Student fires shot in office of UT president

AUSTIN (AP) — A student carrying a .357 revolver Wednesday walked into the outer office of University of Texas President William Cunningham, where a shot was fired but there were no injuries, UT officials said.

UT police arrested the man, who was disarmed by an officer who happened to be on the scene, according to Ed Sharpe, UT's vice president for administration.

The shot was discharged as the officer wrestled the gun away from the 24-year-old student, Sharpe said. The bullet was imbedded in the ceiling, Sharpe said.

He added that he had no details on whether the student said anything during the incident, which occurred about noon.

"Apparently the student... was upset over school difficulties and wanted Dr. Cunningham to resign," said campus police Lt. Ronald Stolder.

"Charges are being filed for attempted capital murder," Stolder said.

Stolder said the student had withdrawn from classes Tuesday.

Cunningham at the time was not in his private office, which is on the fourth floor of the main administration building.
