Groups plan western weekend activities

Members of MSC Hospitality will model western fall fashions from Cavender's Boot City today at noon in the MSC Flagroom. The non-profit, student service organization's "How The West Was Won" fashion show will feature the latest in country gear, including boots, hats, accessories and western attire for guys and girls. For more information, call the Student Programs Office at 845-1515. Keeping a western mind set, the Texas A&M Rodeo Club is hosting the 73rd annual "All Aggie Reunion Rodeo" this weekend. The two-day rodeo competition will take place at the Dick Freeman Arena at 2818 in Bryan. Competitions include bareback riding, girls' goat tying, steer rustling, calf roping, bull riding, ribbon roping, barrel racing and team roping. Participants include current club members and previous competitors from as far back as 1917. Admission for each day is $4 for adults, $2 for children and $3 for A&M students with I.D. For more information, contact John Price at 693-2364.

her best vocals and strongest stage presence. One notable exception to this was her extraordinary encore of Patsy Cline's "Sweet Dreams," the final song performed a cappella. The encore period was surprisingly abrupt (a matter of seconds), and the lone "Sweet Dreams" was an unusually quick capper. Even so, the end result was an emotional finish that captured McEntire's amazing vocal range and control. Again, I was surprised by the brevity of both the performance, and especially the encore, which seemed somewhat curt. But, McEntire is a talented singer unquestionably in command of her voice and her audience. I also commend her for her movement toward a broader, adult-contemporary audience, injecting rhythm and blues, rock, and folk into her closely-related country roots. Stagewise, some of the choreographed steps, especially those involving her supporting singers, need to be canned. Reba is certainly no Janet Jackson when it comes to movement. The steps that allowed her to strut and interact with audience members (which she does very nicely) are much more suited to what appears a naturally spontaneous and pleasant personality.

But, then country artists usually tend to be legitimately more responsive and sincere than their rock counterparts. So, maybe nice guys (and gals) don't always finish last.
