Comedian to visit Mideast

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Bob Hope told thousands of cheering Air Force trainees he has set the date for a Christmas visit to troops deployed to the Persian Gulf. "I'm going over there about December the 20th. I want to be there for Christmas," the 87-year-old entertainer said Sunday. Hope made the announcement during festivities at Lackland Air Force Base, where a theater was renamed in his honor. Hope has entertained American troops overseas since 1941.

Ward Grant, the comedian's publicist, said Hope earlier had announced the Middle East trip, but did not confirm the date until Sunday. "We're going to have a ball over there," Hope told about 15,000 people at the base. "I like what (President) Bush is doing. He keeps sending troops over there because we've got to get the message through." Hope said the stronger the U.S. presence in the Persian Gulf, the less likely it is that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein will turn to fighting.

VA Center plans opening in Austin area

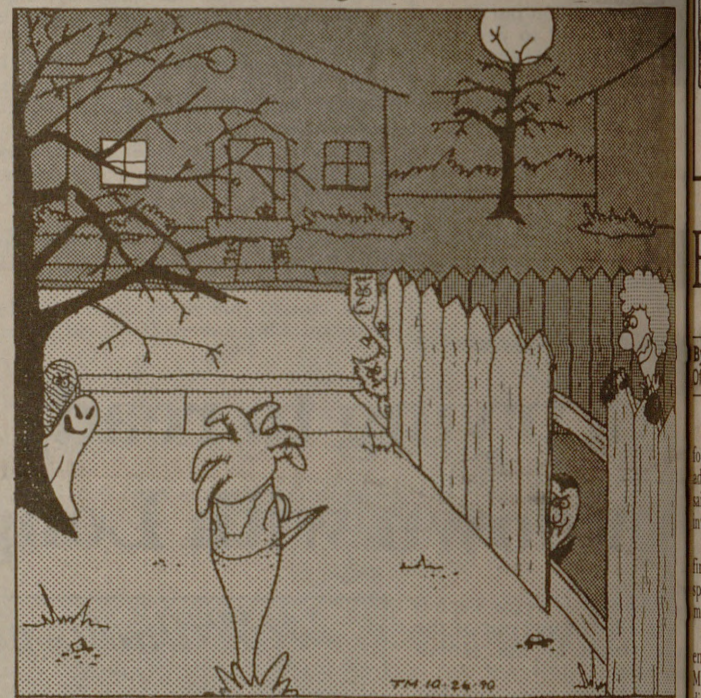

AUSTIN (AP) — By mid-January, many of the nearly 90,000 veterans in the Travis County area can stop driving to Temple for Veterans Administration health care. By then, a new 48,000 square-foot outpatient facility is scheduled to be opened, offering medical, surgical, psychiatric and dental services on a first-come, first-served basis at reduced cost. The $4 million clinic, to be operated by the Olin Teague Veterans' Center in Temple, was being dedicated Monday. Construction began in May. Officials said that only about 14,000 of the Austin-area veterans are military retirees and therefore eligible to use health services at Bergstrom Air Force Base. "This clinic has been needed for many years," said E.A. Borrell, director of the Teague Center.

Officials end hearings for racing track bids

AUSTIN (AP) — An administrative hearing wrapped up Monday into applications for a Galveston County dog racing track, considered by many to be one of the potentially most lucrative in the nation. Hearing examiner Dudley McCalla said track applicants will have to wait another week before state officials decide how to proceed from this point. On Monday, Nov. 5, the Texas Racing Commission will consider whether to have McCalla recommend a winner, or have him compile the record of the hearing for the commissioners to decide without a recommendation. Either method probably means the winning application will be chosen Nov. 29 or mid-December, racing officials said. On Monday, the Texas Department of Public Safety submitted its investigative reports, saying that because of time constraints it was impossible to assure that monies invested in each of the proposals were obtained legally. But DPS Cmdr. Joe Murphy said, "We found no indications that would indicate otherwise." Last year, the Racing Commission awarded the pari-mutuel wagering license to Lone Star Greyhound Park. But the losing applicants won an appeal of that decision in court and had the case sent back to the commission. Lone Star claims they won the license and that the current proceeding is illegal. They are an applicant, but are not participating in the hearing. New applicants include Bay Greyhound Racing Association, which wants to build the track in Galveston; Gulf Greyhound Partners and Galveston Bay Greyhound Park are proposing a La Marque site. The earlier battle over the license was marked by controversy when an employee of Lone Star allegedly placed a dead bird on an opponent's proposed site to make it appear the area was the nesting ground for the rare Attwater's prairie chicken.
