USL surrenders to Aggies, 34-7

By Steve O'Brien
The Battalion

On a night honoring those who served in Operation Desert Storm, A&M placekicker Terry Venetoulis and teammates remembered a fallen friend. The events of the past week seemed to do little to the Aggies' performance Saturday as they cruised to a 34-7 victory over the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

An A&M defensive storm raged, allowing USL only seven points and 234 yards of total offense.

A&M improved its record to 2-1 on the season and USL fell to 0-5 in front of 56,271 at Kyle Field.

The Aggies travel to Lubbock Saturday to face Texas Tech in their conference opener.

After their victory over USL, Venetoulis and a number of Aggies knelt at the spot where freshman kicker James Glenn collapsed and died during practice last week. The players quietly prayed as fireworks lit the sky over Kyle Field.

"We got together there and said a round of prayers around the group of us," Atkinson said. "We were praying for him (Glenn) and his family and

A&M defense pounds USL

A week after allowing the Tulsa Hurricanes to score 25 second-half points in a 35-34 loss, the Texas A&M defense needed a strong showing against Southwestern Louisiana. It needed to put the "Wreckin' Crew" back into the Mission accomplished.

Not only did the Aggies stop the Cajuns' Triple-Option attack, they dismantled it with six quarterback sacks and five fumbles.

USL quarterback Tyjuan Hayes was badgered all night either by a blitzing inside linebacker or a surging defensive line. The most vicious hit Hayes received came with a little over a minute remaining in the first half.

The Cajuns were at the A&M 27 when Hayes dropped back and looked to his left, oblivious to a streaking Steve Solari. As Hayes took his last step, Solari ripped through him, separating Hayes from the ball and some of his senses. Marcus Buckley recovered the loose ball and the Aggies eventually got a 44-yard field goal from Terry Venetoulis to take a 27-0 halftime lead.

USL totaled 94 yards in the first half against the bulk of A&M's first-team defense. A&M was without All-American and Butkus Award candidate Quentin Coryatt on Saturday, who was out with a dislocated shoulder.

In Coryatt's absence, inside
