overall, will face the Red Raiders at 7 p.m. at G. Rollie White Coliseum. The match will be televised by Home Sports Entertain-

Texas Tech boasts a 17-1 record and is ranked 12th in the nation. Tech's only loss this season was to the University of Texas, which is currently ranked fourth in the coun-

A&M began conference play last Wednesday with a win over Rice. They traveled to Houston last Friday and lost in a four-game match.

The Lady Aggies are 6-1 at home.
Tonight Whataburger will sponsor an attendance challenge among all on-campus residence halls.

The Spurs sent Woolf two contract proposals Monday. Woolf called both offers "substantially" lower than previous proposals.

One of the new offers was a oneyear contract for the NBA minimum of $170,000 annually, Woolf said. "That's obviously not a fair offer,"

Woolf said he just signed guard Bimbo Coles, the 40th overall pick, with the Miami Heat for $250,000. Schintzius, who attended Florida and quit its basketball team midway through last season, was the 24th

The other offer made by the Spurs to Schintzius reportedly was a two-year deal worth $250,000 to $300,000 per season, with little or none of the money guaranteed.

Spurs president Gary Woods confirmed that two proposals were sent to Schintzius' agent Monday but declined to discuss the terms.

Only two weeks ago, terms on the table were in the range of $600,000 to $700,000 per year for two sea-

'When you're playing zone, you've got to have those seven (defensive backs) in a perfect placement and making the perfect reads to get where the ball is being thrown," Slo-cum said. "I'd rather take those seven guys, rush them and see if that quarterback can do it exactly right.

"Now in a split second he's got to pick the right guy, get the ball to a receiver who's made the right cut and run the right route. I've turned those odds to my favor now."

The statements were made out frustration, he said, because he feels like the Aggies aren't playing as well as they could. A&M has looked flat in the last two weeks against Louisiana State and Tech.

"With the talent we have, we should be winning by 30 points," he said. "We should have killed LSU and we should have had no problem with Texas Tech. There's no doubt about it. We have room to improve, I'll say that.

He added that he needs to improve as well. "I'm not pointing any fingers at the guys on the team," Smith said. "I'm a part of it myself. I've made a few mistakes over the past few years as far as outside distractions. Anything can be an outside distraction." A&M head football coach R.C. Slocum said the Aggies haven't held a team meeting on Smith's comments. Horton wasn't even aware of Smith's comments, and Smith said he hoped the whole matter could be put to rest.

If any good came out of it, Smith said, it might have made the Aggies more aware of the problem and

"It's opened a few eyes," Smith said. "When Darren Lewis was getting dressed yesterday, he was just sitting there looking at the ground. You could tell the change of attitude in Darren's eyes. He seems to be more serious now about what he's

"I hope I've closed the door on what I said last weekend. It was no big deal, and there are no major problems going on with A&M football. We're 4-1, headed in the right direction and we're going to win a lot more games.

This is a tradition-laden university and we love our sports heroes, but how quickly we forget when our heroes stumble.

For the second game in a row, Pavlas was pulled in favor of Richardson following an interception. A&M went on to win with Richardson at the helm and now everyone is wondering about a controversy.

Slocum said from day one that this is a two-quarterback team and that he will use both at his own discretion on a 'feel-basis'. To even try and make a comparison between the two signal-callers and try to decide which is better, is absurd.

Pavlas is definitely the better passer, but everyone remembers him for his hurried interception last year against Arkansas and for the interceptions this year.

No one remembers the fact that he completed almost 70 percent of his passes in that Arkansas game (59 percent on the year) or his valiant effort in the John Hancock Bowl, when he returned to rally A&M for 18 second-half points with bruised

Most importantly, as a freshman it was Pavlas who led the Aggies 80 yards en route to their first touchdown in the 1988 Cotton Bowl against Notre Dame. It also gave A&M its first lead — one it would never relinquish.

And while most everyone would agree that Richardson is the better runner of the two, it was Pavlas' 34yard scramble with one minute left in last year's 14-11 victory over Baylor that set up the winning touchdown. A one-yard plunge by guess who—Lance Pavlas.

So before everyone jumps on the "Bucky Bandwagon," remember that in order for the Aggies to get back to the Cotton Bowl, they will need Pavlas' passing and Richardson's running. More importantly, A&M will need the leadership that both provide on the field and there needs to be full fan support from the stands no mat-
