Lewis debates

running for re-election

AUSTIN (AP) — Five-term House Speaker Gib Lewis, under indictment on two counts of alleged ethics violations, says he hasn't decided whether to seek re-election to the House next year.

"I don't know what I am going to do," Lewis said in an interview published in Wednesday editions of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

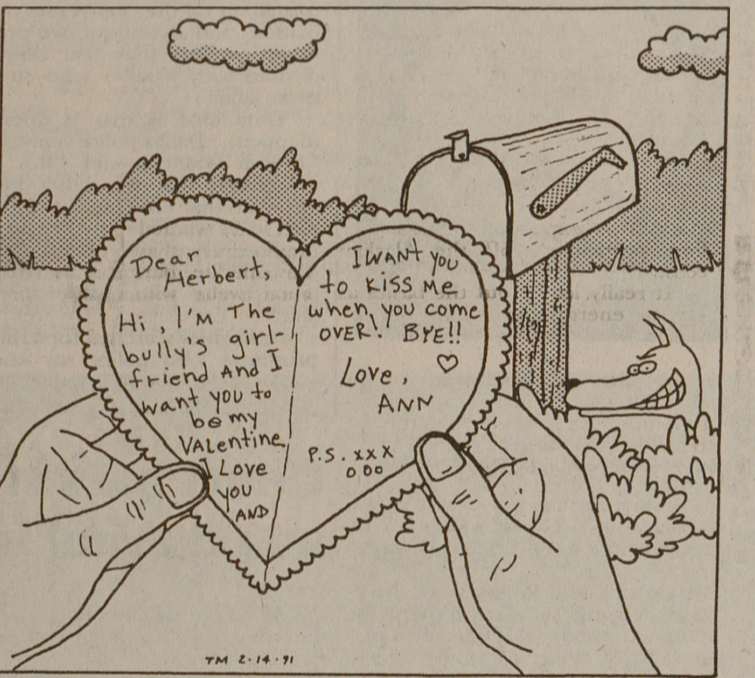

"In fact, I have to talk myself into running for the House every two years. When I took this job on, I only thought I would be here for a year or two."

If Lewis, D-Fort Worth, steps down after this term, it would clear the path for the first speaker's race in nearly a decade. A House member since 1971, Lewis has been speaker since 1983.

A Travis County grand jury indicted Lewis in December on two misdemeanor ethics charges. Lewis is accused of accepting a gift from a San Antonio law firm and failing to report it to the Texas Secretary of State, as state law requires.

Texan to lead U.S. ground offensive

EL PASO (AP) — A former Texas tank commander considered a pioneer in desert fighting techniques will lead the U.S. Army ground offensive against Iraq.

Lt. Gen. John Yeosock, 53, commander of the 280,000 Army troops in Operation Desert Storm, was a squadron leader with the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment in 1973.

Yeosock is currently commander of the 3rd Army and is the top Army boss under Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf, leader of all U.S. forces in the war.

Under Yeosock's direction is one of the largest armored forces since World War II, including 2,300 M1A1 tanks and several thousand troop carriers and artillery pieces.

"Yeosock is a good, tough man; don't worry about him," said James Polk, who once commanded the 3rd

Cav. and went on to become commander of U.S. forces in Europe. Polk retired as a four-star general and now lives in El Paso.

Yeosock arrived at Fort Bliss a year after the 3rd Cav. transferred there from Fort Lewis, Wash. At the time, the 3rd Cav. was just starting to develop the kind of desert maneuvers that could play a decisive role in the Persian Gulf War.
