Legislators want proof of promises

Nerd House

by Tom A. Madison

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas congressmen say they're waiting to see proof of President Bush's commitment to a national energy strategy and increased spending on science, space and technology.

Bentsen

Although Texans say they welcome the president's support for a variety of issues important to the state — including the domestic energy industry, alternative fuels and a free trade agreement with Mexico — they say they're waiting for the specifics.

"The question is, is the budget going to be responsive to his commitment and the rhetoric of the speech," Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, said following the president's State of the Union address Tuesday night.

"The commitment comes easy, the fulfillment will be the more difficult time."

Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said, "I won't judge the president's national energy strategy until he unveils it, but we've been promised an energy policy time and again over the past decade only to be let down each time."

Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs, criticized Bush for a speech that was "very short on substance and very light in its references to his domestic agenda."

"The good points were his references to our reasons for being in the gulf, the fact that we're on high moral ground; but it is as though he just glossed over a world of domestic problems that we must deal with — health care, education, energy," Chapman said.

Some Republicans, however, praised the speech as "powerful and visionary."

"I thought the president's vision was a very powerful vision, both in international affairs and in domestic policy," Republican Sen. Phil Gramm said.

"I am supportive of the president both in winning the war in the Middle East and in building lasting peace on the victory and in restructuring the budget to release the genius in ordinary people."

Democrats and Republicans said Bush's comments about U.S. actions in the Persian Gulf were "right on."

"As someone who represents 24,000 troops in the Persian Gulf, I was touched by the heartfelt ovation for the men and women serving our country in Saudi Arabia," Rep. Chet Edwards, D-Waco, said.

There must be some way to avoid doing the same thing for the next forty years.

Life's been pretty good so far. You've kept moving—taken all the right steps along the way (for the most part). And now you're ready for the biggest step.

You'll be getting your degree from a top school. You're about to find a great job.

The question is: which job? And will it have the potential to interest you for a whole career?

You've probably heard the story of the job applicant who said he was a shoe salesman with fifteen years experience. "No," corrected the recruiter interviewing him, "you've had six months experience thirty times." Isn't there some way to keep challenging yourself in new and different areas? Andersen Consulting offers you the opportunity to work on a variety of projects—with clients in a wide range of industries.

We are the leader in helping organizations apply information technology to their business advantage. Every hour of every business day, we implement a solution to help one of our more than 5,000 clients worldwide.

What makes that possible is the quality of our people. And the quality of our training. We're known for both. Because business and technology are ever-changing, we see training as a continuing process. And our $123-million Center for Professional Education in St. Charles, Illinois, is just one measure of our commitment. We train you for a career—not just a job.

Does the idea of forty years of knowing exactly what you'll be doing each week scare you? Then don't settle for that. Demand challenge and variety. Come talk to us. And find out more about a career with Andersen Consulting.
