For a limited time, we are featuring fresh (never frozen) beef retail cuts along with our usual variety of vacuum packaged, frozen cuts. It is being made available during an extensive Meats and Muscle Biology Section Project to investigate the time involved in cutting beef wholesale cuts into steaks and roasts, therefore a larger amount of freshly cut retail cuts are generated. The fresh cuts will be available on the following dates:

Oct. 11 and 12
Oct. 25, 26, and 27

Nov. 1 and 2
Nov. 8 and 9

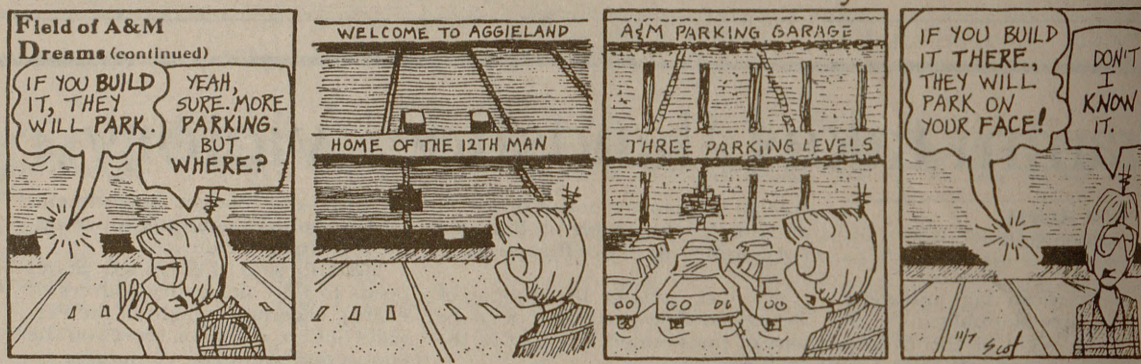

Please stop by and shop with us.

The Rosenthal Meat Science and Technology Center is open Monday through Friday 9:00 am till 6:00 pm, and open on home football Saturdays from 9:00 am till 1:00 pm.

Woman assigned to prison boot camp

HOUSTON (AP) — State corrections officials may be forced to create a prison boot camp program for just one woman if an appeals court fails to change her sentence.

Patricia Manuel, 19, was sentenced by a Houston judge to the military-style lockup after pleading guilty to injury to a child. She voluntarily surrendered Monday to the Gatesville prison unit, where she will undergo about two weeks of testing and evaluation.

Then, unless an appeals court decides otherwise, she is to be separated from other prisoners and placed in a boot camp for 90 days. The camp consists of rigorous exercise and work and is aimed at giving young felons a taste of prison life.

State District Judge Joe Kegans, who sentenced Manuel, ruled in August that the state boot-camp law was unconstitutional because it limited the camp to men. The Houston judge ordered prison officials to provide a camp for women.
