Budget cuts in the English Department number of technical writing courses offered this semester, but Mitchell says working to minimize the impact.

Because of this year, the department has seven lecturers of technical writing. He said that a English 210 and 110, also.

"Losing all an effective loss technical writing deal with," he said. "I think we've bases."

To complete the program has raised the limit by two students. Mitchell said, "I think we've bases."

Graduate students signed specific Mitchell said department is about how the even larger budget cuts next year. He said that the sections lost in the easily double the year.

"A second terrible effect very little slack cuts go through, exclusively graduate students. We're just at our long term cause we're to the short term. We're doing tide."
