Memory course helps students boost grades
 By Anthony Rao
 Former University of Houston football coach Jack Pardee said it best: "This was so helpful to several of my players, I am now making the whole football team take the course."
 Pardee read about a memory seminar held by noted memory expert Alvin Jackson and sent three players who needed to pass some important tests in order to stay in school. Uncertain that anyone can be taught photographic memory, Pardee sent athletic department academic advisor Dr. James Berlow as an observer.
 In one three hour session Mr. Jackson took three college freshman, whose college entrance exam grades were so poor they are not allowed to practice football, and transformed them into students who can study and recall tasks as well as the brightest students on campus.
 "Since Dr. Berlow took in the class, he admits his recall and memory increased sixfold. He wishes Jackson's course was available when he studied for his doctorate."
 To test the athletes' increased memory, Jackson asked the trio to memorize this number 9185952963092112 well enough to recall it in 13 weeks. It took them an average of 2 minutes. This reporter attended the seminar and witnessed them master French, Portuguese, anatomy, names and faces.
 What impressed this writer the most is how memory techniques are used in reading and listening. Jackson used a third year economic text book and I watched as freshmen read and recalled a whole chapter on "Macroeconomic Effects on a Fully Employed Economy", after reading it once.
 "Contrary to popular belief people are not born with photographic memories, it can be taught. I have taught thousands. I have taught to those wanting to use it to increase their G.P.A. to those who perfect G.P.A.s who wish to cut down on study time while maintaining high grades," Jackson said.
 "Our present educational system gives high grades to those who can memorize. If you remember more of what you hear in lectures and remember all of what you read, you will get higher grades," Jackson added.
 "I know many techniques to teach my students the one that is them best. Right now all students use "Rota" memorization system taught in school. Under "Rota" you have to go over and over what you want to learn. As far as I am concerned, "Rota" is the worst. What student has that much time to repeat information enough times to get top grades?" says Jackson.
 Jackson will be at College Station Conference Center Rm. #110 on November 16th one day only for two sessions. One at 1:00 p.m. and a second session at 6:00 p.m. The tuition for the 3-1/2 hour session is $55.00.
 Jackson guarantees results. "I don't triple their memory capacity three fold in the session, I will refund all tuition," he said.
 Jackson is only accepting 30 persons in each class on a first come first served basis. It is worthwhile and enlightening. You can register by calling 1-800-462-8207.
