Richardson said a new coach has to be given time before people can judge if he is a good coach or not. "When you don't have players and you are struggling, it's a matter of getting all the players in place that you need in your system," he said. "I don't judge coaches by them taking another man's job and winning and losing with his players, I judge solely on who you go get, then I know that's you."

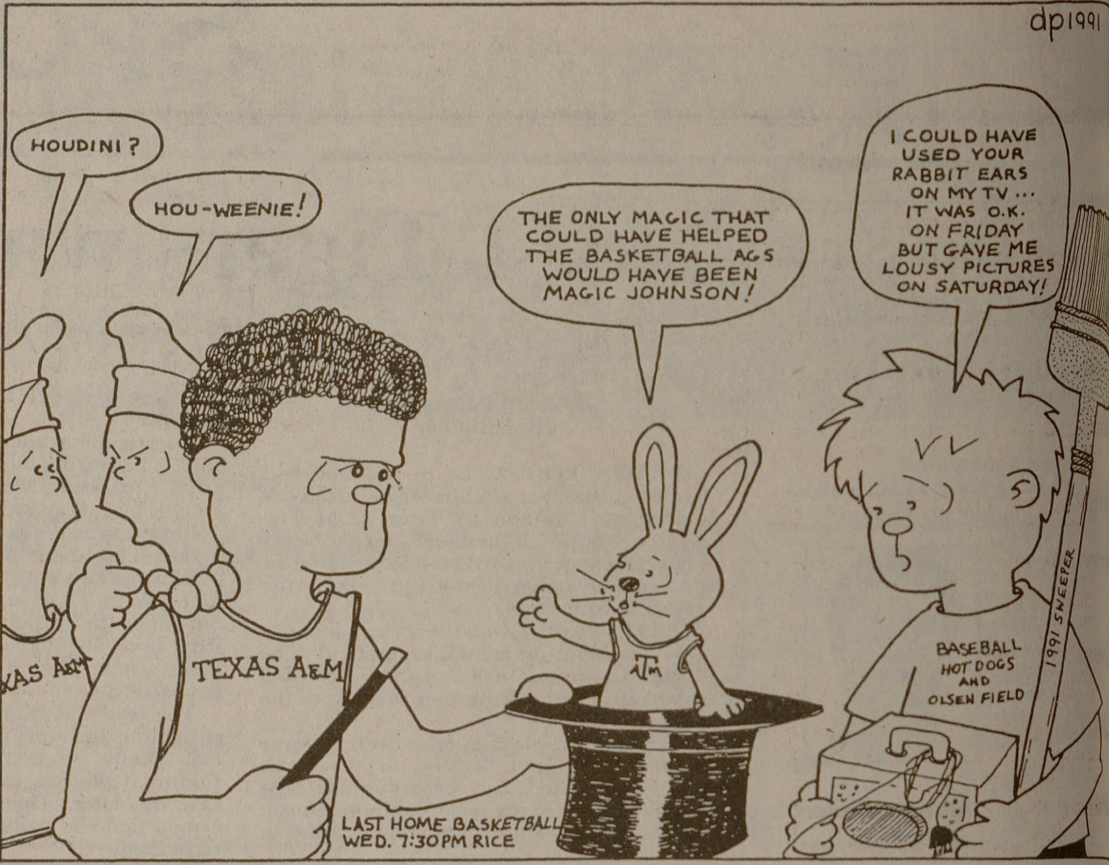

Oliver Miller, the Razorbacks' mammoth center, compared the A&M basketball program's problems to last season's Arkansas football team, who finished 3-8 under first year coach Jack Crowe. "All (the Aggies) have to do is keep their heads up," Miller said. "Their time will come, just don't let this season get them down."

Junior forward Todd Day said Arkansas' success was a matter of good fortune. "We have a lot of luck, everyone needs a lot of luck to get where they are," Day said. "We just happened to get a lot of people who play well together — that's the key."

Richardson remembers coming from Tulsa University, where he became the first major college head coach in NCAA history to lead his teams to 50 victories in his first two seasons. Similarly, Davis lead his Idaho teams to a 52-6 record in just two seasons before taking the A&M job.

Richardson remembers the words of encouragement offered to him during his first year as the Razorbacks' head coach — advice that came from former A&M coach Shelby Metcalf. "Out of all the coaches when I first came into the league..." Richardson explained. "(Metcalf) was the only guy that called me one day and said, 'I know what's going to happen, Nolan, when you get your players. Just take your lumps and things will change.'"

"I'll always respect him for that," Richardson has paid his dues. Davis is paying his. Time will take its course and the day will come when the A&M basketball program shine again.

Aggie netters sweep weekend

From Staff and Wire Reports

The Texas A&M men's tennis team pulled out its own version of the sweeper this weekend, as it won both matches by a combined 17-0 mark.

Saturday, the team swept Northeast Louisiana nine matches to zero. The Aggies won every match in straight sets except one. Steve Kennedy defeated Niklaus Kullingsjo 6-2, 1-6, 6-4.

A&M head coach David Kent was pleased with the team's effort over the entire weekend. "It was a good team effort which is what we needed with the conference season ready to start," Kent said. "We're really becoming a confident team out on the court."

Friday, the netters dominated the Southwest Texas State Bobcats 8-0. The Aggies won all the matches in straight sets.

The Aggies take on Baylor in their on nonconference opener on March 1 at 1:30 at the Omar Smith Tennis Center.

Results:
Texas A&M 8 — Southwest Texas State 0
Singles:
Matt Zisette (A&M) defeated Brad Hamburg 6-4, 6-3; Mark Weaver (A&M) defeated Kurt Naumann 6-4, 7-6; Clayton Johnson (A&M) defeated Paul Domanski 6-2, 6-2; Doug Brown (A&M) defeated Alain Camarare 6-4, 6-1; Kennedy (A&M) defeated Tony Palumbo 6-2, 7-5; Scott Phillips (A&M) defeated Jeff Babb 6-3, 6-4.

Doubles:
Brown/Kennedy (A&M) defeated Hamburg/Naumann 6-4, 6-1; Zisette/Johnson (A&M) defeated Domanski/Camarare 6-4, 7-5; Weaver/Phillips (A&M) did not finish match against Palumbo/Babb. Texas A&M 9 — Northeast Louisiana 0

Singles:
Zisette (A&M) defeated Jarmil Burghauser 6-0, 6-4; Johnson (A&M) defeated Johan Hammerquist 6-1, 3-6; Weaver (A&M) defeated Tom Czerwinski 6-1, 7-6; Brown (A&M) defeated Arlen Sternberg 6-4, 6-3; Phillips (A&M) defeated Chris Paul 6-4, 6-2; Kennedy (A&M) defeated Niklaus Kullingsjo 6-2, 1-6, 6-4.

Baseball

Granger for five consecutive two-out singles. Brian Harrison came in relief, but not until the Tigers led 9-2. Although it looked bleak for the Aggies, they rallied for six runs in the top of the fifth.

With one out, Hickey doubled down the right field line. Junior Conrad Colby and Rollen drew walks to load the bases before Jason Marshall's double-play grounder went through the legs of shortstop Andy Sheets to score Hickey.

Rightfielder Dan Robinson blooped a two-run single to center. One out later, Williams launched a three-run homer to right-center field.

Williams, whose blast made the score 9-8, said that he was waiting on the pitch from reliever Mike Sirotko. "He threw me two fastballs in the same place," Williams said. "I didn't think it was going out when I hit it. The ball was really carrying to right field."

But that was as close as the Aggies could get. LSU scored once in the bottom of the inning and three more in the bottom of the seventh to make a winner of Sirotko in the sloppy, four-hour opener. Wunsch (1-1) was tagged with the loss.

Junior transfer Jason Hutchins baffled the Tigers in the nightcap, but struggled with his control. Hutchins held LSU hitless until the fifth inning, but fell behind 1-0 in the third on a leadoff walk, a wild pitch, and Johnson's sacrifice fly.

Tiger left-hander Mark LaRosa dominated the Aggies. The senior breezed through the first five innings, facing only 15 batters despite giving up a hit and a walk. Both runners were erased, one caught stealing and the other in a double play.

Hutchins, who allowed the lead-off batter to reach base six out of seven innings, was touched for a pair of runs in the both the fifth and sixth.

"Jason just needs to learn to go after the lead-off hitter," coach Johnson said. "He has too many tools to make the kind of mistakes that he made tonight."

He had not allowed a hit until the fifth frame, when DH Pat Garrity beat out a bouncer to third. On the play, Williams made a diving stop, but bounced the throw and Colby could not handle it.

A walk and a fielder's choice later, Sheets' sacrifice fly made it 2-0. Johnson followed with a smash that glanced off Williams' chest and scored the second run of the inning.

The biggest rally that the Aggies could manage was in the sixth. One-out walks to Robinson and catcher Blake Pyle put runners on first and second.

Second baseman Sittichoke Huckeuntod beat out a double-play grounder to put runners at the corners with two outs. But centerfielder Brett Weinberger struck out to end the threat and the inning.

Hutchins opened the sixth with a walk. Huckeuntod's mental error put another on. He fielded Gary Hymel's hopper, looked to second and threw late to first.

The Tigers went on to score two insurance runs on another fielder's choice and a wild pitch.

A&M managed to get a runner to second in the seventh inning, but pinch hitter Chad Brossard popped up to end the game.

Friday night the Aggies upset the Tigers behind a stellar performance by Ronnie Allen.

The junior right-hander went seven sparkling innings, allowing only three hits and three walks while striking out six. Jason Bullard threw two innings of no-hit relief, striking out four, to pick up his second save of the season.

A&M managed only five hits, all of them singles, but scored three runs on two throwing errors by reserve second baseman Mike Neal to overcome a 1-0 Tiger lead. Neal entered the game when Johnson injured his right hand in the sixth inning.

In the seventh, Jason Marshall led off with a single to right and Williams bunted him to second. Then Pyle hit a slow roller to Neal who threw wildly to first, allowing Marshall to score.

The Aggies took the lead with two runs in the eighth.

Hickey and Colby stroked consecutive one-out singles. Rollen followed with a fielder's choice moving the runners up, and forcing LSU starter Chad Ogea from the game.

Ogea had held A&M hitless until the fifth inning. Robinson grounded reliever Rick Greene's fifth pitch to Neal, who charged and threw wide of first and into the dugout, allowing both runners to score.

And a fitting way for the Aggies to win a game on a sloppy weekend.
