University installs 14 more emergency phones

in front of each residence hall were proposed by Student Affairs between 1987 and 1988.

The 14 new phones were proposed by the Security Awareness Committee in June 1990.

Almost all of the phones have been put in place by GTE. One or two phones have yet to be installed.

Kretzschmar said there were many factors involved in deciding the location of the phones, including visibility, accessibility, pedestrian traffic flow and crime statistics.

Members of the student body from organizations such as Student Government and the Residence Hall Association with help of some staff in Student Affairs made recommendations to the SAC about possible locations before the final proposal was submitted to Robert Smith, A&M vice president for finance and administration.

Cutbacks harm education, A&M officials say and parents for programs other than education?"

Margraves said the Board supports the tuition increase if the money goes to Texas schools.

"I put six kids through college, so I know what it's like to pay tuition," he said. "Out-of-state students get a bargain."

However, Mobley said the recommendations will decrease A&M's budget, even with tuition increases.

"It doesn't seem to make sense," he said. "Students pay more, and the University gets less."

Hiler said the Permanent University Fund (PUF) is also in danger from the Legislature.

"There is a possibility the PUF may be attacked," he said. "That probability may escalate in the days ahead."

Another recommendation calls for using interest earnings from school funds to support other state services.

However, Davis said this money is already used by the University to operate food services, dormitories and other services.

Mobley said the plan to take away interest earnings is a disincentive for efficiency. Not only will it penalize those engaged in good management, but it will increase costs to students, he said.

"If a dorm has a leaky roof, there is no money to fix it," Mobley said. "The one who pays is the student."

The TPR plan also calls for eliminating special item funding — "seed money" for projects like the Institute of Biosciences and Technology (IBT), the Sea Grant Program and the Cyclotron.

Mobley said programs such as these generate money for the state with federal and private support. He gave as an example the IBT, which cost the state $7.5 million and has generated $19 million.

"We use state dollars to get many other dollars," he said. "I don't think the state will find a better investment."

Programs such as the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the Texas Engineering Experiment Station and the Texas Transportation Institute are also threatened by the TPR's recommendations, Hiler said.

"All have relationships with academic programs at A&M and other schools," Hiler said. "They also stand to be adversely affected."
