U.S. accepts Iraq's promise to permit U.N. helicopters in territory

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House on Wednesday warily accepted an Iraqi promise to allow unimpeded flights by United Nations helicopters but said "all options are open" to deal with Iraq's detention of U.N. inspectors.

President Bush was putting on hold his earlier threat to escort the U.N. flights with Pentagon warplanes because Iraq had promised in writing that the U.N. effort could proceed unconditionally, press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said.

"We'll believe it when we see it, and we are watching to see what happens," Fitzwater said.

He said, the issue "has been resolved by virtue of the written assurance from Iraq that the helicopters can fly wherever they want. Period."

Senate

a $750 minimum be set for A&M students wanting to study abroad.

any A&M student wanting to study abroad in a program in which they will not receive college credit or a program not sponsored by A&M be considered for a scholarship. The program must relate to the student's major or career plans.

The Student Senate will debate and vote on the fee at its next meeting Oct. 9.

In other business, the Senate proposed a bill to put a mailbox between the Sterling C. Evans Library and the Pavilion. The bill stated there is a need for a mailbox in the area because of its convenience for students.

The Senate will vote on the bill at its next meeting.

A parking garage hang tag bill was proposed which would allow for both students and faculty who use the parking garages to have hang tags. Presently, students are issued stickers.

Brooks said some students complained about having stickers because stickers cannot be transferred to other vehicles.

A&M administrators are working to change the situation, Brooks said.

Other issues from the Senate meeting include changing shuttle bus route names, and a new policy that would allow for catered events at University center buildings be catered by Food Services.

Nazi war criminal dies in jail

LYON, France (AP) — Klaus Barbie, the Nazi war criminal known as the Butcher of Lyon for his Gestapo activities in occupied France during World War II, has died in a hospital at age 77.

The Rhone regional authorities who reported the death gave neither the day nor hour. Barbie's lawyer, Jacques Verges, had said recently that Barbie was hospitalized with terminal cancer.

Barbie was convicted of crimes against humanity in 1987 and sentenced to life imprisonment, after escaping justice for four decades.

For France, Barbie was a living symbol of the brutality of the 1941-44 German occupation, of the wartime collaboration, and the persecution of Jews in World War II, in which the French themselves played a role.

Defiant to the end, Barbie shunned his eight-week trial in Lyon, preferring to remain in his prison cell while scores of witnesses paraded to the stand. The verdict came in the early hours of July 4, 1987, ending one of the last major trials stemming from the war.

Smuggled out of Europe after the war with the complicity of the U.S. Army, he was protected by right-wing military governments in Bolivia, where he took up residence in the early 1950s.

Authorities there finally expelled him in February 1983, putting him on a plane for French Guiana where he was arrested by the French and returned to Lyon.

A dedicated Nazi since youth, Barbie never rose higher in the Nazi system than the rank of SS hauptsturmfuhrer, or captain.

ultimately could result in heart failure.

Most pulmonary embolisms originate in the legs or can be caused by previous leg injuries.

Glenn, a true freshman, turned 19 on Sept. 13. He played for Clear Creek High School last year.

The 5-foot-11-inch, 165-pound kicker kicked off three times against the University of Tulsa last Saturday. Glenn was a backup to sophomore placekicker Terry Venetoulas.

The A&M team is scheduled to play the University of Southwestern Louisiana this Saturday.

A&M head football coach R.C. Slocum canceled Wednesday's practice after notification of Glenn's death, said Colin Killian, A&M assistant sports information director.

"Words cannot describe the pain and sorrow felt by the football team, coaching staff and the entire Texas A&M family at the loss of this fine young man," Slocum said in a statement released by A&M Sports Information Department. "His family is in our thoughts and prayers."

"James was a super young man," said A&M kicking coach John Pearce. "His high school coach called us and told us he was an outstanding person, as well as an outstanding athlete - He was correct."

"James was a dedicated young man who set his goals and worked hard to achieve those goals," he said. "One of those goals was to kick for Texas A&M."

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Texas A&M certainly ranks among the nation's best universities."

The book states, "Texas A&M is well-known for superb programs in agriculture, business, education, engineering, all of the sciences, and veterinary medicine, to name a few."

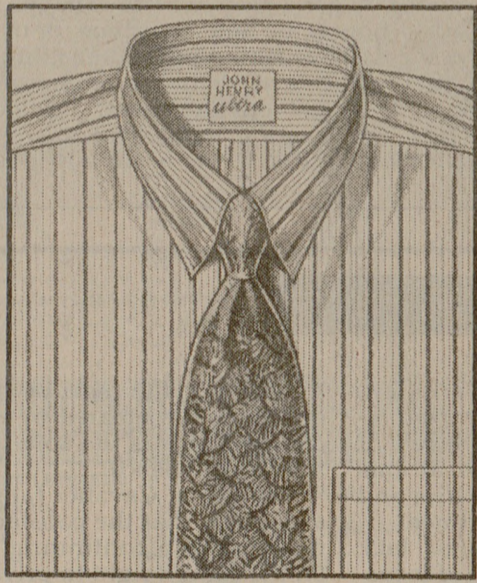

A&M President William Mobley is excited about A&M's ranking.

"The more broadly publicized A&M is, the better it is for the university. We are delighted to be in such good company," he said.

Several Texas schools were mentioned in The 1992 Guide to 101 of the Best Values in America's Colleges and Universities such as Baylor University, The University of Texas at Austin, and Rice University.

The book is distributed mainly to high school guidance counselors and to prospective college students and their parents.

The book contains information about the schools' histories and traditions, enrollment statistics, availability of financial aid, and success rates for incoming freshman. For instance, eight out of 10 incoming freshman at Texas A&M will return as sophomores.
