proactive approach," she said.

An MSC Hospitality group will perform a skit on cultural awareness Tuesday at noon. Also, the workshop "Origami: The Art of Paper Folding," will take place at 12:30 p.m. in 292 MSC.

Bekmann said students will be given paper and Dr. James Yao, head of the civil engineering department, will demonstrate the ancient oriental art of paper folding in a hands-on workshop.

Students will work in target groups trying to solve actual campus conflicts in the role-playing workshop. The role playing will take place Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in 292 in the MSC and is being coordinated by Student Affairs.

A PBS video about the history of buffalo-hunting warriors, entitled "The Spirit of Crazy Horse," is to be shown at noon on Wednesday. Also, "The Killing Fields" will be shown at 6 p.m. Both presentations will be viewed in room 292 of the MSC.

Readings from Chicano authors, including Sandra Cisneros, will be read in the flag room at noon and 1 p.m. April 2. There also will be cultural display tables in the MSC between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The second TAMU Diversity Awards presentation will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. in room 206 of the MSC, with six categories: student organizations, support staff, professional staff, administrators, faculty and students.

The multicultural week will end with the fifth annual conference "Hispanics... What the Future Holds" presented by the Committee for the Awareness of Mexican-American Culture on April 3 and 4.

Prosecutors question Foley's wife

WASHINGTON (AP) — When federal prosecutors wanted to find out what was going on at the scandal-ridden House post office, they went to the top.

Not to Speaker Tom Foley, but to his wife.

Heather Foley has run her husband's congressional office for 23 years — without pay. As her husband's stature has increased, so has her influence.

Mrs. Foley's recent appearance before a federal grand jury pushed her into the harsh glare of public scrutiny that has fallen on Congress as its multiple scandals widen.

It also touched off speculation that she was under investigation, prompting the U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia to issue a letter last week stating that she "was neither a subject nor a target" of the investigation.

Mrs. Foley is a widely known and warily regarded figure on Capitol Hill, a puzzle and a power, shy and reclusive, feared and respected.

"What's wrong with her is she is the boss' wife," said one House Democrat. "Nobody could go to Foley and say, 'Heather's doing wrong by you.' That's what happens when you have a spouse involved in your office. The other staffers just cannot betray the spouse of the speaker."

That congressman declined to be identified by name, as did nearly everyone else interviewed about Mrs. Foley.

Since her marriage to the young Democratic congressman from Washington state, Heather Strachan Foley has been her husband's chief of staff.
