Indictment of Vines thrown out

DALLAS (AP) — The perjury indictment that cost former police chief Mack Vines his job was thrown out Tuesday by a visiting judge.

Former Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Judge John Onion quashed the misdemeanor perjury indictment during a hearing, a court spokeswoman said.

The defense had sought to quash the indictment, "alleging that it left out some necessary language," Assistant District Attorney Ted Steinke said.

Steinke said the DA's office was drafting a new indictment that would be filed Wednesday.

Onion's ruling was not a setback for the prosecution, Steinke said. "This happens every day in the courthouse. It's not an unusual at all," he said.

Vines could not immediately be reached for comment. Vines' spokeswoman, Lisa LeMaster, had no immediate comment.

Bill Boyd, Vines' attorney, said he was pleased with the judge's ruling.

"I would hope that that would be the end of the matter," Boyd said, "but it's up to the district attorney."

"I would hope that they would have better things to do with their time than to fool with this," he added.

"We'll review the new indictment, if they file, and see if it's properly done," he said. "If not we'll file to quash, again. If they've done it right, we'll prepare for trial."

Boyd said the indictment was quashed because it did not comply with legal conditions.

"The law in Texas requires that if you allege perjury, you must first show the statement that you allege to be false and then state what you claim the truth to be," he said.

Police Beat

The following were reported to the University Police Department from Nov. 8 through Thursday:

- INDECENT EXPOSURE:
 - A woman said a man was masturbating by the pond near System Loop. The man was not found.
- COUNTERFEIT MONEY:
 - A bogus $100 bill was found in a deposit at the Fiscal Office. The Secret Service was contacted about the matter.
- DOMESTIC DISTURBANCE:
 - A woman in the University Owned Apartments said her husband assaulted her after the couple had an argument. As she got into her car to leave, her husband hit the door and struck the woman on the arm. When she lowered her window to tell him to leave her alone, he reached into the car and grabbed her neck. She then bit her husband on the thumb. The couple did not wish to file charges against each other.
- MISDEMEANOR THEFT:
 - A five foot stuffed mouse with a maroon jacket, a stuffed smile and a stuffed frog were stolen from a room in Davis Gary Hall.
 - Three small Chinese horse porcelain figurines were taken from an office in the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.
 - A glass paperweight was stolen from a desk in the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.
 - Three large decorative plants were removed from the lobby of the Veterinary Medical Administration Building.
 - Two purses were stolen from the Sterling C. Evans Library.
 - Five backpacks were stolen from areas around campus.
- FELONY THEFT:
 - A 1986 Pontiac Trans Am was stolen from Parking Area 50.
 - A 1986 black Chevrolet Iroc Camaro was stolen from Parking Area 51.
- BURGLARY OF A MOTOR VEHICLE:
 - A Winchester .30 caliber rifle was stolen from a Ford pickup truck on Turk Road.
 - The left door glass was broken on a 1986 Pontiac Fiero in Parking Area 3. A radar detector, TAMU Student Parking Permit and five audio cassettes also were stolen from the vehicle.
- CRIMINAL MISCHIEF:
 - Someone attempted to sever the cable on a bicycle in the Academic Bicycle Rack.
 - The radio antenna of a Ford Tempo in Parking Area 30 was damaged.
 - A lock was damaged in the Kleburg Building.
- UNAUTHORIZED SOLICITATION:
 - Two people were issued a criminal trespass warning and released after trying to sell perfume and cologne without permission.

ONE OF THESE YEARS HERBERT IS GOING TO MAKE THAT DARN WISH - HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

Act Now

The Crime Prevention Unit of the University Police Department wants students to take precautions while driving home for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Many students will be on the roads for the holidays and the following are precautions that should be followed:

- Drive defensively and wear seat belts.
- Allow plenty of time to reach your destination.
- Stay alert and do not drive when you are sick or tired.
- Drive with all your car doors locked. Keep windows rolled up whenever possible. Never pick up hitchhikers.
- Try to avoid breakdowns by keeping your car in good running condition. Check the battery cables, belts, tires, oil and radiator at least once a month. Make sure you have adequate gasoline and money to get to and from your destination.
- If your car breaks down, raise the hood, use flares or tie a white cloth to the door handle. Stay in the locked car. When someone stops, ask them to phone for help.
- Should someone try to get in the car with you, honk your horn repeatedly and turn on your emergency flashers. Try not to travel alone at night, and plan your route in advance.
- Be prepared. Make and carry an emergency kit with flares, flat fix, "send aid" signs, as well as pencil and paper to write a phone number on. Make sure you are prepared for any weather changes.
- If you see another motorist in trouble, signal that you will get help, and then go to a telephone and call police.

For more information, call UPD's Crime Prevention Unit at 845-2345.

Richards meets with Clements

AUSTIN (AP) — Governor-elect Ann Richards on Tuesday met with Gov. Bill Clements in the office she will soon make hers.

"We had a very good exchange," Richards said after the 40-minute meeting that was also attended by Clements' wife, Rita, and staff aides.

Although Richards, a Democrat, criticized Clements, a Republican who did not seek re-election, during the campaign, she had kind words for him after their meeting.

"Bill Clements will be remembered as someone who cared about Texas a lot, she told reporters. He believed in trying to bring about economies and efficiencies."

Richards said she and Clements talked about the state budget and the recent merging of criminal justice agencies.
