Israel releases suspected Iraqi spy Palestinian activist freed after three-month imprisonment

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel freed a leading Palestinian activist from prison Sunday, three months after he was jailed on suspicion of spying for Iraq.

Sari Nusseibeh had been declared a "prisoner of conscience" by Amnesty International during his imprisonment, and he said on his release that he appreciated the human rights group's concern.

"It really made me feel people believed in what I stood for," said Nusseibeh, a Harvard- and Oxford-educated philosopher who teaches at Bir Zeit University in the occupied West Bank.

Nusseibeh, 42, was detained Jan. 29 and had been held at Israel's Ramle prison.

The Defense Ministry said in a statement at the time that Nusseibeh was "collecting security information for the Iraqi intelligence, especially after the missile attacks on Israel."

Israel fired 39 Scud missiles at the Jewish state during the Persian Gulf War.

Nusseibeh denied the allegation and said in a statement from jail that "I believe my arrest is intended to silence the voices of moderation."

The Defense Ministry had ordered him held for six months under administrative detention rules, which allow the jailing of Palestinians without charge or trial.

The Jerusalem District Court in February ordered the detention cut to three months. The decision was based on a police report that never was made public.

Nusseibeh has been a leading spokesman in the three-year Arab uprising against Israeli rule, and his name has been raised as a possible Palestinian participant in any Israeli-Palestinian peace talks.

He said he spent his time in prison reading and writing "what I will continue to do."

TAMU Women's Volleyball Club

The Women's Club Volleyball A Team traveled to Houston on April 13th to compete in the 1991 Regional Championship Tournament for the USVBA Lone Star Region. After playing numerous intense matches, the team ended up as runners-up in Division "A". Members of the team included Susan Haring, Rose Haynes, Joanna Bower, CC Radsliff, Jennifer Schloz and Stacie Heil. Much recognition should also be given to the coaches Wally Simpson and Brian Edwards, and to the Women's B team, who all put much time and effort into a successful year.

Photographs Available

Championship photographs, as well as any other photos on file, can be purchased at 159 Read Building. The cost for a 5 x 7 is $2.00 and an 8 x 10 is $3.00. Pictures can be mailed to you if you will not be here this summer or are unable to pick them up. If mailed, an additional $1.00 fee will be added to your picture order.
