Injury puts Williams doubtful for UT

By RICHARD TIJERINA
Of The Battalion Staff

For a player who may not play in Saturday's Southwest Conference showdown against Texas, A&M linebacker Anthony Williams has had a lot to say.

UT and A&M players have exchanged verbal potshots all week. Williams has carried the vocal banner for the Aggies, directing most of his criticism toward Longhorn quarterback Peter Gardner.

"As far as Gardner is concerned, I have no respect for him at all," Williams said. "His receivers make him what he is. He's no overpowering quarterback. If we get to him early, we'll rattle him. But they have a lot of quarterbacks. It really wouldn't faze them too much."

But Williams, the Aggies' leading tackler this season, is listed as "very doubtful" by A&M head coach R.C. Slocum for Saturday's game in Austin. Williams suffered a torn groin injury in last Saturday's win over Texas Christian.

If Williams can't play, redshirt freshman Jason Atkinson would start.

Williams, who spent Sunday on crutches but was walking by Tuesday, said he wasn't planning on watching from the sidelines.

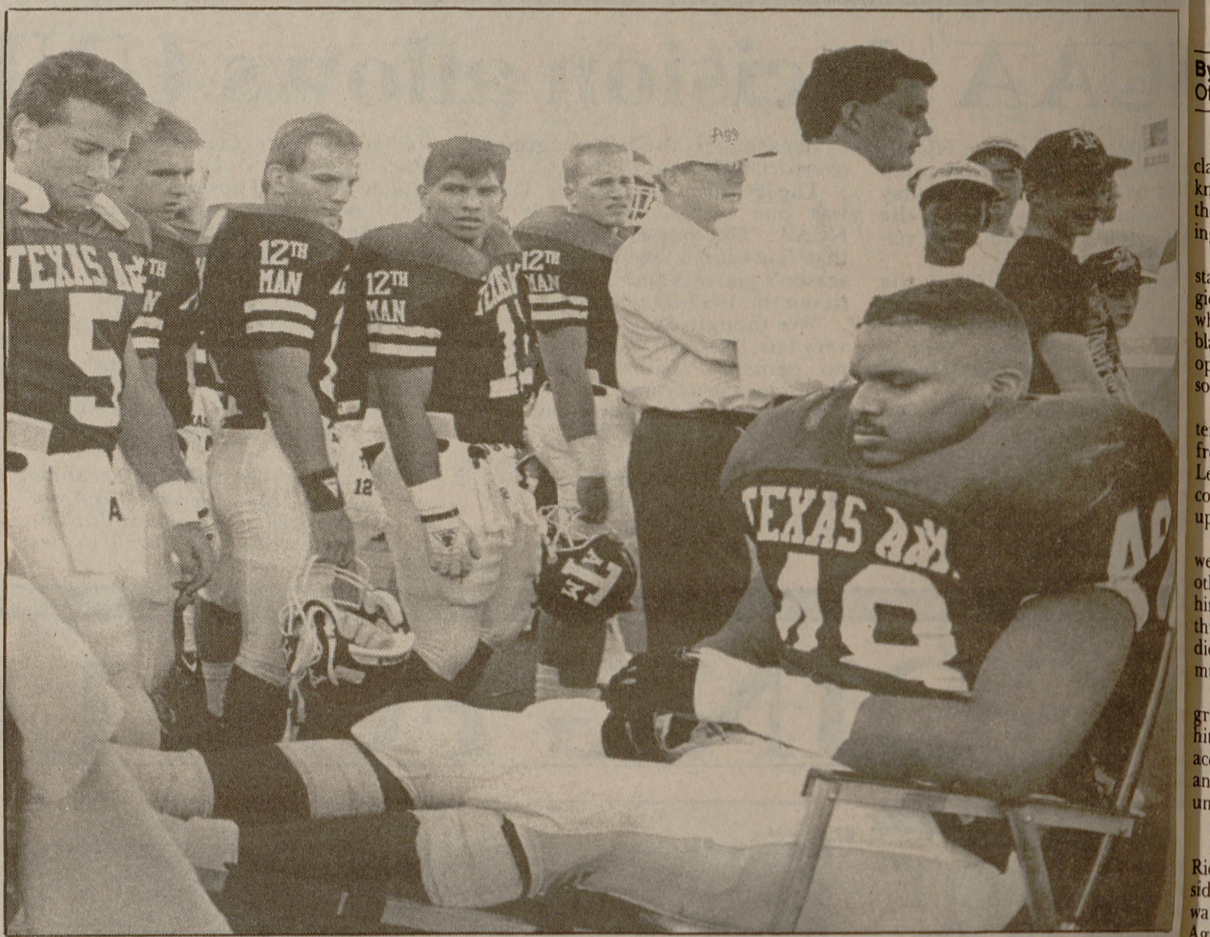

"I intend to be out there," Williams said. "I don't care if it's hobbling, full speed, 50- or 60-percent healthy, I'll be out there in some way. I can play hurt just as well as I can when I'm 100 percent healthy."

The Aggies may need a healthy Williams. The Longhorns like to pound the ball down the middle, and Williams has been A&M's enforcer all year long. But Slocum said Atkinson would respond because of the game's high emotions.

However, that's not to say the Aggies won't miss Williams.

"Jason will play OK," Slocum said. "What happens in games like this, when it's this emotional, you'd be surprised how good Jason will play. He'll do fine. We'll play the same defense."

"We just don't have the experience out there. Jason will play hard, but he doesn't have the experience that Anthony does from being a two-year starter."

Anthony Williams' torn groin suffered against TCU may keep him out of Saturday's Texas game.

The loss of Williams is just another in a long list of starters the Aggies have had to do without this season. Defensive end Kevin Tucker, noseguard Pat Henry and linebacker James Webb all have been lost for the season because of injuries.

Even Trent Lewis, Williams' backup, is out because of a knee injury. Enter Atkinson, who makes his first start by way of trial by fire.

"It's always been one of my dreams to play Texas in Memorial Stadium," Atkinson said. "Williams is a real good player and I'm going to try to fill his shoes the best I can. I'm sure he'll try to play. I couldn't believe it when he went out of the (TCU) game. He's a tough guy."

Williams, who said he's considering Saturday's game as the Aggie bowl game this year, said the Longhorns have left him unimpressed—even with their No. 5 ranking and 1 record.

A&M has won the last six meetings between the two, including a 21-10 victory last year at Kyle Field. "They can say and do all the things they want to," Williams said. "The same people they had last year they have this year."

Lucky 7

date with third-ranked Miami, have high hopes for the national championship. But the Longhorns first must beat A&M and the Hurricanes.

The Aggies, on the other hand, would vindicate themselves for a mid-season slump, and would possibly ensure a place in the Associated Press Top 25 poll by season's end.

"Whoever wins always ruins the other team's season," A&M starting quarterback Bucky Richardson said. "You win, you've got bragging rights for the year. You only get one shot a year, so you've got to make the best of it."

Members of each team wasted little time in beginning the war of words this week.

Texas A&M linebacker Anthony Williams couldn't wait that long, guaranteeing an Aggie victory as early as the week before the Arkansas game.

Williams threw more grease on the fire by Tuesday by saying UT quarterback Peter Gardner was a "scrub" and middle linebacker Brian Jones would be on the sidelines with a 12th Man towel at A&M. He did say, however, that Jones was one of the few players that he respected on the Longhorn team.

Longhorn offensive tackle Stan Thomas predicted such a large victory that he would be on the sidelines eating hot dogs by the third quarter.

Aggie starting quarterback Bucky Richardson, said if Thomas wants to sit on bench then, that's all right with him.

"I'd like to play all four quarters and be in there the whole time," Richardson said. "But if he wants to do that, he's welcome to."

A&M head coach R.C. Slocum said all the talk is just players saying things without thinking, and that it has no bearing on the game's outcome.

"Most people identify with and like people who let their actions speak for themselves," Slocum said. "Most of us disdain a guy who's doing a lot of talking. There's an old saying I used to hear: don't make threats because a threat is a promise to pay, and if you don't pay it, it hurts your credit."

Richardson, who's averaging 126 yards of total offense a game, agreed with Slocum.

"Coach Slocum's not that style of coach," he said. "He doesn't all this mudslinging. He likes to do all his talking on the field. No matter what I say, it's not going to help me or hurt me any more or less on Saturday."

"It doesn't bother me what they say, we're going to show up and play them as hard as we can. They know that and we know they're going to be ready for us."

If for no other reason than to maintain their national championship hopes, the Longhorns will try to end the Aggie's six-year winning streak. The last time Texas beat A&M was the last time it won the SWC championship—1983.

No Aggies on this year's roster ever have lost to a Longhorn team. Likewise, no Longhorn has ever beaten A&M. UT head coach Dave McWilliams, who received a contract extension after the Baylor win, said he's seen enough—not only against A&M, but against everybody.

"The seniors are tired of getting beat," McWilliams said. "They say it's time for us to turn it around. When you make that commitment, you know you've got to work harder. It all starts from that. When you get tired of something, you start looking for things to make a change."
