STATE BRIEFS

Parole board appoints member

AUSTIN (AP) — Irma Cauley of Bryan, currently a field unit supervisor with the Brazos County Juvenile Service Department, has been appointed to a six-year term on the state Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Jury investigates police chief

HEMPSTEAD (AP) — A Waller County grand jury on Tuesday was investigating allegations that Hempstead Police Chief Charles Gaines may have had sexual contact with children.

Bill could stiffen drug penalties

AUSTIN (AP) — People convicted of selling drugs on or within 1,000 feet of school grounds should face tougher penalties, says a state lawmaker who has introduced a bill that would increase such penalties.

Sheriff joins jail commission

AUSTIN (AP) — Cameron County Sheriff Alex F. Perez has been appointed to serve on the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

We Asked and You Said

We Asked and You Said is a bi-weekly feature in which a reporter and a photographer from The Battalion conduct random interviews on campus on a specific issue. It is not a scientific poll, and opinions expressed do not necessarily represent The Battalion.

Should Texas A&M have asked Kermit Davis Jr. to resign as head basketball coach?

Brooks McFarland Senior (Economics) Joshua

"Yes, I think so. If he screwed up and it's going to hurt the program, they had to do him like they did Jackie Sherrill. If he's having violations of recruiting, instead of hurting the whole program, they have to get rid of the source."

Robyn Reid Senior (Modern Languages) Boston, Mass.

"No, I don't think that he was the sole reason for the team not winning. There's got to be other factors involved that people aren't looking at."

Daniel Zucker Freshman (Mechanical Engineering) San Antonio

"Yes, I agree because of all the allegations, it was good to ask him to step down. A&M is a school that is supposedly well into the traditions. And to have some allegations like this is just kind of bad."

Kaven Chen Senior (Biochemistry) San Antonio

"I think A&M should have asked Davis to step down just because of the infractions that he committed. Even though, I think A&M is also using him as a scapegoat. If A&M had done well and gone to the NCAA tournament, they may not be so quick to ask him to step down."

Raymond Little Senior (Recreation, Parks and Tourism) Niceville, Fla.

"No, I don't think he should have been asked to step down because I don't think all the facts were straight in the situation. He had only been here a year. The trouble started last year. I don't think it's going to help much with him resigning."

Kine McMillan Junior (Sociology) Dallas

"I think they should have asked him to step down because he shouldn't have been recruiting illegally. He should have went by the books. This is going to make everyone look at all the rest of the sports and that is not fair. I run track and they are not giving us anything."

Susan Robert Senior (Chemical Engineering) San Antonio

"No, I don't think he realized what he was doing was against the rules, like the $8 he gave to someone for his financial aid form. I don't think it was that important to lose his job over."

Kelley Innie Sophomore (Recreation, Parks and Tourism) Houston

"I don't think they should have asked him to step down because it was just his first year. But then they did have a bad season."

Jerry Harris Senior (Biology) Palestine, Texas

"It depends on what that formal report said. I think he should have resigned on his own. He shouldn't be asked to step down. Because of the situation here, he knows that even if he wasn't guilty, he's going to be viewed as being guilty. It's better for the school and the team that he stepped down."

K.C. Jensen Visiting assistant professor of Wildlife Science

"Yes, because there was something wrong in the basketball program. I think that he's ultimately responsible if there is something wrong with the basketball program."

Man shoots, kills ex-wife in airport

EL PASO (AP) — A man who tricked his ex-wife into meeting him at El Paso International Airport shot and killed her Tuesday then lay down in the terminal and shot himself while frightened travelers ran for cover.

Police identified the dead as Yong Hui Crockett, 34, of El Paso and her ex-husband, Quintan Lamont Hannah, 30. Jerry Luna, a Hertz rental car employee, was shot in the leg when one of the bullets fired at Crockett with a .357 Magnum pierced the desk counter. Luna was in stable condition Tuesday night at an El Paso hospital.

Police Capt. J.R. Grijalva said Hannah was believed to be originally from Chicago but police were uncertain how long he had been in El Paso.

Crockett and her former spouse lay in a pool of blood near the baggage claim area at the front of the airport terminal.

The 2:14 p.m. MST shooting was witnessed by the woman's 3-year-old daughter and her current husband, R.G. Crockett. Crockett also was holding the couple's 1-year-old son at the time of the shooting. Police said the three were not injured.

Police offer tips on obscene phone calls

Texas A&M's Crime Prevention Unit of the University Police Department offers tips for dealing with harassing telephone calls.

Most telephone calls are legitimate, but sometimes you might receive a call that is annoying or obscene.

Texas criminal laws state that a person commits an offense if he or she "causes the telephone of another to ring repeatedly or makes repeated telephone communications anonymously or in a manner reasonably likely to harass, annoy, alarm, torment, embarrass or offend another."

Here are some helpful telephone tips:

If the call becomes obscene, abusive or profane, simply hang up. What the caller wants to hear is your shocked verbal reaction.

If these calls persist, call the police immediately and file a report. Keep a log of the calls and the times.

Do not answer questions you would not respond to if they were asked by a stranger on the street. Never give confidential or personal information over the telephone to someone you do not know.

Ask the caller to identify himself or herself first. If the caller asks, "Who is this?" or "What number is this?" do not answer. Instead ask, "What party are you trying to reach?" or "What number did you call?"

For more information, call the Crime Prevention Unit at 845-8900.
